Carter Happy His Church Votes 'Open-Door' Policy

By JAMES GERSTENZANG

Associated Press Writer

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — President-elect Jimmy Carter says that when his small Baptist church decided during an emotional meeting to drop racial barriers "I was just one of the church members."

He later welcomed a black man to a worship service.

Carter, according to his fellow Baptists, exerted no pressure during the two and three-quarter hour meeting Sunday. Nonetheless, the congregation voted to do what he has advocated since 1963.

It opened the church doors to all who want to worship, regardless of race. And it voted to retain the pastor who agreed with Carter's pro-integration stand. The Rev. Mr. Bruce Edwards.

The church also set up a screening committee consisting of the pastor and four deacons to be elected by the congregation in about two weeks.

Carter said the committee would question prospective members "about whether their intent is sincere." He said "the understanding is that this will not be based on racial considerations."

Although Carter did not lobby heavily during the meeting to sway the vote, his status put another kind of pressure on the congregation, symbolized by the dozens of reporters and hundreds of tourists who waited outside the church in the rain for the decision.

"We felt the whole world was looking at Plains today," said one of the church's deacons, Frank Williams.

The church decision began a week for Carter in which he planned to hold a news conference today at the auditorium of the Southwest Georgia Agricultural Experimentation Station near here. Wednesday, he will meet with Vice President-elect Walter F. Mondale and congressional leaders near Atlanta.

The church controversy was started by the Rev. Mr. Clemen King, a non-denominational minister from Albany, Ga., one-time Republican gubernatorial candidate and civil rights activist. Just before the Nov. 2 election, he tried unsuccessfully to join the church in a move many saw as an effort to embarrass Carter.

Sunday, he waited in the rain and said after the votes were announced, "I think it's wonderful. It vindicates the church. It vindicates the people of Plains."

Southern whites, he said, "may growl and grumble, but they're the sweetest white folks on earth."

The Rev. Mr. King did not avail himself of the opportunity to attend the evening service later Sunday.

Carter spoke to a number of the deacons before the closed meeting, and also spoke to the meeting before the secret ballots were cast, according to his press secretary, Jody Powell.

Williams, a competitor of the Carter family in the peanut business, said that inside the church "everybody had an opportunity to speak their piece, and nothing was forced on them."

Did Carter exert any pressure?

"I don't think Jimmy could do that," Williams said. "There's been no pressure brought to bear, no one put on the spot. They had a secret ballot. When you have that, a fellow can vote his conscience."

Carter attended an evening service Sunday with about 85 other persons. Including the black Secret Service agent who frequently accompanies him to church. The whites-only policy, adopted in 1965, had been ignored for black reporters, agents and the tourists who came to Plains during Carter's candidacy, until the Rev. Mr. King publicly challenged it.

Midway through the service, a black man from Selma, N.C., Roger Sessions, entered the church and sat in the pew in front of Carter. The president-elect later shook his hand and told him, "I'm glad you came tonight."

At the conference, the congregation first voted 107 to 84 against a resolution calling for the immediate dismissal of the Rev. Mr. Edwards, who publicly disagreed with the deacons' initial decision to uphold the 1965 policy.

Then the congregation set up the committee to screen applicants for church membership. Finally, it voted 120 to

Claims MIA's Seen In Saigon

FRASER, Mich. (AP) — An American engineer has told Veterans of Foreign Wars officials here that about 275 missing American servicemen were seen earlier this year in Saigon, according to the Macomb Daily.

Past VFW Cdr. Nelson Amsdill told the newspaper his post had received the information, but he would not name the source.

The Macomb Daily said it had also learned the same source has been in contact with the U.S. House Select Committee on Missing Persons in Southeast Asia.

Amsdill said the source of the information is "a man who has held high posts in the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and is a man with contacts in Singapore and Vietnam."

In a letter last July to Amsdill, the American engineer wrote, "This information on MIAs in Saigon is common knowledge out here, but it's kept hush for obvious reasons. They (MIAs) do not want to come home because they have families in Vietnam," the American engineer wrote.

"What I'm trying to say is that most of the MIAs aren't missing. They are working in Hanoi and other cities close to the Chinese border," he added.

One of the last Americans to leave Vietnam told the House Select Committee in September he had heard a colony of about 200 Americans was living near the Chinese border.

In a letter last month to Angus McDonald, staff director of the House committee on missing persons, the same American engineer wrote, "We've talked to reliable men who were the last to leave Saigon after the U.S. evacuation in 1973. Immediately, the Communists moved some American POWs and MIAs into Saigon to work at the abandoned American air bases."

Amsdill said Fraser VFW officials have had the information since July. "But we've kept it under wraps for security reasons."

The Fraser VFW post launched an MIA petition drive earlier this year to try and force the Vietnamese to account for the American servicemen who are listed as missing in action. President Ford signed one of the petitions, which Amsdill and two other VFW officials took to Paris in June.

Peking Rocked By Earthquake

TOKYO (AP) — A strong earthquake rocked Peking at 9:45 p.m. today (8:45 a.m. EDT). Japan's Kyodo news service reported from the Chinese capital.

The report said the quake felt stronger than the devastating earthquake which struck Tangshan in north China on July 28. No other details were immediately available.

Lawmakers Return For Bill Mop-Up

By MALCOLM JOHNSON

Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — State lawmakers return tonight for an end-of-the-year "mop-up" session that may produce some fireworks as crucial legislation flies or dies in the final days.

The legislature is expected to work a month, at most, including a long Thanksgiving day weekend. And Dec. 31 spells the end of the two-year session, meaning all bills short of the governor's desk have to wait until January and a fresh start through the minefields of committee and floor debate.

The session will also see the normal last-minute flood of technical and special-interest lawmaking, as major bills overlooked until now are suddenly hustled through under the wire.

Legislative leaders have set an ambitious agenda for the brief session, but it is doubtful a large number of major bills will make it through. The session-ending deadline may, however, break logjams on certain controversial bills which few want to kill, but which haven't produced agreement so far. The schedule of bills which may see action reads like an optimistic program for a full two years.

A statewide transportation program, which may see some initial discussion but is extremely unlikely to win final approval. The method of financing a total transportation

Detroit Police Find Order Easy To Fill

DETROIT (AP) — There's nothing funny about Detroit's crime problems, but sometimes it helps if you can keep your sense of humor — especially if you're a Motor City cop. So it was kind of hard last week for Detroit homicide detectives to keep straight faces when they read the message on their teletype printer from the Presque Isle County sheriff's office in the northeastern reaches of Lower Michigan. The sheriff asked to hear from "any department having unsolved murders, kidnappings, assaults or armed robberies" in which the suspect used sauced-off shotguns or knives. Said one Detroit homicide detective: "Ah, hell, let's send them the first 200."

History Favors Mud Slinging

Every quadrennium as Democrats and Republicans set themselves to win the White House and as many possible of the House and Senates up for a decision, the incantation is raised to the effect that hopefully this time there will not be any mud slinging, and that the candidates will address themselves rather than to personalities.

It's a good thought which founders on two weaknesses.

Few people can take opposite positions on any proposition, in or out of politics, without personalizing on the subject matter under debate.

History itself is on the side of mud slinging as a means of dramatizing the

It Looks Like Walter Will Be Silent Veep, Too

Sen. Walter Mondale, soon to be vice president of the United States, got off to something of an inauspicious state as the "activist" number two man he says he will be. At the winning team's first news conference, billed as a joint appearance, Sen. Mondale was not asked a single question nor did he speak.

That is not such an unusual situation, nor does it mean the vice president-elect will have little to do after January 20. His duties may be many, they may be difficult and they may be varied. But one role no President can afford to delegate to his subordinate is that of spokesman for the administration.

That is the chief executive's role, exclusively. As time passes, the vice president-elect no doubt will host his own news conferences to talk about his activities. But when the President is at the podium, the vice president will remain just another figure in the crowd.

You Know Who The Lord Helps

Wassily Leontief, the Nobel Prize-winning economist, has a word of advice for the underdeveloped countries. They will need some assistance from the developed nations, he agrees, but most of the progress they need is going to have to come from their own initiatives.

"The principal limits to sustained economic growth and accelerated development," the economist adds, "are political, social and institutional in character rather than physical."

Developing agricultural growth is a prime necessity in the poor countries. Many of them have the physical resources, but so far have not made the economic decisions necessary to begin the development process.

George Washington, revered as the Father of His Country and elected twice to the Presidency by acclamation, was the first to catch the dirt.

His Vice President, John Adams, who differed strongly with Washington on foreign policy, referred frequently to his senior as "old muttonhead."

Before Washington concluded his second term, many newspapers openly called him a dictator. One Philadelphia editor penned, "If ever a nation was debauched by a man, the American nation was debauched by Washington."

Alexander Hamilton attacked Thomas Jefferson as a "concealed voluptuary in the plain garb of Quaker simplicity."

John Quincy Adams lamented electioneering for the Presidency has spread its contagion to the President (James Monroe) himself.

Yet once in office as the President, the second Adams was accused of extravagance, corruption, and sending a seductive young woman to seduce the Russian czar in the hope of gaining favor for the U.S.

His perennial opponent, Andrew Jackson, drew constant accusations of thief, liar, adulterer, drunkard, gambler and murderer.

James K. Polk won the 1844 election despite a last minute fake letter by a man who claimed he saw Polk buy and brand 43 slaves.

Similarly, James A. Garfield overcame an 11th hour forgery of his signature to a letter favoring the importation of Chinese labor, then a piece of political dynamite.

The most strident of all campaigns came four years later.

The followers of James G. Blaine charged Grover Cleveland with fathering an illegitimate child, a complaint he never denied.

The Democrats circulated stories of Blaine being anti-Catholic and an influence peddler for the railroads.

The Republicans turned the tables on Cleveland in the subsequent campaign. They tricked the British ambassador into a signed endorsement of Cleveland. This carried the day for Benjamin Harrison with New York City's heavily populated Irish vote that was virulently anti-English.

Before and throughout the Civil War, many newspaper artists libelled Lincoln beyond recognition. One cartoon affixed his face to the body of a baboon.

Horace Greeley who ran against General Grant in 1868 met a blizzard of ignominy. He was pictured, among other things, as having once been in a lunatic asylum.

Following Grant's election, Greeley remarked he did not know if he was running for the Presidency or the penitentiary.

In more modern times the 1928 contest between Al Smith and Herbert Hoover took on acidulous overtones. The Republicans declared Smith's election would put the Pope in the White House.

In his second, third and fourth successful bids for the Presidency, FDR was assailed as a squanderer whom his parents had made the object of a spendthrift trust.

Harry Truman survived his one campaign for a full term over claims he was a charter member in the crooked Pendergast machine at Kansas City, Missouri. His would be successor, Adlai Stevenson, lost out to Eisenhower because he could not overcome the misdoings of several Truman appointees to high office.

Four years ago George McGovern was not pined with the barbs thrown at earlier candidates, but he did fall prey to the generalization that his ideas on taxing and spending clearly made him out to be some kind of an economic nut.

The Ford-Carter battle is one of the few wherein the personal invective was at a minimum.

It was all the more strange because the voting went pretty much by a judgment on their personalities. Issues definitely took second place.

It is doubtful this signifies an improvement upon history.

It simply reflects a shadow boxing campaign.

Four years hence, history could easily reassert its gutsy vigor.

EXTEND THROWAWAY BAN TO WINE, LIQUOR

Editor,

The election results showed overwhelming support for the Bottle Bill. At first I found it difficult to understand, in view of the popularity of the higher priced throwaways.

Then I found an explanation. Not all voters buy and consume those beverages. Most of those who do, are considerate enough to dispose of the empties neatly. But the minority of users, who dump them indiscriminately along the roadside, on the beaches, in the parks or in the wilderness, aroused the rest of the voters enough with their irresponsible behavior to get them to vote for the bill.

Unfortunately, that thoughtless minority has not only spoiled it for themselves, but also for the majority. Now we are all restricted by the law we voted for, and no longer can we avail ourselves of the convenience of non-returnables when the occasion warrants it.

Next we should expand the ban to wine and liquor bottles, which at present may not legally be refilled. That would further purify our environment. And after that, a deposit on orange juice bottles, pickle jars and tin cans may further conserve our resources.

Sure hope we can reach those goals well enough without passing more laws!

Here's Carter Style In Jokes

WASHINGTON (KFS) — Does Jimmy Carter have a sense of humor? Not so's you could tell during the presidential campaign.

There are those who believe that the only barrier between an intense politician and the Nixon syndrome is healthy laughter, at one's self as well as at others. Certainly it wouldn't hurt.

Carter laughs at other's sallies, all right, and we all know he smiles a lot. But an informal survey of these reporters who spent the better part of nine months with him turns up few memories of funny exchanges or jokes to warm up the audience.

In fairness, John Kennedy made it tough for every president who has followed. He genuinely was a witty fellow, quick with the one-line quip that looks funny even in print. Lyndon Johnson wasn't much good with repartee, but he told some of the funniest, earthiest political stories ever heard. He also had a White House task force assigned to think up gag lines for him.

Richard Nixon wouldn't have recognized a humorous tale if it came up, tapped him on the shoulder and said, "I'm a humorous tale." But he too hired staff help to produce clever lines for him to utter.

The Carter presidency clearly is not going to be a riot of giggles, even if Carter hires a comedian to soften his image. Not, mind you, that it should be one big ice-ber. There's just this nagging feeling that a sense of humor is a big leveler in the imperial presidency.

Pat Anderson, Carter's chief speechwriter, was asked recently whether the new President did indeed have a buried sense of humor somewhere. He insisted that he had heard Carter tell "a

A Word For You

Rhodesian Plan In Bungled

Senior U.S. officials familiar with the thinking of Chairman Kissinger indicate his deep disappointment in the way the British have bungled the Geneva negotiations on Rhodesia. As I noted here over a month ago, Kissinger's great safari to southern Africa was a charade from start to finish. But, in his characteristically charitable fashion, he is now dumping the detritus on the British doorstep. Predictably the sleepwalkers, the journalists who were on the African shuttle, now have a vested interest in the Chairman's cover story — it covers them too.

To recapitulate the bidding, in early October the official word was that Kissinger had worked out a deal between the Ian Smith regime in Rhodesia and the five "front-line" African presidents for peaceful transition to black majority rule. Allegedly this scenario encompassed a two-year period of transition in which the Rhodesian whites would retain control over the security forces and a Council of State, designed to work out details. Kissinger told Smith that the five black presidents had approved it; Smith took his word and publicly announced acceptance. Kissinger, who is no mean hand at passing the black spot, promptly designated this the "Smith Plan," called for a conference, and took off for Washington in a blaze of glory.

Meanwhile, back in their kraals the five African presidents were breathing fire and telling all and sundry that they had not accepted the "Smith Plan." Indeed, President Kenneth Kuanda of Zambia — one of the most responsible African statesmen — went public with the late Mao's notable contribution to Marxist theory: "Power comes from the barrel of a gun."

Once Kissinger had solved the impasse, the details could be worked out at the Geneva Conference with the extremely reluctant British stuck with the chairmanship. The logic was that, since Britain had never accepted Rhodesia's 1965 Unilateral Declaration of Independence, the Labor government was in loco parentis to the white settler regime. Prime Minister James Callaghan, who presumably listened to the same British news analyses I did, instantly spotted the Geneva Conference as a bad trip and tried to downgrade it by sending Ivor Richards, Her Majesty's U.N. Ambassador, to chair the sessions instead of Foreign Secretary Anthony Crosland.

Predictably, the representatives of the various Rhodesian black nationalist groups rejected the Smith (alias Kissinger) Plan.

On the other side of the hill, Ian Smith had announced at the time he accepted the then "Kissinger Plan" that a precondition for any negotiations was the total cessation of guerrilla warfare in Rhodesia. The nationalists have completely ignored this understandable position: They are operating the familiar Communist technique, "Talk, Talk, Fight, Fight."

number of jokes," but he was hard-pressed to come up with an example.

Finally, Anderson produced this as a favorite Carter gag: A shy divinity student enters a restaurant and sits down at a table, alone. A beautiful woman promptly joins him at the table. The bashful chap warns her that he isn't very good at socializing and doesn't go out with girls.

"You want to go up to your room?" she replies loudly. Heads turn their way and the student blushes. "And spend the night," she adds, even louder.

"Please, why are you doing this?" she student asks in embarrassment.

She smiles back sweetly. "Don't be upset," she says. "I'm studying psychology and the professor said we should put someone in an embarrassing position and see what response we get."

The student smiles back. "Fifty dollars?" he says loudly.

End of joke. Not bad, actually. I came upon another one, longer and more involved, which Carter told during a speech about health care in Florida. The point, roughly, was that it's hard to get a message across: Much summarized, it goes like this:

A father is trying to teach his two boys to stop swearing. One says, at breakfast, "Please pass the dum grits." The father knocks the boy to the floor. Then he turns to the other son and asks him what he thinks of that.

"Well, I'm darn well not going to have any of them grils," the boy says.

End of joke two. Maybe those two are representative, maybe not. Anyway, we have four years in which to find out. Now that I think about it, Gerald Ford wasn't so witty either.

Were it left to me to decide whether we should have government without newspapers or newspapers without government, I should not hesitate to prefer the latter. — Thomas Jefferson.

History Favors Mud Slinging

Every quadrennium as Democrats and Republicans set themselves to win the White House and as many possible of the House and Senates up for a decision, the incantation is raised to the effect that hopefully this time there will not be any mud slinging, and that the candidates will address themselves rather than to personalities.

It's a good thought which founders on two weaknesses.

Few people can take opposite positions on any proposition, in or out of politics, without personalizing on the subject matter under debate.

History itself is on the side of mud slinging as a means of dramatizing the philosophical differences between candidates.

George Washington, revered as the Father of His Country and elected twice to the Presidency by acclamation, was the first to catch the dirt.

His Vice President, John Adams, who differed strongly with Washington on foreign policy, referred frequently to his senior as "old muttonhead."

Before Washington concluded his second term, many newspapers openly called him a dictator. One Philadelphia editor poison panned, "If ever a nation was debauched by a man, the American nation was debauched by Washington."

Alexander Hamilton attacked Thomas Jefferson as a "concealed voluptuary in the plain garb of Quaker simplicity."

John Quincy Adams lamented electioneering for the Presidency has spread its contagion to the President (James Monroe) himself.

Yet once in office as the President, the second Adams was accused of extravagance, corruption, and sending a seductive young woman to seduce the Russian czar in the hope of gaining favor for the U.S.

His perennial opponent, Andrew Jackson, drew constant accusations of thief, liar, adulterer, drunkard, gambler and murderer.

James K. Polk won the 1844 election despite a last minute fake letter by a man who claimed he saw Polk buy and brand 43 slaves.

Similarly, James A. Garfield overcame an 11th hour forgery of his signature to a letter favoring the importation of Chinese labor, then a piece of political dynamite.

The most strident of all campaigns came four years later.

The followers of James G. Blaine charged Grover Cleveland with fathering an illegitimate child, a complaint he never denied.

The Democrats circulated stories of Blaine being anti-Catholic and an influence peddler for the railroads.

The Republicans turned the tables on Cleveland in the subsequent campaign. They tricked the British ambassador into a signed endorsement of Cleveland. This carried the day for Benjamin Harrison with New York City's heavily populated Irish vote that was virulently anti-English.

Before and throughout the Civil War, many newspaper artists libelled Lincoln beyond recognition. One cartoon affixed his face to the body of a baboon.

Horace Greeley who ran against General Grant in 1868 met a blizzard of ignominy. He was pictured, among other things, as having once been in a lunatic asylum.

Following Grant's election, Greeley remarked he did not know if he was running for the Presidency or the penitentiary.

In more modern times the 1928 contest between Al Smith and Herbert Hoover took on acidulous overtones. The Republicans declared Smith's election would put the Pope in the White House.

In his second, third and fourth successful bids for the Presidency, FDR was assailed as a squanderer whom his parents had made the object of a spendthrift trust.

Harry Truman survived his one campaign for a full term over claims he was a charter member in the crooked Pendergast machine at Kansas City, Missouri. His would be successor, Adlai Stevenson, lost out to Eisenhower because he could not overcome the misdoings of several Truman appointees to high office.

Four years ago George McGovern was not pinned with the barbs thrown at earlier candidates, but he did fall prey to the generalization that his ideas on taxing and spending clearly made him out to be some kind of an economic nut.

The Ford-Carter battle is one of the few wherein the personal invective was at a minimum.

It was all the more strange because the voting went pretty much by a judgment on their personalities. Issues definitely took second place.

It is doubtful this signifies an improvement upon history.

It simply reflects a shadow boxing campaign.

Four years hence, history could easily reassert its gutsy vigor.

neglected to say that the Central Y has not been getting good participation either, especially in the Youth Division. The future of the Y.M.C.A. in Benton Harbor will depend upon several factors. Many of these factors have not yet been brought to the surface. Perhaps the present administration has no intention of resolving these stumbling blocks for it might mean a reversal in their present plans.

In the past many ideas have been presented to the Central Y administration and board for their consideration to help in developing programs and facilities for the Branch Y, but they have never been acted upon. It appears to me that perhaps the Southwestern Michigan Baptist Ministerial Alliance have been given a task that belongs to the professional staff of the Benton Harbor-St. Joseph Y.M.C.A., after all the final decision will be theirs.

EXTEND THROWAWAY BAN TO WINE, LIQUOR

Editor.

The election results showed overwhelming support for the Bottle bill. At first I found it difficult to understand, in view of the popularity of the higher priced throwaways.

Then I found an explanation. Not all voters buy and consume those beverages. Most of those who do, are considerate enough to dispose of the empties neatly. But the minority of users, who dump them indiscriminately along the roadside, on the beaches, in the parks or in the wilderness, aroused the rest of the voters enough with their irresponsible behavior to get them to vote for the bill.

Unfortunately, that thoughtless minority has not only spoiled it for themselves, but also for the majority. Now we are all restricted by the law we voted for, and no longer can we avail ourselves of the convenience of non-returnables when the occasion warrants it.

Next we should expand the ban to wine and liquor bottles, which at present may not legally be refilled. That would further purify our environment. And after that, a deposit on orange juice bottles, pickle jars and tin cans may further conserve our resources.

Sure hope we can reach those goals well enough without passing more laws!

Wassily Leontief, the Nobel Prize-winning economist, has a word of advice for the underdeveloped countries. They will need some assistance from the developed nations, he agrees, but most of the progress they need is going to have to come from their own initiatives.

"The principal limits to sustained economic growth and accelerated development," the economist adds, "are political, social and institutional in character rather than physical."

Developing agricultural growth is a prime necessity in the poor countries. Many of them have the physical resources, but so far have not made the economic decisions necessary to begin the development process.

VICTIM: David Jones, 31, formerly of Fairplain, was shot and killed Nov. 7 as he went to get his car in parking lot near Olympia stadium in Detroit. (AP Wirephoto)

Youth Home Escapee Charged With Killing

DETROIT (AP) — A 17-year-old Detroit youth charged with the slaying of a suburban executive outside Olympia Stadium was an escapee from a county youth home where he was being held on an unrelated second-degree murder charge.

Rutherford Massenburg stood mute at his arraignment Sunday in Detroit Recorder's Court on first-degree murder and armed robbery charges in the shooting death of David Jones, 31, of Farmington Hills.

Jones, a mortgage firm executive, was a former resident of Fairplain and a 1963 graduate of Benton Harbor high school. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Jones, formerly of 1843 Commonwealth, Fairplain and now of Holiday, Fla. His wife, Catherine, is the daughter of Mrs. Helen Beal of Stevensville and the late Frederick Beal.

Massenburg's mother, Olivia Massenburg, said her son had been living with her since his escape from the Wayne County Youth home Sept. 28. She said police did not contact her until last week, when her son was arrested for the Olympia slaying.

asked," she said. "I didn't even know he was out at first until I went down there to visit him. They said, 'Oh no, Didn't you know that he escaped?'"

She said he later returned to live in her apartment near Olympia. Massenburg was arrested there Friday night.

Police said Massenburg had been in the youth home waiting a hearing to determine if he would be tried as an adult in the other killing.

Massenburg and five others escaped from the youth home after staging a rock fight and stealing a supervisor's gun during the confusion.

Mrs. Massenburg said she thought her son was arrested because of his record, but said she did not believe he killed Jones.

Jones was slain Nov. 7 as he walked alone to his car in a parking lot across the street from Olympia after attending a tennis match and late night reception.

Plan Won't Affect Local Blood Drives

By RALPH LUTZ
Staff Writer

The withdrawal by the American Red Cross from the American Association of Blood Banks Clearinghouse will have no effect on the local Red Cross blood donor campaigns, according to Mrs. Barbara A. Cooke, executive director, Berrien Red Cross chapter.

Mrs. Cooke said the clearinghouse is a private nationwide center for processing paper accounts, and the Red Cross pulled out to save money and create more efficiency. She said the clearinghouse did not handle blood. It provided for a fee the transfer of paper credits for blood replacement and served to help settle patients' accounts.

The Red Cross withdrew from the system last month.

Carol Green, blood coordinator for the Berrien chapter, said the Red Cross has established a new Blood Supply Assistance plan. Mrs. Green said there will be no exchange of patients' names and usage. The plan provides for inventory sharing by Red Cross centers with assigned blood banks according to actual blood needs.

Blood distribution will be based on the designation of a single Red Cross regional center to serve a specific geographic area. Mrs. Green said.

Both Mrs. Green and Mrs. Cooke emphasized that withdrawal from the clearinghouse will not create any hardships on donors or affect the donor drive. They said the geographic center for the Berrien Red Cross chapter will continue to be in Lansing. Blood donated locally is sent to Lansing for processing and then shipped to area hospitals, as needed. All paperwork needed also will be done at the regional center.

Mrs. Green said that all Berrien county residents are covered for their blood needs through the local program. She added that if a Berrien resident is hospitalized outside the county, that hospital should be notified that the patient is from Berrien county, and blood needed will be supplied.

SJ Girl, 13, Is Hit By Car

St. Joseph police reported Marcia Elaine Pavlides, 13, sustained apparently minor injuries Sunday when she was struck by a car while she was walking on Lake View avenue near Wallace avenue about 9 p.m. Sunday.

Marcia, of 2808 Veronica drive, St. Joseph, was released after treatment for cuts and bruises at Memorial hospital. Driver of the car, Scott Robert Cowgill, 16, of 5235 Cleveland avenue, Stevensville, was uninjured and no tickets were issued. He told police he did not see the girl until he heard his vehicle hit her and she landed on the hood. Police said the girl was walking at the side of the road in an area where there were no street lights and she had on dark clothing.

In two other traffic accidents over the weekend:

State police of the Benton Harbor post said Ronald S.

McIntosh, 32, Memphis, Tenn., was injured when his car went off Jericho road at Linco road. Lincoln township, and struck a tree shortly after 10 p.m. Sunday. McIntosh was released after treatment at Memorial hospital and troopers said no tickets were issued.

Berrien sheriff's deputies said Elizabeth Lagal, 74, Cicero, Ill., was injured about 8:30 a.m. Saturday, when a taxicab she was riding in went out of control and into a ditch off I-94 in Chikaming township.

Mrs. Lagal was treated and released from St. Anthony's hospital, Michigan City, Ind.

Cab driver, John H. Scott, 52, Chicago, was reported uninjured and no summonses were issued, it was reported. Deputies said it appeared the cab went out of control when a tire blew out. The cab is owned by Yellow Cab Co., Chicago, deputies reported.

Youth Home Escapee Charged With Killing

DETROIT (AP) — A 17-year-old Detroit youth charged with the slaying of a suburban executive outside Olympia Stadium was an escapee from a county youth home where he was being held on an unrelated second-degree murder charge.

Rutherford Massenburg stood mute at his arraignment Sunday in Detroit Recorder's Court on first-degree murder and armed robbery charges in the shooting death of David Jones, 31, of Farmington Hills.

Jones, a mortgage firm executive, was a former resident of Fairplain and a 1963 graduate of Benton Harbor high school. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Jones, formerly of 1843 Commonwealth, Fairplain and now of Holiday, Fla. His wife, Catherine, is the daughter of Mrs. Helen Beal of Stevensville and the late Frederick Beal.

A plea of innocent was entered for Massenburg and he was remanded to the Wayne County Jail without bond pending a Nov. 18 preliminary exam.

Massenburg's mother, Olivia Massenburg, said her son had been living with her since his escape from the Wayne County Youth home Sept. 28. She said police did not contact her until last week, when her son was arrested for the Olympia slaying.

"They never came and asked," she said. "I didn't even know he was out at first until I went down there to visit him. They said, 'Oh no. Didn't you know that he escaped?'"

She said he later returned to live in her apartment near Olympia. Massenburg was arrested there Friday night.

Police said Massenburg had been in the youth home waiting a hearing to determine if he would be tried as an adult in the other killing.

Massenburg and five others escaped from the youth home after staging a mock fight and stealing a supervisor's gun during the confusion.

Mrs. Massenburg said she thought her son was arrested because of his record, but said she did not believe he killed Jones.

Jones was slain Nov. 7 as he walked alone to his car in a parking lot across the street from Olympia after attending a tennis match and late night reception.

Finis Ferguson, 71, apartment 709, Harbor Towers, 250 East Wall street, told firemen he got on the elevator at the first floor about 9 p.m. but the exterior door would not open at the fifth floor. He was unhurt.

Plan Won't Affect Local Blood Drives

Staff Writer

The withdrawal by the American Red Cross from the American Association of Blood Banks Clearinghouse will have no effect on the local Red Cross blood donor campaigns, according to Mrs. Barbara A. Cooke, executive director, Berrien Red Cross chapter.

Mrs. Cooke said the clearinghouse is a private nationwide center for processing paper accounts, and the Red Cross pulled out to save money and create more efficiency. She said the clearinghouse did not handle blood. It provided for a fee the transfer of paper credits for blood replacement and served to help settle patients' accounts.

The Red Cross withdrew from the system last month.

Carol Green, blood coordinator for the Berrien chapter, said the Red Cross has established a new Blood Supply Assistance plan. Mrs. Green said there will be no exchange of patients' names and usage. The plan provides for inventory sharing by Red Cross centers with assigned blood banks according to actual blood needs.

Blood distribution will be based on the designation of a single Red Cross regional center to serve a specific geographic area, Mrs. Green said.

Both Mrs. Green and Mrs. Cooke emphasized that withdrawal from the clearinghouse will not create any hardships on donors or affect the donor drive. They said the geographic center for the Berrien Red Cross chapter will continue to be in Lansing. Blood donated locally is sent to Lansing for processing and then shipped to area hospitals, as needed. All paperwork needed also will be done at the regional center.

Mrs. Green said that all Berrien county residents are covered for their blood needs through the local program. She added that if a Berrien resident is hospitalized outside the county, that hospital should be notified that the patient is from Berrien county, and blood needed will be supplied.

Four Keys For Freedom

By MARYANNE BUTT
Staff Writer

The endangered American legacy of freedom can be preserved only by maintaining four necessary keys, according to Judge Chester Byrns of the Berrien circuit court.

Those keys include the character of the American people, the Constitutional system, free enterprise, and leadership. Judge Byrns told members of Algonquin Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, Nov. 11 at Berrien Hills Country club, Benton Harbor.

Speaking on the topic, "Remove Not Our Legacy," Judge Byrns said "Our legacy can be described in one word — freedom — and our legacy, or our freedom, is currently in danger."

There was a feeling among our industrious forefathers of concerned brotherhood and of sharing, according to Judge Byrns. With human and animal power only they created "a great young nation, a new civilization, from a wilderness."

He said today some Americans are fighting for a 30-hour work week; today, sharing and helping of one's fellow man is achieved mainly through a governmental welfare system; today Americans are satisfied with poor products and services, and today some Americans are accepting "barnyard morals."

Judge Byrns said that the Constitution of the United States is perhaps the noblest document ever written. "Never has man developed a system in which the individual can control the government and the government cannot take control of the people unless the people don't care." And today, he added, "Many people don't care." He said there is no greater threat to American freedom than "indifference to government," which is evident throughout American institutions.

He said this is the day and age of amending the Constitution, noting that America survived for many years on 10 amendments, yet today groups are constantly trying to tag amendments onto this great document. He said as long as Americans have their Constitution, just that long will there be freedom.

"Free enterprise," he said, "is the basis for our present strength." There must be reasonable controls on the free enterprise system, he said, but not to the point of strangulation. "Without free enterprise, we don't have our freedom."

"Under our present system, leadership reflects the electorate," according to Judge Byrns. Americans are experiencing a severe "poverty of leadership," he said, noting that it would be difficult to find 10 leaders in this country today who could compare with some of the great leaders of the past.

Americans must make certain they have the choice between the very best possible candidates at all levels of government, he said. "If we lose confidence in leadership, we have lost confidence in ourselves."

He added that with the attitude that "politics are no good," America will never have able leadership.

Holiday Turkeys Plump And Plentiful

It is beginning to look a lot like Thanksgiving at area supermarkets, as produce counters take out a festive look and retail freezer cabinets are filling up with turkeys. If homemakers choose from the better values, their Thanksgiving dinner can easily cost less than a year ago, according to Maryann Beckman, District Extension Consumer Marketing Information Agent.

Mrs. Beckman says: Turkeys are plump and plentiful this year, with an increase in production of seven to 11 percent over last year. Though carryover stocks are down and 1978 consumption up, there will still be more birds available, making turkey an excellent value for the rest of the year.

That means retail specials may be as low as 39 cents a pound for large size birds, with a minimum of $10 to $15 purchase of other foods. The loss leaders are likely to be generally in the high 40's, however. Some loss leaders specials will even be available on pre-basted birds, as well as regular this year.

Turkeys 18 to 20 pounds and up are most likely to be specialized at the lowest prices, but excellent values may also be found on smaller sized 12 to 16 pounds.

Prices on these, along with the eight to 12 pound birds, will likely average from about 49 cents to the middle or high 70's though. Highest prices will be for the fresh-dressed unfrozen turkeys, pre-stuffed birds and turkey breasts (likely to be just over a dollar a pound, where available). Turkey drumsticks or wings will cost the least.

If whole birds or parts aren't for you, look at other forms, such as halves, turkey rolls or even individual servings in pouch packets. Turkey rolls give you more mileage from the meat you buy, for the equivalent of a 24 pound turkey is a 12 pound roll.

Remember the guidelines in turkey preparations. Buy far enough ahead so you can thaw the bird in the refrigerator. (It takes one to four days, depending on size.) If you thaw under cool running water, leave the bird in its watertight wrapper. Pre-stuffed birds should not be thawed at all before roasting.

Stuff the bird just before roasting. For safety's sake, never stuff it the night before even though you may make the stuffing the day before. Better yet, cook the bird unstuffed and bake stuffing separately. Then there is little danger of food poisoning.

Turkey cooking time is far less nowadays than 10 years ago. It takes only three to four and one-half hours to roast six to 12 pounds birds, four and one-half to six and one-half hours for 12 to 20 pound birds and only six and one-half to seven hours for 20 to 24 pound birds, when roasted breast side up in a shallow, uncovered roasting pan at 325 degrees. Unstuffed birds take 30 to 60 minutes less cooking time.

You will save money this year, too, on the onions for the dressing and potatoes to go with the gravy. Both are in far larger supply than last year and cost far less.

This is the big sweet potato month, with 19 per cent of the total being marketed now. A recent price check showed that fresh sweets will cost about six to eight cents a serving. Fresh candied will cost about 11 cents. Canned sweet potatoes in syrup range from 11 to 30 cents a serving, while those in fruit sauce cost about 23 cents a serving.

Squash, at about five to seven cents a serving or less, is another choice. For your other vegetable, best values are canned corn, peas or green beans or the many green vegetables in good supply, such as broccoli, Brussels sprouts, cabbage, cauliflower, turnips and rutabagas.

Cranberry harvest is the second largest on record and there is a vintage crop of oranges available, so cranberry sauce or relish should cost less than last year, too. Fruit salad, if made from very reasonably priced grapes, pears and bananas, along with an apple or two, will be less expensive, too.

The traditional pumpkin pie will also be a good value if you price compare between canned pumpkin, pumpkin pie mix or even ready-to-bake frozen pies, which will all be specialized. Frozen pie crusts, whipping cream and frozen bread dough will also be offered at special prices, so your complete meal can cost less this year, if you make the better value choices.

He said this is the day and age of amending the Constitution, noting that America survived for many years on 10 amendments, yet today groups are constantly trying to tag amendments onto this great document. He said as long as Americans have their Constitution, just that long will there be freedom.

"Free enterprise," he said, "is the basis for our present strength." There must be reasonable controls on the free enterprise system, he said, but not to the point of strangulation. "Without free enterprise, we don't have our freedom."

"Under our present system, leadership reflects the electorate," according to Judge Byrns. Americans are experiencing a severe "poverty of leadership," he said, noting that it would be difficult to find 10 leaders in this country today who could compare with some of the great leaders of the past.

Americans must make certain they have the choice between the very best possible candidates at all levels of government, he said. "If we lose confidence in leadership, we have lost confidence in ourselves."

He added that with the attitude that "politics are no good," America will never have able leadership.

Calling for Americans to preserve their freedom by maintaining these four keys, Judge Byrns used a quote from the Bible (I Corinthians, Chapter 8, Verse 9): "But take heed lest by any means this liberty of yours become a stumbling-block to them that are weak."

Petite Walnut Garlic Bread

Here's a delicious way to use leftover hotdog or hamburger buns.

Spread each half with butter; sprinkle with chopped walnuts, garlic salt or powder and paprika. Place under broiler for a minute or two — just until lightly toasted. Great idea for French bread or hard rolls, too.

Holiday Turkeys Plump And Plentiful

It is beginning to look a lot like Thanksgiving at area supermarkets, as produce counters take on a festive look and retail freezer cabinets are filling up with turkeys. If homemakers choose from the better values, their Thanksgiving dinner can easily cost less than a year ago, according to Maryann Beckman, District Extension Consumer Marketing Information Agent.

Mrs. Beckman says: Turkeys are plump and plentiful this year, with an increase in production of seven to 11 per cent over last year. Though carryover stocks are down and 1976 consumption up, there will still be more birds available, making turkey an excellent value for the rest of the year.

That means retail specials may be as low as 39 cents a pound for large size birds, with a minimum of $10 to $15 purchase of other foods. The loss leaders are likely to be generally in the high 40's, however. Some loss leaders specials will even be available on pre-basted birds, as well as regular this year.

Turkeys 18 to 20 pounds and up are most likely to be specialized at the lowest prices, but excellent values may also be found on smaller sized 12 to 16 pounds.

Prices on these, along with the eight to 12 pound birds, will likely average from about 49 cents to the middle or high 70's though. Highest prices will be for the fresh-dressed unfrozen turkeys, pre-stuffed birds and turkey breasts (likely to be just over a dollar a pound, where available). Turkey drumsticks or wings will cost the least.

If whole birds or parts aren't for you, look at other forms, such as halves, turkey rolls or even individual servings in pouch packets. Turkey rolls give you more mileage from the meat you buy, for the equivalent of a 24 pound turkey is a 12 pound roll.

Remember the guidelines in turkey preparations. Buy far enough ahead so you can thaw the bird in the refrigerator. (It takes one to four days, depending on size.) If you thaw under cool running water, leave the bird in its watertight wrapper. Pre-stuffed birds should not be thawed at all before roasting.

Stuff the bird just before roasting. For safety's sake, never stuff it the night before even though you may make the stuffing the day before. Better yet, cook the bird unstuffed and bake stuffing separately. Then there is little danger of food poisoning.

Turkey cooking time is far less nowadays than 10 years ago. It takes only three to four and one-half hours to roast six to 12 pounds birds, four and one-half to six and one-half hours for 12 to 20 pound birds and only six and one-half to seven hours for 20 to 24 pound birds, when roasted breast side up in a shallow, uncovered roasting pan at 325 degrees. Unstuffed birds take 30 to 60 minutes less cooking time.

You will save money this year, too, on the onions for the dressing and potatoes to go with the gravy. Both are in far larger supply than last year and cost far less.

This is the big sweet potato month, with 19 per cent of the total being marketed now. A recent price check showed that fresh sweets will cost about six to eight cents a serving. Fresh candied will cost about 11 cents. Canned sweet potatoes in syrup range from 11 to 20 cents a serving, while those in fruit sauce cost about 23 cents a serving.

Squash, at about five to seven cents a serving or less, is another choice. For your other vegetable, best values are canned corn, peas or green beans or the many green vegetables in good supply, such as broccoli, Brussels sprouts, cabbage, cauliflower, turnips and rutabagas.

Cranberry harvest is the second largest on record and there is a vintage crop of oranges available, so cranberry sauce or relish should cost less than last year, too. Fruit salad, if made from very reasonably priced grapes, pears and bananas, along with an apple or two, will be less expensive, too.

The traditional pumpkin pie will also be a good value if you price compare between canned pumpkin, pumpkin pie mix or even ready-to-bake frozen pies, which will all be specialized. Frozen pie crusts, whipping cream and frozen bread dough will also be offered at special prices, so your complete meal can cost less this year, if you make the better value choices.

LMC Music Groups Offer Free Programs

The Wandering Troubadours, a new Lake Michigan college musicians' organization, will perform free of charge for civic, service, professional and educational groups throughout southwestern Michigan, according to Dr. Donald Moely, head of the college's music department.

The Wandering Troubadours, created by Dr. Moely and Barbara Born, choral director, consist of three choral and six instrumental groups ready to perform special mini-concerts ranging from 10 to 40 minutes.

The choral groups include the LMC Concert choir, Swing choir and Madrigals. Instrumental groups include the LMC Symphonic Wind Brass Ensemble, Jazz Ensemble, Lab band, Saxophone Quartet, Clarinet Quartet and Trombone choir.

"Each of the separate groups is ready to present its own type of program," Dr. Moely said. "All we request is at least two weeks advance notice prior to the performance date."

Under Mrs. Born's direction, the LMC Concert Choir will have classical renditions, a special program of carols for the holiday season and a spring concert for presentation from March through May.

The Swing choir will present popular music beginning in December, and the Madrigals will present Old English carols in December and Puppet Opera February through May.

The Symphonic Wind Ensemble will perform classical music and band arrangements; the Brass Ensemble, seasonal music on request; the Jazz Lab band, popular jazz and rock music; the Saxophone Quartet, Clarinet Quartet and Trombone choir, light and semi-classical music.

Arrangements for any one of the Wandering Troubadours' nine musical groups may be made by contacting the LMC Speaker's Bureau Service at the college.

Local Archeology Topic For Heritage Society

"Archeological Activities and Projects Carried on in Southwest Michigan" will be the topic of a slide presentation by Bill Beverly of Watervliet at

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. at the Margaret Upton Crippled Children Center, St. Joseph.

Beverly has studied old Indian camping grounds and participated in most of the archeological digs carried on in southwestern Michigan.

He is president of the Southwestern chapter of the Michigan Archeological Society; past president of the Michigan Archeological Society; treasurer of the Berrien County Bicentennial Pageant Commission, and member of the Berrien County Historical Society.

The date was incorrectly reported in the Nov. 10 issue of this newspaper.

WORLD ALMANAC PANEL Select America's Influential Women

NEW YORK (NEA) — The World Almanac today announced its list of America's 25 most influential women. The list was selected by a panel of newspaper editors, social commentators, university presidents and writers.

The list is remarkable for the number of women in journalism and politics. Of the 25 women named, nine are journalists and six others are in elected or appointed political positions.

To determine America's most influential women, the World Almanac polled a panel of 13 men and women. Each member of the panel selected 25 names from a list of more than 200 prominent women.

Notably lacking from the list are women in business — board members and directors of banks and corporations. Mary Wells Lawrence is the one exception.

There are, moreover, no women from the physical sciences and only one from the entertainment field — Joan Ganz Cooney.

The list of America's most influential women was inaugurated last year in connection with the International Women's Year.

There were six new names on this year's list: Anne Armstrong, Lady Bird Johnson, Mary Wells Lawrence, Mary McGrory, Helen Thomas and Abigail Van Buren.

America's 25 most influential women is a permanent, annual feature of the World Almanac.

The panelists who determined this year's list included: Paul Conroy, editor, San Jose Mercury; Walter Friedenberg, editor, Cincinnati Post; Michael Grehl, editor, Memphis Commercial Appeal; Marina Horner, president, Radcliffe College; Vernon Jordan, executive director, National Urban League; Clayton Kirkpatrick, editor, Chicago Tribune; Pia Lindstrom, NBC news correspondent; Eleanor Holmes Norton, New York City Human Rights Commissioner; Jane O'Reilly, syndicated columnist, Washington Star; Helen

Other women on the list are Bella Abzug, Helen Gurley Brown, Shirley Chisholm, Joan Ganz Cooney, Charlotte Curtis, Betty Ford, Betty Friedan, Katharine Graham, Ella Grasso.

Also Nancy Hanks, Leonore Hershey, Carla Hills, Barbara C. Jordan, Billie Jean King, Coretta King, Margaret Mead, Sylvia Porter, Gloria Steinem and Barbara Walters.

EAST LANSING — A woman is incomplete without a man and vice versa, youth is incomplete without physical beauty, and love is incomplete without sex, according to popular songs.

The sex-role stereotypes, underscoring these concepts, in 25 popular songs of 1975, were identified by Gayle Davis, Michigan State university doctoral candidate in American studies, at a seminar Nov. 2 sponsored by the MSU School of Social Work. Davis also is training director of the Open Door Crisis Intervention Center in Lansing.

Davis used transactional analysis methods to identify the stereotypes, which she said included Don Juans, Big Daddys, Honey Sages, Jocks and Sir Walter Raleighs among the dominant males, and Poor Little Me's, Sleeping Beauties, Plastic Women, and the Woman Behind the Man, among the selfless women.

Disc jockeys, she said, use about 24 per cent of the singles received by the average radio station, and hit songs play between 10 and 30 times per day, or an average of once every two and a half hours on over 1,000 rock and roll stations. Over 80 per cent of the 45 rpm singles are bought by people under 25 years of age.

"Of the 25 songs," she said, "18 perpetual banal scripts, which reinforce the cultural indoctrination that women are less significant than men in our society, and must be selfless, but beautiful and sexually attractive. Men must be dominant, strong, and not lose control over others. But men also are scripted not to trust other people or feelings."

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Shady Lady From The Past

Dear Ann Landers: My husband works for a large firm based in Pittsburgh. A few weeks ago they sent a new district manager here. His wife and their two young children arrived Monday.

Last night a VP from Pittsburgh hosted a party to officially welcome the new man and his wife. She is a very pretty woman and most gracious.

On the way home my husband told me he almost died when he met the new manager's wife. He swears she was a $100 call girl in Pittsburgh — and there is no chance he is mistaken. When I asked how he could be so sure, he said, "She was sent to my hotel by a company that wanted us to buy supplies from them." I asked if he accepted her "favors." He said, "Yes, but that was before I met you."

What should be done about this awkward situation? — Unstring

Dear Un: You and your husband should make a pact to keep your mouths shut. The "gracious lady" is not going to tip her mitt if she recognizes your husband as a former client. In the meantime, revealing her past would serve no useful purpose.

Subtle Approach

Dear Ann Landers: I love my grandchildren and daughter-in-law but every time I visit them (three or four times a year) their home is dirtier than the time before.

My son and his wife are raising their children beautifully, they are the world's best parents — but the stench in the house is unbearable.

The dog snatches food from our plates. The cats walk on the table after it has been set for meals. They are forever jumping up on the kitchen work boards and climbing over dishes that have been left to dry.

The thought of eating from plates the cats walked over makes me ill. I've even thought of calling the Board of Health — anonymously.

If I say something to my son or his wife it will surely damage our relationship. What do you suggest, Ann? — Ashamed To Sign

Dear Ashamed: Wash your own plate and silver just before you eat.

Perhaps someone will notice and provide you with an opportunity to tell them why you are doing it. Otherwise keep your mouth shut.

Of course it's sickening but it's their house and they make the rules. (The kids will probably grow up immune to everything.)

Don't Teach That

Dear Ann Landers: Last week I had my first thorough physical examination — I mean inside and out. I'm a healthy young woman and wasn't concerned about myself.

The doctor poked, pressed,

and pried with instruments and lights. All he said was, "Hmmm-mm." After the examination I was told I was OK, that the results of the blood tests and urinalysis would be mailed to me. They arrived today and I'm in excellent condition.

I wonder if that doctor knows how much it would have meant to me if, during the examination, he had said a few words — for example, "This looks good." Or, "Nothing abnormal here" — just a sentence or two would have eased my anxiety. Silence can be so frightening to a patient.

Please print this. It's something they don't teach in medical school. — N.Y. Fan

Dear N.Y.: You spoke in behalf of millions today — including me. And now, I hope every patient who feels as you do will come right out and tell the doctor, before the examination, exactly what you told me.

There is a big difference between cold and cool. Ann Landers shows you how to play it cool without freezing people out in her booklet, "Teen-Age Sex — Ten Ways to Cool It." Send 50 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1480, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Childhood Phases

Erma Bombeck

Once — just once — I wish my kids would go through a "phase" all at the same time. When I had one napping during the day and sleeping all night, one was napping at night and sleeping all day and a third was running around day and night like a hamster with a problem.

When one was teething, the other was biting and the other was in his spitting syndrome. After the younger got his teeth he moved up to biting, the middle progressed to spitting and the older one graduated to pinching. They were never all dry at once. Never without tears all at once. Or ever in a good mood all at once.

I heard a child psychologist say, "Your child changes every day. He slips from one phase into another like a car shifting its gears." I wish Ralph Nader would recall all three of them and check 'em out.

At the moment, we have one child (repeat: one child) going through her "Little Mother" syndrome. She is so helpful, so loving, and so perfect, we are all ready to kill her now and canonize her later.

To her brothers she will say, "Do you want me to turn your radio down before Mom and Dad take the batteries out again?" Or, "Shall I drop in your hummer when I get to school and tell your teacher you are going to be late because you can't find your shoes?" Or (I hate this one) "You boys are getting on Mommy's nerves and you know what shape nerves are in at her age."

To her father she will say, "If you need lunch money, I can give you back the money you gave me for each A. You might just as well borrow it as the bank." Or, "You want me to make some of those cookies for you that Mama is always too busy to make?"

The other day she said, "Mama, I made your bed for you."

"I know," I yawned. "I just went to the bathroom and was going to crawl back into it."

"I keep forgetting how much sleep you need," she said solicitously.

Then yesterday, a strange thing happened. I said, "Will you let the dog in?" She snarled, "Anyone so stupid he can't turn a doorknob ought to stay outside." A smile crept across my face. Her gears had slipped into her semi-rotten stage.

"I'll let the dog in, Mommy," said her younger brother. "After all, a dog is just a helpless animal. He can't help it that his little paws..."

"Oh, shut up," I snarled. I go through phases, too, you know.

In a recent issue of our daily newspaper you said, "Replenishing emotional energy is just as important as seeking physical rest." Can you tell me how one goes about replenishing emotional energy? I've known for some time that this is important, but have no idea how to begin. — Mrs. J.H.A. Tex. Dear Mrs. A.:

The stresses of modern living are many and varied. Some people are able to tolerate an enormous amount of emotional stress, while others cannot cope with the slightest degree of tension.

Consequently, there is no universal rule that will apply to all people. All of us know that an exhausting day, even without expending physical energy, can leave us "drained." The bombardment of telephone calls at the office, problems in the daily routine of housework, the demands made by children, their school, their illnesses, all can sap the strength even of those with limitless reserves.

I know from my personal experience that when the chores in the practice of medicine become overwhelming I simply walk away from all of them for a short period. A visit to a museum, a stroll in the park, sometimes a short nap or the indulgence of listening to a

Can you tell me what endometriosis is? Is a hysterectomy always necessary to cure this? — Mrs. S.W., Ala. Dear Mrs. W.:

Endometriosis is a condition whose exact cause is unknown. The cells that normally line the inside of the uterus (womb) are found in adjacent organs in areas where they do not normally belong. It may affect the ovaries, the Fallopian tubes and even abdominal organs. Hysterectomy is not always necessary to cure of control endometriosis. Hormone treatment can be very effective.

Carter Warned On Economic Tinkering

HILLSDALE, Mich. (AP) — U.S. Secretary Treasury William E. Simon says Jimmy Carter should be careful not to overstimulate the economy and adds the President-elect should drop the idea of wage and price controls, even as a standby measure.

Speaking at Hillsdale College on Friday night, Simon also addressed the energy problem and said the solution lies with the free marketplace. The treasury secretary told reporters the public is laboring under a serious misunderstanding when it blames the oil companies for the nation's energy problems.

The U.S. economy is in the nineteenth month of a healthy expansion trend that will continue if the government does not overstimulate it, the Treasury Secretary said before attending a college fundraising dinner. Simon said Carter should concentrate on reducing the government's budget deficit.

Simon said he is "downright antagonistic" toward those who vote for higher deficits. "We must always remember that it is inflation that causes the recession that so cruelly wastes our human and material resources and the tragic unemployment that leaves serious economic and psychological scars long after economic recovery occurs."

Simon said he will be worried if Carter starts to tinker excessively with the economy. Simon issued a strong plea to Carter not to include wage and price controls — even as a "standby" measure — for regulating the economy.

The treasury secretary said controls lead to more inflation and that if Carter adopts them, even on a contingency basis, the Democrat will be repeating the mistakes of the Nixon Administration, which adopted wage and price controls in an attempt to cool the economy.

Simon said he felt the greatest frustration and failure during his tenure in government was the energy problem. It annoys him, he said, that the public was "sold on the nonsense" that its energy problems stem from "a ripoff on the part of the oil companies." The answer to the country's energy ills, said Simon, is the free marketplace.

"The claims and promises made during the election will now be tested against the harsh realities of the real world," said Simon.

Each time the Carter administration comes up with a new economic policy initiative, this question should be asked, said the Treasury Secretary: "Will this action contribute to sustained and orderly economic growth or will it merely perpetuate the familiar stop and go patterns of the past involving increased government spending without regard for the chronic deficits and economic and financial disruption created."

excessive expansion of the money supply, even more government controls over the private economy and increased intervention in private wage and price decisions."

Simon said he is "downright

Progress Reported In GM-Union Talks

DETROIT (AP) — Sources said some progress was made in contract negotiations over the weekend between General Motors Corp. and the United Auto Workers.

The talks were scheduled to continue today as the bargainers race to reach a new three-year accord before the union's announced midnight Thursday strike deadline.

Officials said there were seven subcommittee meetings Saturday and eight more on Sunday. Outcome of the talks will affect GM's 390,000 hourly workers.

Sources said the economic settlement, when it comes, is expected to be the same as the one worked out with Ford Motor Co. The Ford accord, however, required a 28-day strike on the part of the UAW.

A tentative new pact also has been agreed upon between the union and Chrysler, and UAW rank-and-file workers were slated to begin ratification voting today.

Officials said there were seven subcommittee meetings Saturday and eight more on Sunday. Outcome of the talks will affect GM's 390,000 hourly workers.

Residents Fight Kincheloe Closing

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (AP) — A show of opposition was expected today the Air Force held a public hearing on the proposed closing of Kincheloe Air Force Base.

Gov. William Milliken, state Sen. Robert Davis, R-Gaylord, and local officials and residents were to present their arguments against the closing at the hearing at the Sault Ste. Marie Armory.

An aide to Milliken said the city has planned a show of support for the Eastern Upper Peninsula base, which has long been an integral part of the community's social and economic life.

Officials are expected to argue that closing the base would be economically devastating to the already depressed Sault Ste. Marie and Chippewa and Mackinac county areas, and would cause "ripple" effects across the state.

The defense department's hearing follows a similar one last week in Oscoda, when Milliken and others urged Washington not to close Wurtsmith AFB, either.

The defense department wants to close Kincheloe and Loring AFB in Maine, according to the governor's office.

Second choices for closing are Wurtsmith and Blytheville AFB in Arkansas.

Thomas DeCair, an aide to Milliken, said the governor will argue the savings from shutting down the base will be eclipsed by costs resulting from the closing — higher unemployment benefits, welfare payments, loss of state revenue from business closings and reduced income and other economic burdens.

DeCair said the shutdown would raise the already high unemployment in the area — which can reach 20 to 30 per cent in various times of the year — to over 40 per cent and near 45 per cent in Chippewa County itself. The base employs 3,300 military personnel and about 500 civilians.

He said closing it would result in a direct loss of 10,000 in population.

Davis, whose district includes Kincheloe, said the base's annual payroll is more than $36 million. He said more than half the people working in the Chippewa County area owe their employment, directly or indirectly, to the base.

Its shutdown would result in drastic losses in housing occupancy rates, retail sales, students and land values, he said.

"To close Kincheloe Air Force Base would be tantamount to pulling the rug from under the feet of the already lame economic structure of the Upper Peninsula," Davis said in remarks prepared for delivery here.

"Since Kincheloe was built in 1942, area residents have supported and manned the base," he said. "They have lived hand in hand with this base, grown with it and come to depend heavily upon it for their economic well-being."

Northeastern Governors Confident Of Carter Aid

By PETER SLOCUM
Associated Press Writer

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP) — Seven Democratic governors from the economically depressed Northeast have emerged from their first major conference with high hopes of getting help from President-elect Jimmy Carter.

The governors put together an agenda of federal aid programs designed to redress what they called federal discrimination against the Northeast.

The agenda will be handed to the new president and the new Congress, and the governors were confident of its prospects.

Pennsylvania Gov. Milton Shapp talked in terms of "B.C. — before Carter." He charged that the last two national Republican administrations had treated the region with "blatant neglect."

He and other governors complained that their region was not getting its fair share of federal tax dollars and has been slower to recover from the recession than other parts of the country.

Carter adviser Stuart Eizenstat told the conference Saturday night that the president-elect looked favorably on the regional approach taken by the five-month-old Coalition of Northeastern Governors.

"Come on down," Eizenstat told the governors. He promised that Carter would "not turn his back on regions that now need help; you can count on that."

The coalition, organized by New York Gov. Hugh Carey, also includes Shapp, Brendan Byrne of New Jersey, Ella Grasso of Connecticut, Michael Dukakis of Massachusetts, Philip Noel of Rhode Island and Thomas Salmon of Vermont.

Maine's Independent Gov. James Longley attended the conference as an observer and said he might join the coalition.

Gov. Meldrim Thomson, New Hampshire's Conservative-Republican, turned down an invitation.

The major idea on regional cooperation that resulted from the weekend meeting here was a proposal for a Regional Energy and Development Corp.

It would start with "seed money" from member states and then sell taxable bonds to raise investment capital for strategic energy, transportation and other development projects within the region. The key is a federal guarantee for the corporation's bonds, which would significantly lower the interest costs to the corporation.

Eizenstat said he could not absolutely endorse the federal guarantee plan on Carter's behalf, but he said he was enthusiastic.

The governors also endorsed an immediate increase in the federal share of welfare funding, at an estimated yearly cost of $2.5 billion. Federal subsidy currently pays 50 to 80 per cent of each state's cost, and the proposal would lift that to 75 to 90 per cent. Most Northeastern states are reimbursed at the low end of the scale, Southern states at the higher end.

Hillsdale Gets Backing

HILLSDALE, Mich. (AP) — About 250 conservative leaders came to the aid of Hillsdale College this weekend, as the school continues to battle federal anti-discrimination regulations.

The southern Lower Michigan college, which has 1,000 students, boasts that it has never accepted government funds during its 132-year history and is therefore private.

The U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, however, says the school is, in effect, a federal grant recipient because about 100 Hillsdale students receive about $250,000 in federal aid.

The government has asserted its belief that Hillsdale must comply with regulations against sexual and racial discrimination, and has suggested a meeting to discuss the issue.

Hillsdale is the only school in the nation to flatly refuse to be bound by anti-discrimination regulations. But the college has admitted women and black students since its early days. Blacks now comprise about three per cent of its student population, but are not represented on the faculty of 16, which includes 14 women.

George C. Roche III, Hillsdale president, said it is "none of the government's business" whether the school treats everyone equally. "The fact that we do just makes this a better test," he said.

"We don't want to take away anyone's rights. We just want to keep ours," Donald R. Mossey, an Indiana businessman and chairman of the school's board of trustees, told the New York Times last winter. "We were the first to let women into college in Michigan, and we have colored folks, too."

The weekend was the kickoff for a $29 million fund raising drive which college officials hope will assure independence from government control.

Weekend Traffic Mishaps Claim 14 Lives In State

By The Associated Press

A Madison Heights man, killed when he fell from a camper onto a road, was one of 14 persons who lost their lives on Michigan highways during the weekend.

Kenneth Fetterhoff, 30, was killed early Sunday on Michigan 33 in rural Montmorency County when he fell from the camper in which he was a passenger, according to State Police.

The other victims were:

Duane Baby, 52, of Bay City, who died Friday night on Michigan 76 at Interstate 75 in Ogemaw County when his car ran off the road and hit a tree.

Donald Poole, 47, of Detroit, who died Friday night in Dearborn when he was involved in a car-truck rear-end collision.

Albert Blackburn, 57, of Dearborn, a pedestrian who was killed early Saturday in Dearborn.

George Jacobs, 15, of Kalamazoo, who was killed early Saturday in Kalamazoo when his car struck a bridge abutment.

Denise Brown, 20, of Warren, who was killed early Saturday in Macomb County's Clinton Township in a two-car head-on collision.

Gloria Norton, 37, of Eaton Rapids, who was killed Friday night on U.S. highway 131 in Montcalm County in a two-car broadside.

Barbara Nielsen, 55, of Greenville and her 50-year-old passenger John Gillette, of Farmville, who were killed early Saturday in Montcalm County's Eureka Township when their car ran off the road.

Paul Cress, 14, of Riverview, who was killed occurred Saturday in Montmorency County's Hillman Township when the car in which he was a passenger ran off the road.

Jeffrey Hale, 17, of East Lansing, who was killed early Saturday in the Eaton County community of Mulliken when his car was struck by a Chesapeake & Ohio freight train.

Susan Livermore, 20, of Shingleton and 45-year-old William Davidson of Dearborn, who were killed Saturday night on U.S. highway 41 in Marquette County's Ely Township when they were involved in a head-on crash.

Patrick Kelley, 18, of Kalamazoo, who died in a hospital Saturday, following a head-on crash earlier Saturday when his car collided with a pickup truck on U.S. Highway 31 in Traverse City.

Mary Denny, 49, of Plainwell, died Sunday night when she was struck by a car in Plainwell.

The early-morning temperature was 25 degrees Saturday where the 17-year-olds were serving out their 12-hour sentences.

"The idea was to impose a sentence upon an individual which would not only fit the offense and the individual, but which would serve a dual purpose of adding something to the community ... and to deter more violent future types of violations of the law by the individual who was before me," said Detroit Traffic Court Judge Lawrence Silverman.

Silverman sentenced 30 curfew violators. Some — gang members for example — were sent to the Detroit House of Corrections, others were fined and some received suspended sentences.

About 24 were given a year's probation, with 12 hours to be worked on Belle Isle, an island in the Detroit River. Saturday, seven youths shoveled wood chips into wheelbarrows and raked the chips over nature trails.

Silverman calls it "constructive probation."

The curfew was put in effect last summer when youth gang violence erupted in the city.

MORE SUPERMARKETS TRYING IT Around-Clock Stores Popular

By LOUISE COOK Associated Press Writer

A growing number of supermarkets are staying open around the clock these days, hoping to boost sales by offering 24-hour service to customers who cannot shop during normal business hours.

There are no industry-wide statistics on the number of stores now operating 24 hours a day, but Dick Bragaw of the Super Market Institute in Chicago said, "There's been quite an increase in the past decade."

The initial boom in 24-hour supermarkets came in the early 1970s, partly as a result of the relaxation of local regulations that limited business hours. In most areas, the stores that operate around the clock are open seven days a week if so-called "blue laws" do not interfere.

Supermarkets General, a New Jersey-based company which operates the Pathmark chain of supermarkets in the Middle Atlantic states, was one of the first to try 24-hour operations, opening an around-the-clock store in May 1972.

A spokesman said 85 per cent of the chain's 102 supermarkets now operate on a 24-hour basis. The stores which are not open around the clock are located in areas where such operation is prohibited by local law or is not profitable, the spokesman said.

The Pathmark official said the 24-hour stores were a success, but he declined to give specific sales figures. The extra business, he said, was "enough to justify the incremental increase" in operating costs.

Crime has not been a problem for the 24-hour operations because the stores do not keep large amounts of cash on hand and because grocery products are not high-value items from a thief's point of view, the spokesman said. Again, he said he could not provide specific figures, but he added, "My guess would be ... there are significantly fewer crime problems between midnight and 7 a.m. than at other times."

Safeway, the nation's largest chain, has only a handful of 24-hour stores. But A&P, the second-largest chain, opened its first 24-hour store early in 1973 and now has 333 round-the-clock operations across the country, representing about one-fourth of all A&P outlets.

"They are doing very well," an A&P spokesman said, adding that there has been an increase in sales. But he refused to provide specifics.

What makes a 24-hour operation a success?

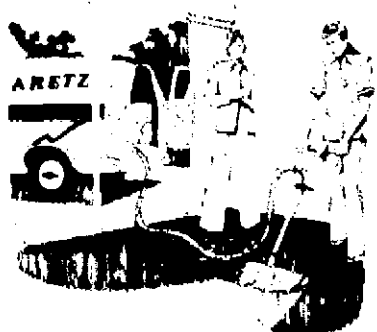

The growth in 24-hour operations has been accompanied by an increase in Sunday openings. A survey by Progressive Grocer, a trade magazine, showed that 49 per cent of all supermarkets operated by chains stayed open on Sundays in 1975. About 20 per cent of the chain stores operating on Sunday started the seven-day-a-week system last year. Among independents, 83 per cent of all stores stayed open on Sundays, up from 39 per cent a year earlier.

Another study, meanwhile, shows that Americans spent just under $129.3 billion in grocery stores in 1975, an increase of about 10 per cent from 1974. The study by Supermarketing magazine, showed that about $101.3 billion went for food and food products; another $15.8 billion was spent on other grocery products — including paper goods, soaps and detergents, pet foods and tobacco items, and $12.3 billion went for nonfood items such as health and beauty aids, magazines and newspapers.

Fresh beef accounted for more spending — $10.7 billion — than any other single item in 1975. Provisions — frankfurters, canned hams, bacon, etc. — accounted for $8.9 billion, fresh vegetables accounted for $8.8 billion, beer for $3.6 billion and fresh fruit for $4.9 billion.

Weekend Traffic Mishaps Claim 14 Lives In State

By The Associated Press
A Madison Heights man, killed when he fell from a camper onto a road, was one of 15 persons who lost their lives on Michigan highways during the weekend.

Youths Get Sentences To Fit Offenses

DETROIT (AP) — Youths who violated the city's 10 p.m. curfew were sentenced to shoveling wood chips into wheelbarrows over the weekend and at least one judge figures the cold air will do the guilty some good.

The early-morning temperature was 25 degrees Saturday where the 17-year-olds were serving out their 12-hour sentences.

"The idea was to impose a sentence upon an individual which would not only fit the offense and the individual, but which would serve a dual purpose of adding something to the community ... and to deter more violent future types of violations of the law by the individual who was before me," said Detroit Traffic Court Judge Lawrence Silverman.

Silverman sentenced 30 curfew violators. Some — gang members for example — were sent to the Detroit House of Corrections, others were fined and some received suspended sentences.

About 24 were given a year's probation, with 12 hours to be worked on Belle Isle, an island in the Detroit River. Saturday, seven youths shoveled wood chips into wheelbarrows and raked the chips over nature trails.

Silverman calls it "constructive probation."

The curfew was put in effect last summer when youth gang violence erupted in the city.

MORE SUPERMARKETS TRYING IT Around-Clock Stores Popular

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

A growing number of supermarkets are staying open around the clock these days, hoping to boost sales by offering 24-hour service to customers who cannot shop during normal business hours.

There are no industry-wide statistics on the number of stores now operating 24 hours a day, but Dick Bragaw of the Super Market Institute in Chicago said, "There's been quite an increase in the past decade."

The initial boom in 24-hour supermarkets came in the early 1970s, partly as a result of the relaxation of local regulations that limited business hours. In most areas, the stores that operate around the clock are open seven days a week if so-called "blue laws" do not interfere.

Supermarkets General, a New Jersey-based company which operates the Pathmark chain of supermarkets in the Middle Atlantic states, was one of the first to try 24-hour operations, opening an around-the-clock store in May 1972.

A spokesman said 85 per cent of the chain's 102 supermarkets now operate on a 24-hour basis. The stores which are not open around the clock are located in areas where such operation is prohibited by local law or is not profitable, the spokesman said.

The Pathmark official said the 24-hour stores were a success, but he declined to give specific sales figures. The extra business, he said, was "enough to justify the incremental increase" in operating costs.

Crime has not been a problem for the 24-hour operations because the stores do not keep large amounts of cash on hand and because grocery products are not high-value items from a thief's point of view, the spokesman said. Again, he said he could not provide specific figures, but he added, "My guess would be ... there are significantly fewer crime problems between midnight and 7 a.m. than at other times."

representing about one-fourth of all A&P outlets.

"They are doing very well," an A&P spokesman said, adding that there has been an increase in sales. But he refused to provide specifics.

What makes a 24-hour operation a success?

The growth in 24-hour operations has been accompanied by an increase in Sunday openings. A survey by Progressive Grocer, a trade magazine, showed that 49 per cent of all supermarkets operated by chains stayed open on Sundays in 1975. About 20 per cent of the chain stores operating on Sunday started the seven-day-a-week system last year. Among independents, 63 per cent of all stores stayed open on Sundays, up from 59 per cent a year earlier.

Another study, meanwhile, shows that Americans spent just under $129.3 billion in grocery stores in 1975, an increase of about 10 per cent from 1974. The study, by Super-marketing magazine, showed that about $101.3 billion went for foods and food products; another $15.6 billion was spent on other grocery products — including paper goods, soaps and detergents, pet foods and tobacco items; and $12.3 billion went for nonfood items such as health and beauty aids, magazines and newspapers.

Fresh beef accounted for more spending — $10.7 billion — than any other single item in 1975. Provisions — frankfurters, canned hams, bacon, etc. — accounted for $9.9 billion, fresh vegetables accounted for $8.8 billion, beer for $5.6 billion and fresh fruit for $4.9 billion.

Counterculture Affects Politics

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Political party realignment, likely to enrich the Democratic party's majority, can be realized if political leaders take advantage of the situation, say two University of Michigan researchers.

Political scientist Warren E. Miller and social psychologist Teresa E. Levitt outline the changing role of the electorate in a new book, "Leadership and Change: The New Politics and the American Electorate."

They list four concerns they say helped create the New Politics out of the events of the 1960s.

—Evolution of a counterculture with values opposed to those of the typical achievement-oriented, religious, middle-class American.

—Growth of support for protest against national and political social policies and established institutions.

—Support for the idea that emphasis on law and order was becoming repressive.

—And growing reaction against those who maintained the existing social order.

Miller, director of the Center for Political Studies in the UM's Institute for Social Research (ISR) and Levitt said the impact of the new politics has gone unrecognized by many politicians and political analysts.

They said that as of 1974, the electorate was divided by a margin of almost three-to-one with supporters of the New Politics outnumbering supporters of an old conservatism.

"Changes in national party strength," they wrote, "will more likely come from the younger cohorts in the electorate, many of whom have not yet chosen party ties or become politically active citizens."

Two Boats Targets Of Thieves

SOUTH HAVEN — The theft of equipment, valued at $1,730, from two boats here was reported to city police over the weekend.

John Tiggehan of South Haven said a new marine radio valued at $120 was taken sometime Friday or Saturday. Jerry Harsch of South Haven said his marine radio along with lures and tackle valued at $1,100 was taken Saturday.

Both owners had their boats moored in the Black River near the South Haven Yacht club, police said.

Gov't. Sues School District

DETROIT (AP) — The federal government has filed suit against the Van Buren school district charging it refused to hire a woman teacher because of her religion. The suit alleges Mrs. Ruby F. Williams was refused a job in the suburban district because she is a member of the World Wide Church of God and would have to miss school days because of mandatory religious observances. U.S. attorneys contended the action of the Van Buren district, located near Belleville, violates Title 7 of the 1964 Civil Rights Act which forbids employment discrimination because of race, color or creed. Ray Kohr, Van Buren personnel director, said Mrs. Williams missed 14 days when she taught there in the 1968-69 school year and that she was given a choice of cutting down her absenteeism or quitting. Mrs. Williams now teaches in the Detroit public school system. Jeremiah Glassman, a civil rights attorney for the U.S. Department of Justice in Washington, said he did not recognize the Van Buren district argument that Mrs. Williams' absence would pose a hardship "because there are subs available who can fill in while she is away." The World Wide Church of God, headquartered in Pasadena, Calif., has 100,000 members.

Welfare Reorganization Asked

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The head of the House appropriations subcommittee on welfare spending has called for a "complete reorganization" of Wayne County's welfare program. State Rep. Raymond Kehres said a two-week study by his staff shows that as much as $13 million may have been misspent by the county program. Wayne County's welfare program is currently the target of a criminal investigation by state and federal officials. Kehres, a Monroe Democrat, also said Michigan must revamp its civil service job descriptions and called on state Social Services Director, John Dempsey, to "get tough" with incompetent administrators. Dempsey recently handed a two-week suspension to the head of the Wayne County Social Services Bureau and reassigned the man to another department. Several other Wayne County welfare workers received written reprimands.

Carter Eyes Detroit

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit city councilwoman Maryann Mahaffey is apparently one of several candidates being considered by President-elect Jimmy Carter as a possible secretary of Health, Education and Welfare. Miss Mahaffey, 51, says the Carter transition team has been studying her background with the HEW cabinet post in mind. "I know I'm being considered, but I don't know exactly where I'd be in the line of candidates," she says. Miss Mahaffey is the second Detroit resident under consideration for the post. United Auto Workers President Leonard Woodcock has been mentioned frequently as a possible HEW secretary. Miss Mahaffey says she would accept the post if Carter offered it to her. "It would be a tremendous challenge, one I'm sure I couldn't pass up," she says. A councilwoman since 1971, Miss Mahaffey says she is "very concerned about efficiency in government ... using the money wisely and providing quality care."

Bird Die-Off Is Probed

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind. (AP) — A "massive die-off" of migratory fowl in the southern Lake Michigan area is being investigated by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. The bodies of an estimated 1,000 loons, seagulls and various kinds of ducks have been found washed up on the Indiana and Michigan lakeshores in the past two weeks, the wildlife service reported. The greatest concentration of dead birds appeared to be near New Buffalo, Michigan, just above the Indiana-Michigan border, although other bodies were found as far down the shoreline as Gary. Officials said tests are being conducted to determine what may have killed the fowl. Some of the bodies have contained the deadly bacteria which cause botulism, they said, while chemical traces in others may point to pesticides as a possible agent.

Diggs Is Granted Visa

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — U.S. Congressman Charles Diggs, a strong critic of South Africa's apartheid policy, has been granted a visa, according to Foreign Affairs Secretary Brand Forrie. Forrie refused Sunday to say why the South African government reversed its earlier repeated refusals to let the black congressman into South Africa. Diggs, a Democrat from Michigan and leader of the Black Congressional Caucus, was first refused a visa in 1968. Since then at least seven other visa applications have been refused. It is the second time Pretoria has granted Diggs a visa. A nine-day 1971 tour was plagued by controversy. At one point, Diggs canceled appointments with three cabinet ministers. He left the country declaring he had experienced "an appalling amount of racial injustice in South Africa."

plan will be a lame to be chewed by transit, supporters and highway lobbyists.

Political regulation, which may see a last-minute effort by Republicans and Democrats to reach a compromise on campaign finance. If the stalemate is not broken, new efforts will come in 1977.

Revision of the public health code, a complex bill which was shunted into the House Appropriations Committee earlier.

A bill outlawing deceptive trade practices. Deadlocked in a conference committee for months. It is so close to final passage a compromise may be reached.

Several budgetary items, including supplemental appropriations and help for school districts with declining enrollments. The state also has to pass several measures to keep the current budget in balance, including closing a loophole in the single business tax and repealing a scheduled rollback in the state income tax — but those can wait until next year if necessary.

The Senate also has one last shot at eliminating the "holder in due course" doctrine for auto sales, which would permit a car buyer to defend stopping payments by arguing a car was defective. The chamber also has several other consumer protection bills up for consideration, including individual price marking and extension of warranties while goods are being serviced.

Certain to die are bills to reform the worker's compensation system, tough antismoke measures to apply mandatory penalties to repeat offenders and permit wiretapping in drug cases, and state land use, among others.

Carter Is Happy Over Church Vote

the church's muddy parking lot grew to 500. Some sang hymns, "Dixie," and "The Battle Hymn of the Republic."

Reaction afterwards was mostly favorable. Carter told reporters, after the meeting, "I was proud of my church."

James L. Sullivan, the president of the Southern Baptist Convention, said in Nashville, Tenn., "The action by the church in Plains to end racial discrimination is wonderful news."

The Rev. Billy Graham said in a statement issued in New York, "President-elect Carter has shown guts, courage and faith. The actions by the Plains Baptists congregation under his prodding will help desegregate every church in the nation. It made me proud to be a Southern Baptist."

Bill Wilkinson, the imperial wizard of the Invisible Empire of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, stood outside the church in his white robe and said after the decision was announced, "My reaction is one of anger."

The Rev. Mr. Edwards, relaxed and smiling later in the day, said before the evening service, "It was a victory for the church."

Then, he told the congregation during the service, "It's time for us to pull together and recognize that as a congregation, each of us wanted to see our church saved, each of us wanted our house of worship preserved. Our deacons acted in good faith. They are good men. They deserve our support."

State Sen. Hugh Carter, the president-elect's cousin who, as a deacon, had voted last month to fire the pastor, stood up during the closed meeting and, according to Jimmy Carter's wife, apologized to Edwards and said he wanted the pastor to remain.

"There wasn't a dry eye in the house when it was over," Rosalynn Carter told her husband's press secretary as she left the church.

Home Fire Suspected As Arson

Benton township firemen said arson is suspected in a Sunday morning fire that extensively damaged one room of an unoccupied house at 836 Waukonda avenue. Firefighters said the blaze appeared to have been set in a mattress in the living room and damage was estimated at $2,500 in the 8:37 a.m. fire. Owner of the house was identified only as Roger Patterson.

Township firemen reported they fought a stubborn grass and trash fire for about three hours Sunday evening. The 6 p.m. fire was found smoldering on a hillside on Campbell street near Paw Paw avenue. According to firemen the area had apparently at one time been filled with trash and debris and it is believed someone burning trash may have kindled the fire. No buildings were damaged.

An overheated wheel bearing started a rear wheel of a semi-truck on fire on I-94 near East Main street interchange. Damage was confined to the wheel in the 11:30 a.m. fire Sunday. The truck was being driven by owner Bob Webster, Rosemont, Ill., firemen reported.

Benton Man Hurt As He Fixes Truck

A Benton township man escaped with head lacerations Saturday night, when a pickup truck he was working under was bumped by another auto, pinning his head against a wheel, according to township police.

Treated and released from Mercy hospital was Walter Bradley, 29, of apartment 2, building 210 at Hall's Terra apartments, 1946 East Britain avenue.

Police said Bradley was underneath the pickup in a lot near his apartment and working on the transmission, when the truck was bumped by an auto backing from a nearby parking space. The auto was reported driven by Linda Carol Berry, 21, apartment 3, building 208 of the same project. No tickets were issued, police said.

Police said the accident occurred at 8:46 p.m. and Bradley was freed when the auto was moved away from the pickup. The report didn't say if the truck was jacked up.

Counterculture Affects Politics

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Political party realignment, likely to enrich the Democratic party's majority, can be realized if political leaders take advantage of the situation, say two University of Michigan researchers.

Political scientist Warren E. Miller and social psychologist Teresa E. Levitt outline the changing role of the electorate in a new book, "Leadership and Change: The New Politics and the American Electorate."

They list four concerns they say helped create the New Politics out of the events of the 1960s:

- Evolution of a counterculture with values opposed to those of the typical achievement-oriented, religious, middle-class American.
- Growth of support for protest against national and political social policies and established institutions.
- Support for the idea that emphasis on law and order was becoming repressive.
- And growing reaction against those who maintained the existing social order.

Miller, director of the Center for Political Studies in the UM's Institute for Social Research (ISR) and Levitt said the impact of the new politics has gone unrecognized by many politicians and political analysts.

They said that as of 1974, the electorate was divided by a margin of almost three-to-one with supporters of the New Politics outnumbering supporters of an old conservatism.

"Changes in national party strength," they wrote, "will more likely come from the younger cohorts in the electorate, many of whom have not yet chosen party ties or become politically active citizens."

Two Boats Targets Of Thieves

SOUTH HAVEN — The theft of equipment, valued at $1,730, from two boats here was reported to city police over the weekend.

John Tiggelman of South Haven said a new marine radio valued at $630 was taken sometime Friday or Saturday. Jerry Harsch of South Haven said his marine radio along with lures and tackle valued at $1,100 was taken Saturday.

Both owners had their boats moored in the Black river near the South Haven Yacht club, police said.

Today In MICHIGAN

Gov't. Sues School District

DETROIT (AP) — The federal government has filed suit against the Van Buren school district charging it refused to hire a woman teacher because of her religion. The suit alleges Mrs. Ruby F. Williams was refused a job in the suburban district because she is a member of the World Wide Church of God and would have to miss school days because of mandatory religious observances. U.S. attorneys contended the action of the Van Buren district, located near Belleville, violates Title 7 of the 1964 Civil Rights Act which forbids employment discrimination because of race, color or creed. Roy Kohr, Van Buren personnel director, said Mrs. Williams missed 14 days when she taught there in the 1968-69 school year and that she was given a choice of cutting down her absenteeism or quitting. Mrs. Williams now teaches in the Detroit public school system. Jeremiah Glassman, a civil rights attorney for the U.S. Department of Justice in Washington, said he did not recognize the Van Buren district argument that Mrs. Williams' absences would pose a hardship "because there are subs available who can fill in while she is away." The World Wide Church of God, headquarters in Pasadena, Calif. has 100,000 members.

Welfare Reorganization Asked

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The head of the House appropriations subcommittee on welfare spending has called for a "complete reorganization" of Wayne County's welfare program. State Rep. Raymond Kehres said a two-week study by his staff shows that as much as $13 million may have been misspent by the county program. Wayne County's welfare program is currently the target of a criminal investigation by state and federal officials. Kehres, a Monroe Democrat, also said Michigan must revamp its civil service job descriptions and called on state Social Services Director, John Dempsey, to "get tough" with incompetent administrators. Dempsey recently handed a two-week suspension to the head of the Wayne County Social Services Bureau and reassigned the man to another department. Several other Wayne County welfare workers received written reprimands.

Carter Eyes Detroit

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit city councilwoman Maryann Mahaffey is apparently one of several candidates being considered by President-elect Jimmy Carter as a possible secretary of Health, Education and Welfare. Miss Mahaffey, 51, says the Carter transition team has been studying her background with the HEW cabinet post in mind. "I know I'm being considered, but I don't know exactly where I'd be in the line of candidates," she says. Miss Mahaffey is the second Detroit under consideration for the post. United Auto Workers President Leonard Woodcock has been mentioned frequently as a possible HEW secretary. Miss Mahaffey says she would accept the post if Carter offered it to her. "It would be a tremendous challenge, one I'm sure I couldn't pass up," she says. A councilwoman since 1971, Miss Mahaffey says she is "very concerned about efficiency in government ... using the money wisely and providing quality care."

Bird Die-Off Is Probed

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind. (AP) — A "massive die-off" of migratory fowl in the southern Lake Michigan area is being investigated by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. The bodies of an estimated 1,000 loons, seagulls and various kinds of ducks have been found washed up on the Indiana and Michigan lakeshores in the past two weeks, the wildlife service reported. The greatest concentration of dead birds appeared to be near New Buffalo, Michigan, just above the Indiana-Michigan border, although other bodies were found as far down the shoreline as Gary. Officials said tests are being conducted to determine what may have killed the fowl. Some of the bodies have contained the deadly bacteria which cause botulism, they said, while chemical traces in others may point to pesticides as a possible agent.

Diggs Is Granted Visa

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — U.S. Congressman Charles Diggs, a strong critic of South Africa's apartheid policy, has been granted a visa, according to Foreign Affairs Secretary Brand Fourie. Fourie refused Sunday to say why the South African government reversed its earlier repeated refusals to let the black congressman into South Africa. Diggs, a Democrat from Michigan and leader of the Black Congressional Caucus, was first refused a visa in 1966. Since then at least seven other visa applications have been refused. It is the second time Pretoria has granted Diggs a visa. A nine-day 1971 tour was plagued by controversy. At one point, Diggs canceled appointments with three cabinet ministers. He left the country declaring he had experienced "an appalling amount of racial injustice in South Africa."

plan will be a bone to be chewed by transit supporters and highway lobbyists.

—Political regulation, which may see a last-minute effort by Republicans and Democrats to reach a compromise on campaign finance. If the stalemate is not broken, new efforts will come in 1977.

—Revision of the public health code, a complex bill which was shunted into the House Appropriations Committee earlier.

—A bill outlawing deceptive trade practices. Deadlocked in a conference committee for months, it is so close to final passage a compromise may be reached.

—Several budgetary items, including supplemental appropriations and help for school districts with declining enrollments. The state also has to pass several measures to keep the current budget in balance, including closing a loophole in the single business tax and repealing a scheduled rollback in the state income tax — but those can wait until next year if necessary.

The Senate also has one last shot at eliminating the "holder in due course" doctrine for auto sales, which would permit a car buyer to defend stopping payments by arguing a car was defective. The chamber also has several other consumer protection bills up for consideration, including individual price marking and extension of warranties while goods are being serviced.

Certain to die are bills to reform the worker's compensation system, tough antiracket measures to apply mandatory penalties to repeat offenders and permit wiretapping in drug cases, and state land use, among others.

USDA LOOKS AHEAD FOR 1977

Modest Food Price Rise Forecast

By BRIAN B. KING
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumers food prices next year could rise an average of 3 to 4 percent, the same rate of increase as this year, a top Agriculture Department forecaster said today.

This year's 3 percent increase in food prices has been the smallest year-to-year climb in five years, following leaps in both 1973 and 1974 of 14.5 per cent and an 8.5 per cent increase last year.

In terms of what a family spends on food, considering both groceries and meals eaten out, the increases have meant that what cost $10 in 1972 now costs $14.62. The forecast for 1977 means that the same $10 worth of food will cost between $15.00 and $15.24 a year from now.

Rex F. Daly of the Agriculture Department's Economic Research Service, who made the forecast, said "the band of uncertainty is wide" when it comes to predicting farmers' incomes. In the end, net farm income for 1977 could be pretty much the same as the 1976 average, Daly said.

The tentative forecasts came in remarks prepared for the opening of USDA's annual four-day conference on the outlook in the coming year for farmers, farm families and grocery buyers today said his projection on food prices rests mainly on an anticipated rise of 5 to 6 per cent next year in the cost of eating out at restaurants and other away-from-home spots.

Those prices have gone up about 7 per cent this year over last. In a later speech, James R. Donald, another FRS officer, said that if consumers had bought only foods produced on U.S. farms this year, grocery tabs would have gone up only 1.5 per cent.

But, Donald said, the still-rising prices of such imported foods as coffee and fish drove the food-price index up another percentage point. The jump in restaurant prices accounted for the rest.

Restaurant and other eatery prices account for about 20 to 25 per cent of the government's retail food-price index. "Retail food prices ... in grocery stores for use in the home have held amazingly stable in the past year," Daly said. "This is a year of big supplies of food crops and expanding output of livestock products."

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Today was to have marked the end for Gary Gilmore. He wanted it that way.

Instead, more legal battles loom over the fate of the 36-year-old convicted murderer, who foresees appeals and demanded to go before a firing squad on schedule.

Last week, after court rulings first delayed the execution and then restored the original schedule, Gov. Calvin L. Rampton stayed the execution pending a review of the sentence Wednesday by the state Board of Pardons.

So today, instead of drinking the six-pack of beer that he had asked for as his final meal and then facing the firing squad, Gilmore waits in state prison as the fight goes on.

Dennis Boaz, Gilmore's lawyer, said he plans to ask the pardons board for another early date with the firing squad. Boaz said his client wants to avoid the "lingering death" of waiting.

Boaz said that if the state is unwilling to execute Gilmore on schedule it should release him, on grounds that he would otherwise be imprisoned without a legal sentence.

Meanwhile, attorney V. Jinks about the circumstances of the interview. Boaz admitted that the London newspaper paid him $250 for setting up the interview. On Saturday, Prison Warden Samuel W. Smith accused Boaz of violating prison rules by allowing Gilmore to make a telephone call to the newspaper's reporter.

Boaz introduced himself to Gilmore as a free-lance writer and later replaced the court-appointed attorneys whom Gilmore fired after they appealed his death sentence against his will. In an interview with television station KUTV Sunday, Boaz said he had spent the day with Gilmore discussing his past life. Boaz, who has known Gilmore only a week, said the session gave "depth to his character as I know him." He said Gilmore believes in reincarnation.

Gilmore killed a motel clerk during a robbery. If he had been executed today, it would have been the first death sentence carried out in the United States since 1967.

Utah law gives condemned criminals a choice of death by hanging or the firing squad, and Gilmore had chosen the latter. On Saturday, the London Daily Express quoted Gilmore as saying he wants to marry his girl friend, Nicole Barrett, in a Death Row ceremony. Boaz said Sunday that no formal request had been made.

Prison officials said the request would be considered if made, but they also complained

USDA LOOKS AHEAD FOR 1977

Modest Food Price Rise Forecast

By BRIAN B. KING
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumers food prices next year could rise an average of 3 to 4 per cent, the same rate of increase as this year, a top Agriculture Department forecaster said today.

This year's 3 per cent increase in food prices has been the smallest year-to-year climb in five years, following leaps in both 1973 and 1974 of 14.5 per cent and an 8.5 per cent increase last year.

In terms of what a family spends on food, considering both groceries and meals eaten out, the increases have meant that what cost $10 in 1972 now costs $14.65. The forecast for 1977 means that the same $10 worth of food will cost between $15.09 and $15.24 a year from now.

Rex F. Daly of the Agriculture Department's Economic Research Service, who made the forecast, said "the band of uncertainty is wide" when it comes to predicting farmers' incomes. In the end, net farm income for 1977 could be pretty much the same as the 1976 average, Daly said.

The tentative forecasts came in remarks prepared for the opening of USDA's annual four-day conference on the outlook in the coming year for farmers, farm families and grocery buyers. Daly said his projection on food prices rests mainly on an anticipated rise of 5 to 6 per cent next year in the cost of eating out at restaurants and other away-from-home spots. Those prices have gone up about 7 per cent this year over last.

In a later speech, James R. Donald, another ERS officer, said that if consumers had bought only foods produced on U.S. farms this year, grocery tabs would have gone up only 1.5 per cent.

But, Donald said, the still-rising prices of such imported foods as coffee and fish drove the food-price index up another percentage point. The jump in restaurant prices accounted for the rest.

Restaurant and other eatery prices account for about 20 to 25 per cent of the government's retail food-price index.

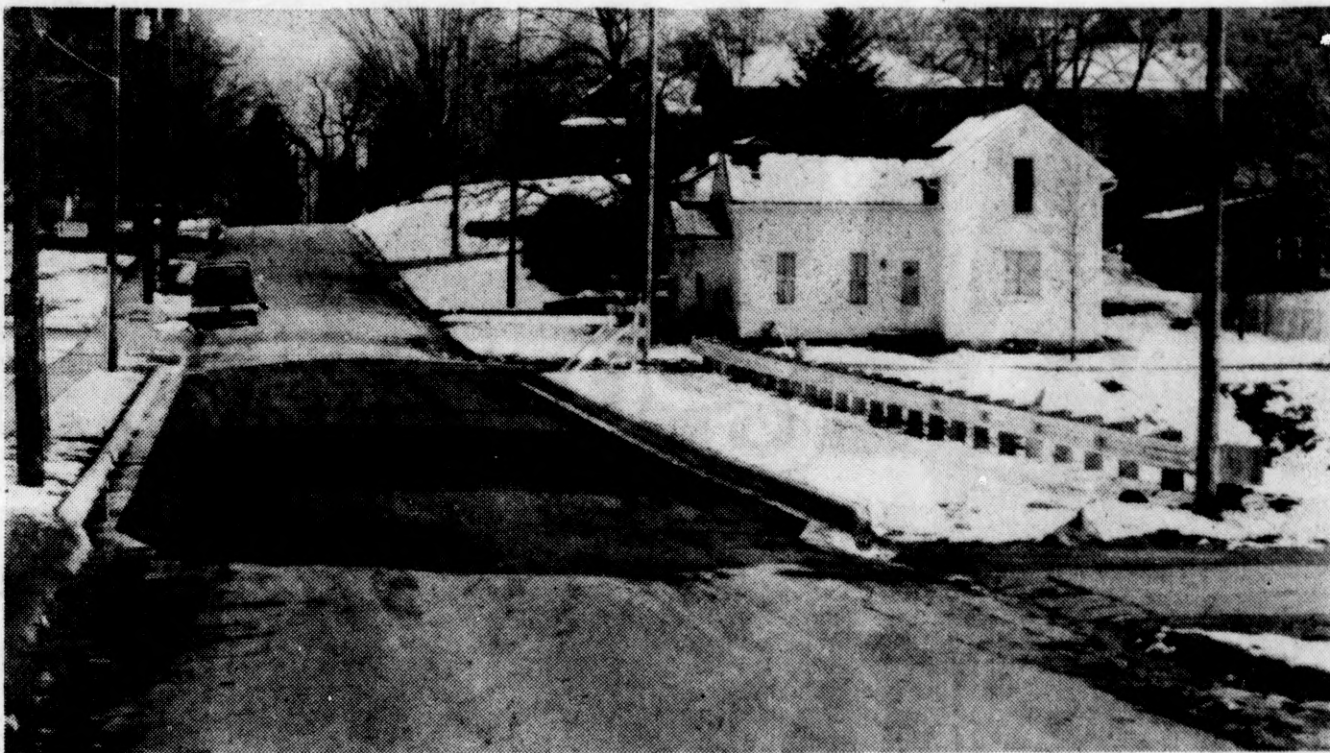

"Retail food prices ... in grocery stores for use in the home have held amazingly stable in the past year," Daly said. "This was a year of big supplies of food crops and expanding output of livestock products."

Daly's predictions, based on normal weather and no surprises in the world agricultural situation, are the first official ones from the department to cover all of 1977, instead of just the first six months.

The conference's estimates traditionally are hedged because so much depends on unpredictable weather in the grain belts this coming spring and again in July and August. Those are the critical growing months for the corn that feeds the animals that become the meat that makes up so large a chunk of the retail food dollar.

Daly said the key, besides weather, is how much of a "modest decline" occurs next summer and fall in the rate of increase of meat animals going to market.

Record meat production this year has sent ranchers' returns plunging, but demand is relatively high and feed prices are still generally favorable, USDA economists have said.

NEW CROSSING: East Logan street, Coloma, is open to traffic again, following completion of Logan street bridge replacement. Bridge replacement, costing $67,646 received financing from state's critical bridge replacement fund, with cost to city being $18,638. Involved were removal of old bridge from across Tannery creek, installation of a culvert to carry creek beneath new road, fill-in around culvert and construction of new road. (Cliff Stevens photos)

Legal Fight Delays Firing Squad

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Today was to have marked the end of Gary Gilmore. He wanted it that way.

Meanwhile, attorney V. Jinks

Dabney of the American Civil Liberties Union said the ACLU is preparing strategy to prevent the setting of another execution date.

The ACLU opposes the death sentence as cruel and unusual punishment, and Dabney said ACLU representatives hope to outline their arguments for board chairman George Lattimer before Wednesday.

Battle Stiff For U.S. House Majority Leader's Job

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four men are seeking the job of House Democratic leader. After months of soliciting support from fellow Democrats, the candidates report pledges that add up to more than 500. The only problem is that there are only 290 Democrats in the House.

These exaggerated and conflicting claims of support are part of the stiff leadership contest to succeed Majority Leader Thomas P. O'Neill, who apparently is unopposed to succeeding retiring Speaker Carl Albert.

The Dec. 6 secret balloting will choose a winner for the No. 2 post of majority leader from among Reps. John McFall of California, now third-ranked as majority whip; Philip Burton of California, chairman of the Democratic Caucus; Richard Bolling of Missouri; and James Wright of Texas.

Burton is generally conceded to be ahead, but he is said to have lost much of the early lead he compiled during the last 18 months. Opponents say this loss is due to his power-broker style in a year when a close ally, former Rep. Wayne Hays of Ohio, was forced to resign in a sex-payroll scandal.

Foes also blame the shippage on the allegedly heavy-handed manner in which Burton ran several caucus sessions on reform matters last summer. Burton denies he has lost ground. McFall is usually considered to be last. His prospects are said to have been hurt by the disclosure two weeks ago that he had accepted $3,000 in cash from Korean businessman Tongsun Park two years ago.

Park also gave McFall a party when he became majority whip in 1973 and gave him a silver service tea set. Three months ago, McFall was given a digital watch by a South Korean legislator.

If McFall loses, it would be the first time in recent history that a step-by-step progression up the leadership ladder had been blocked. This could reflect the fact that nearly half the members of the next Congress will have served less than four years, and they aren't wedded to precedents. Park's favors to members of Congress have cast a shadow of further uncertainty over the Democratic leadership fight.

At least 22 present and former congressmen are reported to be under federal investigation about allegations that they took cash, campaign donations, jewelry, furniture, vacations or other gifts from Park and agents of the South Korean government who reportedly wanted to influence U.S. attitudes toward Seoul.

Among those benefiting from Park's cash was Rep. John Brademas, D-Ind., who has acknowledged that he accepted $4,650 in campaign contributions from Park in 1972 and 1974. Brademas is the leading contender for the third-ranked job McFall now occupies.

Brademas said the donations were legal at the time, and he reported them. Laws passed since bar campaign donations from foreigners.

O'Neill also has been linked to Park. He was the beneficiary of a 1973 birthday party given by Park at a fancy Georgetown private club. Aides say he took no gifts or money from Park.

McFall aides ridiculed rumors that McFall would withdraw and throw his support to Wright.

Wright defended McFall's integrity and said he would not suggest that McFall withdraw. Wright said neither he nor his staff had had any such discussions with McFall.

Bolling also declined to speculate about the impact of the Park donations on McFall's campaign. While maintaining that he didn't want to sound pious, Bolling said: "It wouldn't have occurred to me to take any of that money."

Police Seek Killer Bandit

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit police said today they were still searching for a bandit who shot and killed a father of three as his wife watched in horror Saturday night. Leon Brown, 54, was shot to death after leaving a meeting at a social club on the city's West Side. Police said Brown and his wife had just left a meeting of the Meridianites — an organization of people native to Meridian County, Miss. Police said Brown's wife was already in the couple's car when two men approached him and demanded money. Brown was shot in the back as he reached for his wallet, and the thieves fled with $70.

Residents Welcome 'Peacekeepers'

Syrian Troops Enter Beirut

By FAROUK NASSAR
Associated Press Writer
BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Syrian troops and tanks of the Arab League peace-keeping army rolled into Beirut today to complete the occupation of the Lebanese capital and try to end the 19 months of Christian-Muslim civil war.

Spokesmen for the warring Lebanese and Palestinian factions said the invasion was a 99 per cent success by mid-morning, with the Syrians in control of the city's radio and television stations, the central bank and government offices, and the no man's land dividing the city.

But sporadic firing continued between radical Palestinians and right-wing Christian militiamen in the rubble-strewn commercial district in the heart of the city.

The first Syrian casualties since the occupation began five days ago also were reported. An infantryman's legs were blown off by a land mine in Ein Rummaneh, a Christian slum area. Another soldier was killed when an armor-piercing grenade mounted on his rifle went off accidentally. The blast also wounded two soldiers.

Syrian forces were also moving into other areas of western Lebanon. One armored brigade penetrated deep inside the 800-square-mile Christian enclave north of Beirut to take over the Byblos coastal region 30 miles from the capital and Kiserwan, a mountain district.

A Syrian-Sudanese contingent advanced into the Chouf mountain area southeast of Beirut, the stronghold of Socialist leader Kamal Jumblatt's Druze Muslims.

There was no word, however, of Syrian penetration into Moslem-held Tripoli and Sidon, 60 miles north and 25 miles south of Beirut. The Syrians also were staying away from the southern border, apparently to avoid friction with Israel.

Heavy machine-gun fire and artillery and rocket explosions that began during the night still shook Beirut as the 6,000 Syrian troops and 400 tanks, many decorated with roses and olive branches, moved into the city from the north, east and south at dawn. The fighting later subsided.

Jubilant residents rushed to balconies and lined the streets to greet the Syrians with chants of

"ahlan wasahlan." Arabic for welcome. Housewives tossed rice on the camouflaged tanks and sprayed crews with rose water as they rumbled into an area of fashionable cafes. One man climbed onto a Syrian jeep and kissed two young soldiers.

Two other mechanized brigades of 6,000 Syrian troops backed by 200 tanks ringed the capital, and Syria's air force was put on alert to help quell any resistance, an Arab League spokesman said.

It was the first time that Beirut had been occupied since 1958, when U.S. Marines landed to put down a Moslem uprising against Christian President Camille Chamoun.

Bulldozers smashed through concrete and snailing barricades in the streets while tank columns created a five-mile security belt along the city's crescent-shaped Mediterranean seafloor.

Columns supported by scores of personnel carriers and multiple rocket launchers swept into the city's devastated center to set up a 300-yard buffer zone along the three-mile front line dividing the Christian and Moslem sectors.

The buffer zone was established within six hours, and civilians talked about the crossing point where only a day ago snipers killed six persons and wounded 11. One man was selling bananas from a pushcart.

The Syrians took control of government office buildings, the water and electric plants, and the deserted barracks of the Lebanese army.

One armored unit branched out to reopen the airport highway, crossing the Moslem slum district of Chiyah, a stronghold of radical Palestinians and scene of some of the hottest fighting.

An armored battalion bulldozed its way through Christian lines into the devastated downtown commercial center. Advance units fanned out to enter the neighboring seaport gutted by scores of fires during the war.

Prickly Predicament

NEW YORK (AP) — Penelope the Porcupine is back with her owners after being stolen from the back of a pickup truck in Greenwich Village.

A crate containing the 11-pound, 7-month-old pet was among the items snatched by a thief Thursday night from the truck belonging to Liz Trooster Morris. The thief kept some furs worth about $1,000, but abandoned the crate when he discovered its contents.

Penelope, who likes to eat pretzels, pickles and chocolate, was found by a man who had read an article in the Daily News reporting her abduction. He turned the porcupine over to the superintendent of a state park, who contacted Mrs. Morris.

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Syrian troops and tanks of the Arab League peace-keeping army rolled into Beirut today to complete the occupation of the Lebanese capital and try to end the 19 months of Christian-Moslem civil war.

Spokesmen for the warring Lebanese and Palestinian factions said the invasion was a 99 per cent success by mid-morning, with the Syrians in control of the city's radio and television stations, the central bank and government offices, and the no man's land dividing the city. But sporadic firing continued between radical Palestinians and right-wing Christian militiamen in the rubble-strewn commercial district in the heart of the city.

The first Syrian casualties since the occupation began five days ago also were reported. An infantryman's legs were blown off by a land mine in Ein Rummaneh, a Christian slum area. Another soldier was killed when an armor-piercing grenade mounted on his rifle went off accidentally. The blast also wounded two soldiers.

Syrian forces were also moving into other areas of western Lebanon. One armored brigade penetrated deep inside the 800-square-mile Christian enclave north of Beirut to take over the Byblos coastal region 30 miles from the capital and Kiserwan, a mountain district.

A Syrian-Sudanese contingent advanced into the Chouf mountain area southeast of Beirut.

the stronghold of Socialist leader Kamal Jumblatt's Druze Moslems.

There was no word, however, of Syrian penetration into Moslem-held Tripoli and Sidon, 60 miles north and 25 miles south of Beirut. The Syrians also were staying away from the southern border, apparently to avoid friction with Israel.

Heavy machine-gun fire and artillery and rocket explosions that began during the night still shook Beirut as the 6,000 Syrian troops and 400 tanks, many decorated with roses and olive branches, moved into the city from the north, east and south at dawn. The fighting later subsided.

Jubilant residents rushed to balconies and lined the streets to greet the Syrians with chants of

"ahlan wasahlan," Arabic for welcome. Housewives tossed rice on the camouflaged tanks and sprayed crews with rose water as they rumbled into an area of fashionable cafes. One man climbed onto a Syrian jeep and kissed two young soldiers.

Two other mechanized brigades of 6,000 Syrian troops backed by 200 tanks ringed the capital, and Syria's air force was put on alert to help quell any resistance, an Arab League spokesman said.

It was the first time that Beirut had been occupied since 1958, when U.S. Marines landed to put down a Moslem uprising against Christian President Camille Chamoun.

Bulldozers snatched through concrete and sandbag barricades in the streets while tank columns created a five-mile security belt along the city's crescent-shaped Mediterranean seafloor.

Columns supported by scores of personnel carriers and multiple rocket launchers swept into the city's devastated center to set up a 300-yard buffer zone along the three-mile front line dividing the Christian and Moslem sectors.

The buffer zone was established within six hours, and civilians milled about the crossing point where only a day ago snipers killed six persons and wounded 11. One man was selling bananas from a pushcart.

The Syrians took control of government office buildings, the water and electric plants and the deserted barracks of the Lebanese army.

One armored unit branched out to reopen the airport highway, crossing the Moslem slum district of Chiyah, a stronghold of radical Palestinians and scene of some of the hottest fighting.

An armored battalion bulldozed its way through Christian lines into the devastated downtown commercial center. Advance units fanned out to enter the neighboring seaport gutted by scores of fires during the war.

Prickly Predicament

NEW YORK (AP) — Penelope the Porcupine is back with her owners after being stolen from the back of a pickup truck in Greenwich Village.

A crate containing the 11-pound, 7-month-old pet was among the items snatched by a thief Thursday night from the truck belonging to Liz Troester Morris. The thief kept some tools worth about $1,000, but abandoned the crate when he discovered its contents.

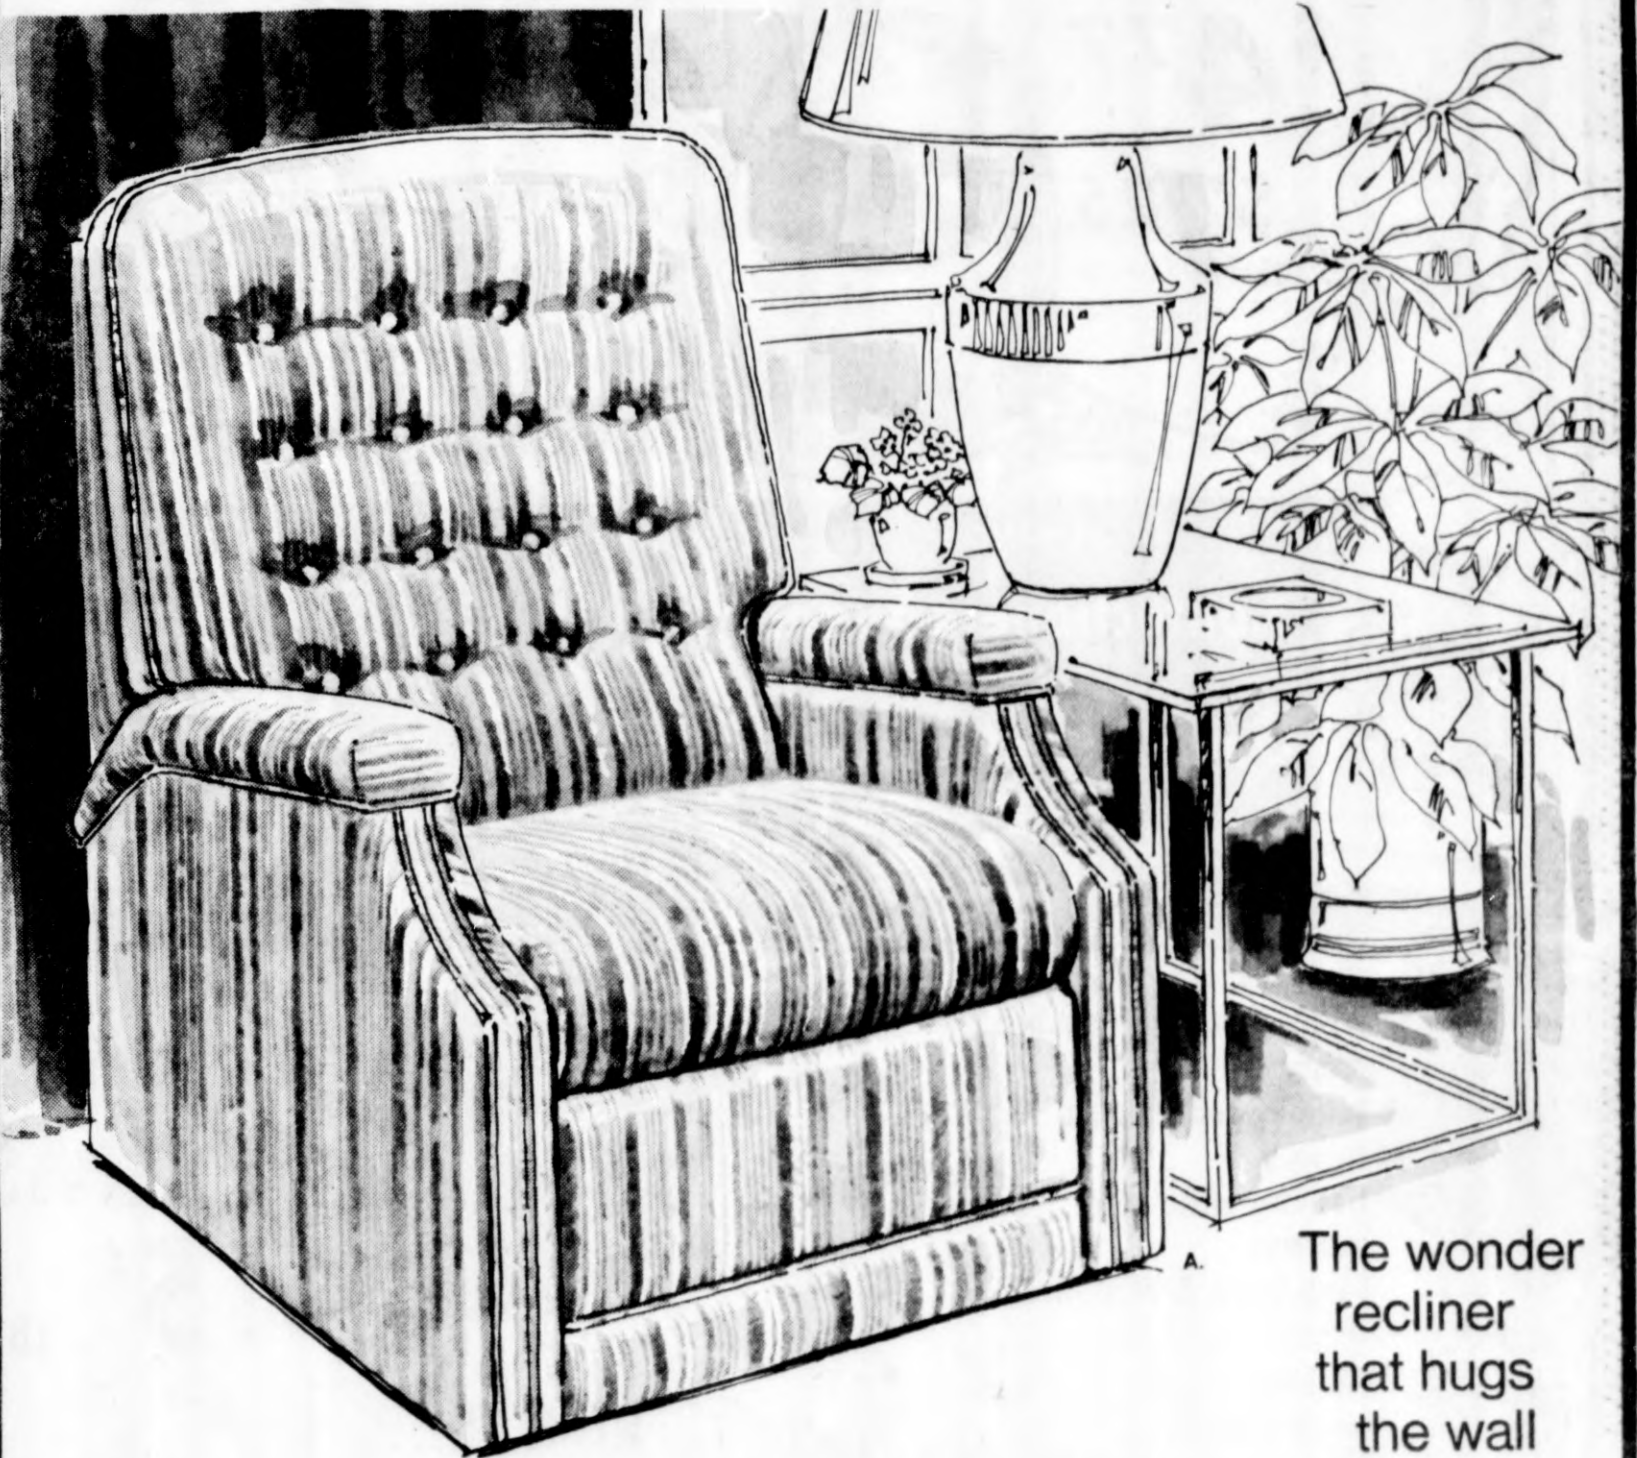

Penelope, who likes to eat pretzels, pickles and chocolate, was found by a man who had read an article in the Daily News reporting her abduction. He turned the porcupine over to the superintendent of a state park, who contacted Mrs. Morris.

Illinois Vet Says It Works

Acupuncture For Animals

MILAN, Ill. (AP) — When conventional medicine failed to cure a cat with chronic bladder problems last June, a Milan veterinarian turned to a medical art that dates back nearly 5,000 years — acupuncture.

Dr. Robert M. Herath said he gave the cat an anesthetic and then injected gold threads into the bladder and kidney points that were "deficient in energy."

Since that time, the cat has had no recurrence of the problems, Herath said.

Herath, who received a degree in veterinary acupuncture at Purdue University, said he has used the ancient Chinese medical art on hundreds of dogs and cats.

Basically, he said, acupuncture deals with the nervous system.

Educators Inspect LMC Reading Lab

Lake Michigan College's new reading laboratory got an inspection from professional educators from four states recently in a series of tours through LMC's reading-improvement facilities.

Twelve representatives from the University of Wisconsin at Milwaukee; Tulsa County Area Vocational-Technical school, Tulsa, Okla.; Buchanan, school district; and the governing board of the Chicago community colleges inspected the LMC equipment.

The reading improvement lab was developed by Dr. Arthur Batchelder, associate professor of reading, as a part of the research required for his doctoral dissertation.

After the tours, the visitors attended a seminar conducted by Dr. Batchelder on the topic "Basic Principles of Adult Reading Criteria." Lorraine Guild, assistant professor of reading, also participated in demonstrating LMC's reading improvement lab equipment to the educators.

Right To See Letters Of Recommendation aired

WASHINGTON (AP) — College deans and teachers are pressuring students to give up their legal right to see letters of recommendation that professors write about them, a government commission has been told.

Frank Till, director of information services for the National Student Association, testified before the Privacy Protection Study Commission that the law should be changed so students could not waive this right.

The commission has completed three days of hearings on a two-year-old law that permits students or their parents to see their school records.

Till charged that a provision allowing a student to waive his right of access "is generating a climate of coercion by administrators and faculty people."

"I don't understand what kind of things people are interested in saying about a student that they wouldn't say if the student could read them," Till said.

His view contrasted sharply with that of Martin L.J. Griffin Jr., dean of undergraduate studies at Yale University, who testified that students and teachers alike believe open recommendations to be of little value. Griffin said that making the letters subject to student review hampers forthright expression by the professor.

Under questioning by Commission Chairman David F. Linowes, a professor of political economy at the University of Illinois, Till agreed that "a great deal of recommending occurs on the telephone" anyway. "Would not this increase if we ended the waiver?" Linowes asked.

Till conceded that it would.

Bad Posture Curves Spine And Will Aid Disease

The strong and healthy condition of a giant spruce tree is proof that there was nothing wrong with its environment when it was a sapling.

In the same way, healthy, robust men and women who stand straight and move freely are those who had a good posture habit during their growing years.

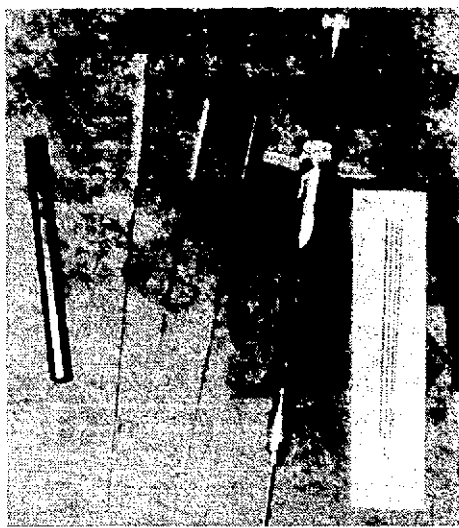

Many trees as well as humans, however, are bent and misshapen.

According to Dr. Vince Ackerman Of The Ackerman Chiropractic Center, "it does not take much to bend a body so that it will grow unnaturally. A young student in high school, in the habit of slumping, may spend as much as four hours a day sitting improperly—a lot of growing goes on during those hours. Then at home, there is more slumping as he reads, watches TV, eats dinner.

"It is no surprise that

The flow of blood and energy to the affected area is increased by inserting a needle or gold thread in a sore point, he said.

"If Western medicine works, I don't use acupuncture. If Western medicine fails, I use acupuncture," he said. "It's no panacea — just one more armament I have to cure a patient."

Fords Due Back In Washington

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — His voice and waistline restored to pre-campaign fitness, President Ford is returning to the White House after eight days of golfing and swimming in the Southern California desert.

The President and Mrs. Ford and daughter, Susan, were due back in Washington tonight from a stay that began Nov. 7.

Ford reported that his athletic endeavors had trimmed four pounds from his weight and claimed the desert sun had helped cure his voice, made hoarse by campaign speeches.

Dr. Vince Ackerman

spinal curvature is common among children," said Dr. Ackerman.

"Not enough emphasis is placed on proper posture, and the problems which later result are even worse than imagined."

The curved spine means vertebrae are pressed close together in some places, rather than having the same amount of space all the way around the edge of each individual bone. This, of course, means that nerve trunks leaving the spine are pinched, and the organ, muscle or gland served by that vital nerve cannot get the normal flow of messages from the brain — this means it is wide open to malfunction or outright disease.

"Correct the causes of spinal curvature," stated Dr. Ackerman "or if the curvature has already occurred, take steps to correct it with professional care." Dr. Ackerman maintains offices at 3918 Red Arrow Hwy., St. Joseph (Telephone 428-1700.)

Confidential Data Safeguards Sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government says it is using computer safeguards to prevent insurance companies that handle Medicare claims from gaining access to confidential information about Social Security beneficiaries.

The safeguards were installed in a new computer system that already links two private insurance company offices to Social Security data banks, the Social Security Administration said. The safeguards will be included when the computer link is extended to 17 more private insurance offices in the next two years, the SSA said.

Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif., and Charles G. Rose, D-N.C., complained earlier this year that the new computer link could give the firms access to Social Security records listing people's income, assets, marital status and other information irrelevant to Medicare claims.

But Social Security Commissioner James B. Cardwell has told the two congressmen that the new safeguard system, installed Oct. 23, will guarantee that private firms obtain health files only.

Cardwell said there was no indication that the two companies had violated anyone's privacy in the new program, called Social Security Administration Data Acquisition and Response System.

The government hires about 125 private companies to examine and pay the bills for 25 million elderly and disabled Medicare patients. They are called intermediaries in the case of hospital bills and carriers if they handle medical bills.

LMC CONFERENCE SET FOR DEC. 7

Children's Plight To Be Topic

The worsening plight of thousands of American children, in and out of institutions, will comprise the topic of a day-long conference at Lake Michigan college Tuesday, Dec. 7.

The event is being jointly sponsored by the LMC Institute of Professional and Paraprofessional Studies, the Student Senate, LMC Women's Center, and Delta Phi Psi college sorority.

The conference, according to Katherine Turner, IPPS administrative assistant, was sparked by recent state and national instances of child abuse by emotionally unbalanced parents; child neglect by impoverished parents; the sale of children by unscrupulous parents; and the mistreatment of children in penal and mental institutions.

The conference will begin with a seminar at 10 a.m. in the LMC Blue Lecture hall, Room D-202. At 7 p.m. an illustrated lecture will be held in the Blue Lecture hall.

Tickets for the evening lecture can be obtained from the LMC Community Services office or at the door. Ticket price has been set at $2 for adults and 75 cents for area junior and senior high school students.

Juvenile, probation, and law enforcement officers as well as social service employees are invited to attend.

Wine Judging Is All Work

By MICHAEL RUBIN
Associated Press Writer

SANTA ROSA, Calif. (AP) — It sounded like a wine lover's dream: he a wine judge and taste dozens of some of California's best wines.

But before it was over my tongue was pickled and puckered and my mouth felt like it had been marinated in a cask forgotten in some dark corner by the little old winemaker.

It seemed so inviting: an invitation to join six wine experts on a wine panel for the annual Sonoma County Harvest Fair judging. No one mentioned it would be work, three days of dawn-to-dusk, hard-core slurping.

Being a devotee of the grape, I couldn't turn down this opportunity.

But my mouth almost needed medical help some 350 glasses of wine later, and none of my friends was sympathetic. They thought I had enjoyed myself, but they failed to differentiate between wine drinking and wine tasting.

We wine experts — they did invite me to be a judge — must painfully and regrettably spit out each slurp after rolling it over and around our palates. Trying to take even a tiny sip of that many wines — more than 100 a day — would leave one's skull heavily overcast. It would be hard to tell the simple difference between red and white wines, much less any subtle nuance. It would even be hard to remember to go home at night.

It's all very strict. Hidden away in another room under secret code numbers, the wines are poured into numbered glasses, then brought to the judges' tables. There, the grapevine gurus carefully examine each wine making careful written notes on each facet of a wine's characteristics: color, smell, flavor. We dip into our knowledge of what a certain grape variety's wine tastes like — each has its own distinctions — and then try to decide how good, or bad, each sample is.

After sniffing and sipping we voted on each wine; either it won an award or it didn't.

So there we were. Seven of us — Ruth Ellen Church of the Chicago Tribune, David Pursglove of the Washington Star, international wine writer Alexis Boppart, wine editor Henry Rubin of Bon Appetit Magazine — no relation — and Profs. James Gynnon and Cornelius Ough of the University of California at Davis' School of Enology.

With few words we set to our task. The first series of shimmering yellow-gold white wines came out, beginning what became a series of unending waves of wine glasses. We eagerly worked our way through the opening rounds of white wines, joyous fruity fragrances and perfumes filling our noses.

Things got more difficult when we returned after a brief break and found awaiting our opinion 18 numbered glasses of Pinot Chardonnays, the finest white wine grape of California and France. There were the finest subtleties of grape flavor and intensity to look for as well as variations of wood aging or lack of it.

Our knees got wobbly by late afternoon of the second day when, already weary, we came face-to-face with 25 potent Zinfandels, the heady berryish red wine.

Barely had we sipped our way through, aided by increasingly frequent gulps of water to clear our palates, when the "coup de moult" appeared: 22 Cabernet Sauvignons — the full, assertive variety of French Bordeaux grape, the one which makes California's best red wine.

When it was over we were all puckered out. In fact a beautiful Sonoma County Winegrowers Association dinner that evening, despite a groaning table laden with the area's finest fine wines, three judges sheepishly wolfed down an ice cold beer.

At the end of three days they told us we each had tasted 347 separate glasses of wine; averaged 1,388 tastes each; as a group gone through 2,429 glasses of wine and proclaimed our opinions based on a total of 8,718 tastes. No count was made of stained teeth.

Clergymen Will Meet In St. Joe On Tuesday

The Twin Cities Clergy association will meet Tuesday at noon at Memorial hospital, St. Joseph.

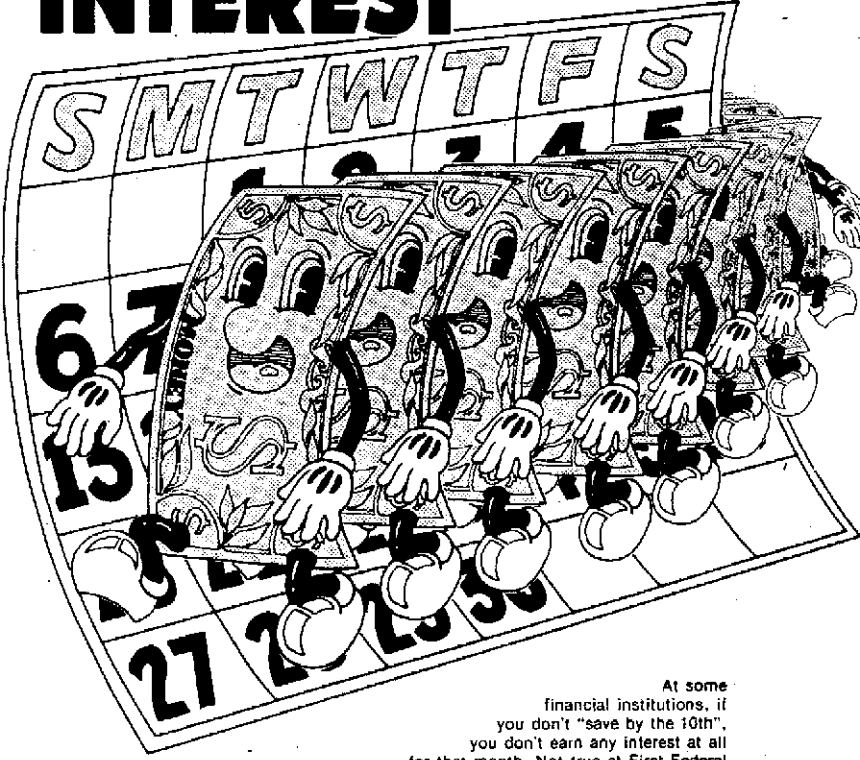

The topic of the meeting will be "Mental Health Ministries." Speakers will be Frank Sanders, director of social services for Memorial hospital; Dr. Martin F. Albert, director of Riverwood Mental Health center, and the Rev. James R. Kok, chaplain of Pine Rest Christian hospital, Grand Rapids.

"This should be a most important opportunity to learn about mental health services in the community and how to increase clergy capacities and capabilities for ministry to the mentally ill," said the Rev. David Wheeler, secretary-treasurer of the clergy group.

All clergy of the area are invited. Those who wish to have lunch at the hospital may go through the cafeteria line and eat in the private dining room. The program will begin at 12:40 in the board room of the hospital.

Rin Tin Tin's Pal Is Reliving Days Of Glory

REDONDO BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Why would a 33-year-old carpenter get up every morning to watch television reruns of "Rin Tin Tin?" Lee Aaker says he does it to watch himself and relive the days 20 years ago when he played the boy, Rusty, in the series.

"When I'm here, I always watch it," said Aaker, who left the show 18 years ago and has been out of show business altogether since the early 1960s. I sit back and look at all the mistakes and think to myself that I should have done this or it would have been better if I'd done that," he said. "Sometimes I kind of blush and think, 'Hey, that was kind of cute.'"

When Aaker turned 21, he said, the studio paid him a lump sum of about $100,000, and he spent the rest of the '60s traveling around the world "as sort of a flower child." He gets little money from the reruns, he said, but received a residual check last month.

Aaker, now a carpenter, lives with his girlfriend in a one-bedroom cottage in this Los Angeles suburb. He said he isn't trying to get back into acting, "but I wouldn't turn down a good offer."

He gets together several times a year with Frank Barnes, the man who trained the German Shepherds for the show. There were three Rin Tin Tins — the main star, a stunt dog and a backup dog.

Aaker said he has three dogs — all small. "If I lived out somewhere where he could run, I'd love to have a big dog like a German Shepherd," he said. "But there's no room here."

Separated From Divorce Ranch

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Joan Drackert once played hostess to the famous and wealthy, who flocked to her Donner Trail Ranch to get divorced. Families like the Rockefellers and the Du Ponts — as well as more ordinary folks — came here in the 1950s and 1960s because Nevada's six-week residency requirement made it the easiest state in which to shed a spouse.

But once other states liberalized divorce laws starting in about 1970, Reno's guest ranches were doomed.

"It was a lucrative business, but things changed," said Mrs. Drackert, who now runs an Indian goods store with her husband, Harry.

"You could stay at our ranch for $90 a week or spend a couple of hundred a week," she said. "It just depended on what you wanted to do or could pay. Some people washed dishes to pay for their stay."

Others brought servants along with them and whiled away the hours riding horses through rambling countryside along the Truckee River. Fittingly, Mrs. Drackert herself came to Reno 30 years ago from New York City to get a divorce. She worked at a guest ranch during her stay, and after her marriage was dissolved, she decided to stay.

Today, the Donner Trail Ranch lies decrepit in its beautiful location west of town.

Reno, meanwhile, having lost most of the divorce industry, is trying to make up for it with a new one. Couples can get married here for $10 in 10 minutes. And many are — state records show that there is a marriage every five minutes in Nevada.

Town's 'Mask Law' Could Hurt Santas

By MANUEL SCHIFFRIS
Associated Press Writer
OWENSBORO, Ky. (AP) — The city attorney says he's worried that the conviction of two "Martians" could make sidewalk Santas vulnerable to arrest this Christmas.

City Atty. Larry Harrington said he will ask the city commission to revise a 1924 ordinance, enacted with the Ku Klux Klan in mind, which forbids any "assemblage of persons" to gather or march in public "with masks over their faces or other covering device which conceals their identity."

The law was invoked most recently in August, when two young residents, dressed as Martians with aluminum masks, gloves and antennae, surprised a friend in what they intended as a joke.

But it was 2 a.m., and the friend, a grocery store clerk, feared a holdup and called the police.

A judge ordered Bernard Wink, 18, and Bonnie Bell Bacon, 20, to do 20 hours of public service work. Wink, who did not show up for his assignment, eventually was fined $103.50.

Harrington said he doubts that the law is applicable to Santa Claus alone, but he added that he also would have doubted it could be applied to two "Martians."

"It might constitute disorderly conduct for two people to masquerade as Martians at 2 a.m. in the morning, but I question whether it constitutes a violation of this ordinance," he said.

"If it prohibits Martians, it prohibits Santa Claus too," Harrington said. "If it doesn't prohibit Martians, because they are not a group, then it wouldn't prohibit Santa Claus."

Harrington noted that as it stands, the ordinance could cover Halloween trick-or-treaters in groups. But he thinks the ordinance does serve a purpose. "Whatever the demonstration may be, it is important that the public know just who is demonstrating and to be able to observe them," Harrington said in an interview.

To clear up the ambiguities once and for all, Harrington said he will ask the city commission to consider a revised ordinance which "would not prohibit small groups of people from depicting characters to carry out the intent of a parade or some other humorous purpose."

Soviet Chief Visits Yugoslavia

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Soviet Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev arrived today for a three-day visit that President Tito hopes will help protect his country from Soviet domination after the 34-year-old Yugoslav leader is gone.

Brezhnev, during his last visit in 1971, endorsed the 1955-56 declarations in which Nikita Khrushchev and Tito agreed that relations between Yugoslavia and the Soviet Union would be based on mutual respect for the sovereignty, independence, integrity and equality of each nation.

They also pledged not to interfere in each other's internal affairs "for any reason — economic, political or ideological — because questions of internal system, different social systems and various forms of development of socialism are the exclusive affair of peoples of individual countries."

Yugoslav Communist leader Jure Bilar, in an interview with the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia during the weekend, stressed that "strict adherence to these principles gives to the development of Soviet-Yugoslav relations a complacent character, free of crisis and tensions."

Tito in 1948 was the first foreign Communist leader to reject the Kremlin's domination. In recent years, a number of Communist parties have followed his lead.

Recently there has been a resurgence of pro-Soviet activity among Yugoslav Communists, resulting in the arrest of about 100 persons. With Tito's long rule drawing to a close and factional strife within his party, likely after his unifying influence is gone, he is expected to press his guest for another affirmation of Yugoslav independence.

The two leaders were to discuss a number of other matters. One undoubtedly will be the policies U.S. President-elect Jimmy Carter is likely to follow toward the Soviet Union and Yugoslavia. During his election campaign, Carter said he would not use American troops to help Yugoslavia if the Soviet Union attacked it.

Yugoslavia would like to obtain Soviet assistance in its conflict with Austria over the Slovenian minority in southern Austria and with Bulgaria over the Macedonians in Bulgaria. Brezhnev in turn may seek Tito's help for a rapprochement between the Soviet Union and Egypt.

WALKING TALL: Little Jimmy Dickens is approaching his 30th anniversary as a country music recording artist. He's been on Nashville's Grand Ole Opry since 1948. (AP Wirephoto)

NOVELTY SONG STAR WANTS TO SWITCH Jimmy Dickens Turning To Ballads

By JOE EDWARDS
Associated Press Writer

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Jimmy Dickens is only 4-foot-11 but stands tall in the eyes of his fellow country music singers.

"Jimmy is one of the greatest showmen of all times," says Hank Snow. "He is a great artist, a good box office attraction and he's a good person — and that's what it takes."

Faron Young calls Dickens "Mr. Entertainer."

Dickens, 55, is approaching his 30th year as a recording artist. He's been on the Grand Ole Opry almost continuously since 1948 and put 700,000 miles on a motor home during the past five years making personal appearances.

He's been in Europe 13 times, was the first country music artist to circle the globe on a world tour and has lost count of his recordings. He's a likely candidate for the Country Music Hall of Fame.

Despite the glittering background, he's changing his career slightly. He's going to concentrate on ballads instead of novelty songs like "May The Bird of Paradise Fly Up Your Nose," which made him famous.

"I've always liked to do ballads, and I've put them on the back of my novelty songs," Dickens said at the office of his booking agent.

Wayne Hodge, his manager, said Dickens "has never been produced to show the abilities he contains. Jimmy has always been spotlighted as a novelty song singer, but I strongly believe in his talents to sing ballads, and I predict that he will soon be riding high on top with ballad-type songs."

His current release is "Preacher Man," written by Billy Joe Burnette and Dale Royal, who wrote the summer smash "Teddy Bear."

"Preacher Man" is the best record I've ever made," Dickens said. It's a recitation about a truck driver-preacher who delivers sermons over a Citizens Band radio until he's killed.

It's a change of pace from his biggest hits, such as "Old Cold Tater," "Country Boy," "A Sleeping at the Foot of the Bed," "I'm Little But I'm Loud," "Out Behind the Barn" and "Raggy Ann."

As suggested by some of his song titles, Dickens uses his size as an asset.

"My size has always helped me," said the 120-pounder. "I play the biggest guitar I've got (to accentuate his size). To my knowledge, my size has never hurt me. I've never had a complex about it."

One of the reasons he's so respected is his devotion to country music. He cannot be drawn into saying anything even remotely critical of the industry.

Asked if he's concerned about trends in country music, he replied, "No." Instead of being defensive about progressive country music, as some traditionists are, Dickens praised Willie Nelson for "simple and down-to-earth music."

He said he's changed his act very little during his career, although his show is drawing more young people.

"I haven't changed my music much," he said. "My business mostly is return business. People still like down-to-earth, grassroots music. They can understand it."

"But I'm getting more young people now. I draw middle-age working class people and young people. The young people are beginning to learn and like country music more. I don't have an explanation for it, but I think bluegrass has had a lot to do with it. Bluegrass is being played so much at colleges now. Bluegrass festivals draw tremendous crowds."

Hundred-Buck Thank-Yous

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Later this month, some 5,000 buyers of 50-cent "Michigan" lottery tickets will find themselves with extra $100 prizes as the state lottery gives away some $500,000 in a two-week holiday bonus. "We begin our fifth year of operation, we think that giving away a half-million dollars in additional prizes is an appropriate way to say 'thanks' to our customers," Lottery Commissioner Gus Harrison said. Each of about 5,000 persons will collect the $100 bonus on tickets dated for drawings on Nov. 26 and Dec. 2. Ticket for the holiday bonus go on sale Tuesday, and will continue to be sold through Nov. 30. The tickets are regular 50-cent tickets, and the usual prizes will be awarded as well. The bonus will be an extra, officials say.

Apathy Growing About All Shots

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans are becoming increasingly apathetic about getting immunization against diseases, medical authorities say.

A meeting of the National Institutes of Health over the weekend was told that lack of interest in preventing disease through vaccination extends beyond the current swine flu inoculation program.

Moreover, said Dr. David Sencer, head of the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, drug manufacturers may stop producing vaccine soon because they are worried about the rare ill effects the serums produce.

Dr. Theodore Cooper, assistant secretary of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, reported that there has not been a single claim for damages so far from any of the nearly 20 million persons who have been inoculated against swine flu.

He said he knows of only one "expression of intent" to sue, in the death of an elderly person in Pittsburgh. He also said he was aware of "half a dozen or less" inquiries about how to sue the government arising from the flu shots.

On the subject of "public apathy" over immunization, Cooper said there is widespread unawareness over the threat still posed by such childhood diseases as measles, polio, diphtheria and whooping cough.

Only about 60 per cent of children between ages one to four are getting shots against these diseases, medical authorities said.

Cooper also said the swine flu inoculation program is no longer expected to reach its original target of 200 million Americans. He said the government may decide next week to abandon plans to give the vaccine to 40 million children ages 3 to 18 who have been left out so far.

Budget Forecast Indicates Carter Has Tough Job

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford administration says government spending in 1978 may total $430 billion, a 10 per cent increase over the current fiscal year, even if there are no new Democratic programs.

If the estimate is accurate, it would result in a budget deficit of between $32 billion and $38 billion without any new spending by President-elect Jimmy Carter.

The administration estimated that spending for this fiscal year which began Oct. 1 will be nearly $413 billion, compared to $386 billion in actual outlays in fiscal 1976.

Budget receipts in fiscal 1978 could range from $396 billion to $416 billion, depending on growth of the economy, the administration said. Ford officials also projected that unemployment won't drop below 7 per cent until late 1977, about one year behind schedule.

Carter has said he hopes to change that outlook by fulfilling a campaign pledge to create new jobs.

Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., chairman of the House Banking Committee, said he would prefer spending on job programs to stimulate the economy, rather than a tax cut.

Other top House Democrats have advised caution on consideration of a tax cut, an idea Carter has said may be needed to push the economy out of a stall.

Ford will submit a proposed budget for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1, 1977, to Congress on Jan. 17, three days before Carter takes office.

Budget Director James T. Lynn said it could help serve Carter as a guide to spending changes.

The administration's latest budget figures suggest Ford, had he been elected, would have had a tough time honoring a campaign pledge for a balanced budget by 1979.

With inflation held to the lowest possible, 5 per cent, and unemployment reduced to 5.5 per cent, the administration said the deficit would still be $32 billion in the 1978 fiscal year, an amount that would be difficult to eliminate in just one year.

Carter has pledged a balanced budget by 1981.

The new budget projections are required by the Congressional Budget Act and are based on the anticipated cost of continuing federal programs at 1977 levels.

But since the figures don't take into account policy changes or new programs, the Office of Management and Budget warned that they may be off the actual amounts.

WALKING TALL: Little Jimmy Dickens is approaching his 30th anniversary as a country music recording artist. He's been on Nashville's Grand Ole Opry since 1948. (AP Wirephoto)

NOVELTY SONG STAR WANTS TO SWITCH Jimmy Dickens Turning To Ballads

By JOE EDWARDS
Associated Press Writer
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Jimmy Dickens is only 4-foot-11 but stands tall in the eyes of his fellow country music singers. "Jimmy is one of the greatest showmen of all times," says Hank Snow. "He is a great artist, a good box office attraction and he's a good person — and that's what it takes."

Faron Young calls Dickens "Mr. Entertainer." Dickens, 55, is approaching his 30th year as a recording artist. He's been on the Grand Ole Opry almost continuously since 1948 and put 700,000 miles on a motor home during the past five years making personal appearances. He's been in Europe 13 times, was the first country music artist to circle the globe on a world tour and has lost count of his recordings. He's a likely candidate for the Country Music Hall of Fame.

Despite the glittering background, he's changing his career slightly. He's going to concentrate on ballads instead of novelty songs like "May The Bird of Paradise Fly Up Your Nose," which made him famous.

"I've always liked to do ballads, and I've put them on the back of my novelty songs," Dickens said at the office of his booking agent. Wayne Hodge, his manager, said Dickens "has never been produced to show the abilities he contains. Jimmy has always been spotlighted as a novelty song singer, but I strongly believe in his talents to sing ballads, and I predict that he will soon be riding high on top with ballad-type songs."

His current release is "Preacher Man," written by Billy Joe Burnette and Dale Royal, who wrote the summer smash "Teddy Bear."

"Preacher Man" is the best record I've ever made," Dickens said. It's a recitation about a truck driver-preacher who delivers sermons over a Citizens Band radio until he's killed.

It's a change of pace from his biggest hits, such as "Old Cold Tater," "Country Boy," "A Sleeping at the Foot of the Bed," "I'm Little But I'm Loud," "Out Behind the Barn" and "Raggedy Ann." As suggested by some of his song titles, Dickens uses his size as an asset. "My size has always helped me," said the 120-pounder. "I play the biggest guitar I've got (to accentuate his size). To my knowledge, my size has never hurt me. I've never had a complex about it."

One of the reasons he's so respected is his devotion to country music. He cannot be drawn into saying anything even remotely critical of the industry.

Asked if he's concerned about trends in country music, he replied, "No." Instead of being defensive about progressive country music, as some tradi-

tionists are, Dickens praised Willie Nelson for "simple and down-to-earth music."

He said he's changed his act very little during his career, although his show is drawing more young people. "I haven't changed my music much," he said. "My business mostly is return business. People still like down-to-earth, grassroots music. They can understand it."

"But I'm getting more young people now. I draw middle-age working class people and young people. The young people are beginning to learn and like country music more. I don't have an explanation for it, but I think bluegrass has had a lot to do with it. Bluegrass is being played so much at colleges now. Bluegrass festivals draw tremendous crowds."

Apathy Growing About All Shots

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans are becoming increasingly apathetic about getting immunization against diseases, medical authorities say.

A meeting of the National Institutes of Health over the weekend was told that lack of interest in preventing disease through vaccination extends beyond the current swine flu inoculation program.

Moreover, said Dr. David Sencer, head of the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, drug manufacturers may stop producing vaccine soon because they are worried about the rare ill effects the serums produce.

Dr. Theodore Cooper, assistant secretary of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, reported that there has not been a single claim for damages so far from any of the nearly 20 million persons who have been inoculated against swine flu.

He said he knows of only one "expression of intent" to sue, in the death of an elderly person in Pittsburgh. He also said he was aware of "half a dozen or less" inquiries about how to sue the government arising from the flu shots.

On the subject of "public apathy" over immunization, Cooper said there is widespread unawareness over the threat still posed by such childhood diseases as measles, polio, diphtheria and whooping cough.

Only about 60 per cent of children between ages one to four are getting shots against those diseases, medical authorities said.

Cooper also said the swine flu inoculation program is no longer expected to reach its original target of 200 million Americans. He said the government may decide next week to abandon plans to give the vaccine to 40 million children ages 3 to 18 who have been left out so far.

Budget Forecast Indicates Carter Has Tough Job

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford administration says government spending in 1978 may total $450 billion, a 10 per cent increase over the current fiscal year, even if there are no new Democratic programs.

If the estimate is accurate, it would result in a budget deficit of between $32 billion and $36 billion without any new spending by President-elect Jimmy Carter.

The administration estimated that spending for this fiscal year which began Oct. 1 will be nearly $413 billion, compared to $366 billion in actual outlays in fiscal 1976.

Budget receipts in fiscal 1978 could range from $396 billion to $416 billion, depending on growth of the economy, the administration said. Ford officials also projected that unemployment won't drop below 7 per cent until late 1977, about one year behind schedule.

Carter has said he hopes to change that outlook by fulfilling a campaign pledge to create new jobs.

Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., chairman of the House Banking Committee, said he would prefer spending on job programs to stimulate the economy, rather than a tax cut.

Other top House Democrats have advised caution on consideration of a tax cut, an idea Carter has said may be needed to push the economy out of a stall.

Ford will submit a proposed budget for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1, 1977, to Congress on Jan. 17, three days before Carter takes office.

Budget Director James T. Lynn said it could help serve Carter as a guide to spending changes.

The administration's latest budget figures suggest Ford, had he been elected, would have had a tough time honoring a campaign pledge for a balanced budget by 1979.

With inflation held to the lowest possible, 3 per cent, and unemployment reduced to 5.5 per cent, the administration said the deficit would still be $32 billion in the 1978 fiscal year, an amount that would be difficult to eliminate in just one year.

Carter has pledged a balanced budget by 1981.

The new budget projections are required by the Congressional Budget Act and are based on the anticipated cost of continuing federal programs at 1977 levels.

But since the figures don't take into account policy changes or new programs, the Office of Management and Budget warned that they may be off the actual amounts.

POSTER CHILD: Matthew C. Brown, of Roswell, Ga., has been chosen as the 1977 National Poster Child for the Muscular Dystrophy Association. He is confined to a wheelchair and drew national attention last Labor Day weekend when he was interviewed by Jerry Lewis on muscular dystrophy telethon

A high-contrast, black and white photograph of a large industrial machine, possibly a steam engine or turbine. The machine features a large, circular central component with a dark, textured center and a lighter, flange-like outer ring. Above this central part is a smaller, cylindrical component. To the right of the machine, a person is standing, providing a sense of scale. The person is wearing a light-colored, patterned shirt and dark trousers. The background is dark and indistinct, suggesting an industrial setting. The overall image has a grainy, high-contrast quality, typical of older newspaper photographs.

Oregon Railroad Buffs Dig Real Thing

SUMPTER, Ore. (AP) — Most railroad buffs satisfy themselves with electric trains and singing songs about Casey Jones and the Wabash Cannonball. Not the Sumpter Valley Railroad Restoration Association.

This group has its own railroad.

Its 200 members worked on and off for five years to restore two miles of track of the Sumpter Valley Railroad, which went out of business more than 30 years ago. They have erected their own depot near this eastern Oregon town.

They also have a locomotive. The line was dedicated last summer, and the whole community turned out to ride on the train.

"It's kind of a hobby that got out of hand," said Lee Meyers, association treasurer.

"I've always wanted my own electric train. But the real thing is a lot more exciting," said Dale Shumway, vice president.

The Sumpter Valley Railroad was built in 1910 for the burgeoning logging and mining industries of the area. It was abandoned in the early 1940s. The ties were salvaged and used elsewhere. Only the roadbed was left.

descendant of a founder of the line.

He said it was fun to plan a railroad, but that laying ties and track is hard work, especially if you've worked all day on a regular job.

Association members started working on the railroad in their spare time in 1971.

Nels Christensen, association president, said everyone involved likes railroads and felt that building a railroad line was the best way of pursuing their interests. If you like railroads, you like railroads.

Christensen is an ironworker. He was invaluable when it came to rebuilding the group's pride and joy, a 1910 woodburning Heister locomotive.

The association begged and borrowed to buy the engine from Boise Cascade Corp. for $7,500, along with some open air observation and flatcars.

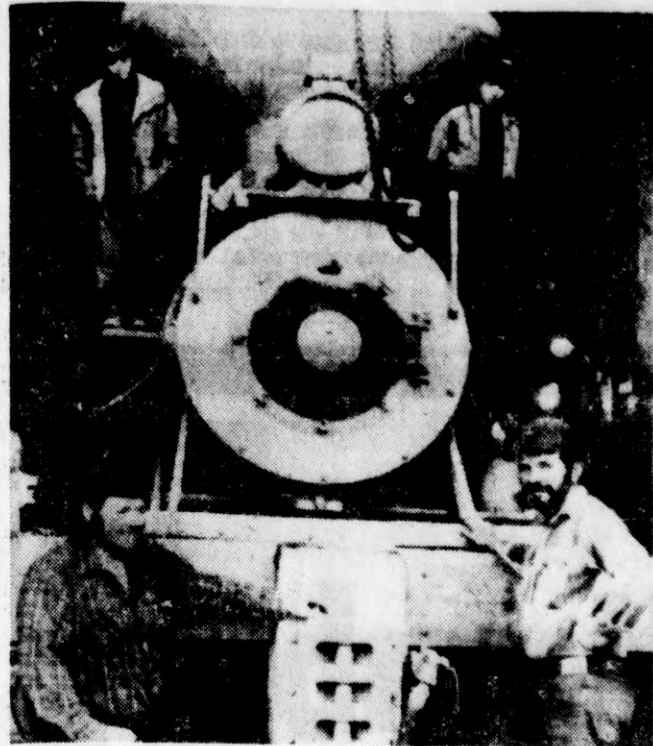

The locomotive and rolling stock were hauled to Baker, Ore., from Idaho with the help of the Union Pacific Railroad. Union Pacific also donated nearly two miles of 36-inch narrow gauge track and granted permission for the restoration. It owns the Sumpter Valley would like to get more track from Union Pacific. They want to extend the line from the right-of-way.

Today the group gives rides on the railroad and keeps the equipment shining. Are they happy they're done. Nope.

Christensen said the group present two miles to six miles, from the depot to Sumpter.

Like we said, if you like railroads, you like railroads.

Reinstatement Refused

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich. (AP) — A Macomb County judge has refused to reinstate a county employee who sent newspapers letters that were critical of local politicians. Circuit Judge Edward J. Gallagher said that state law did not give him the right to order reinstatement of John Pilarowski. Pilarowski, 31, of Chesterfield Township, was an administrative assistant in the county health department from 1969 until last July 28 when he was fired by the department's director, Dr. Leland Brown. The firing reportedly came because of the letters Pilarowski wrote to the Macomb Daily, criticizing area officials. "If this matter was in federal court, the outcome might be different," Gallagher told him. "But it is not and I can not grant your order." Judge Gallagher did not rule on the merits of the suit, which charged Pilarowski's right of free speech had been violated by his dismissal from his $14,800 a year job. Thomas Bleakley, attorney for Pilarowski, said an appeal would be filed.

Today in History

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, Nov. 15, the 329th day of 1976. There are 46 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1777, the Articles of Confederation were approved by the American Continental Congress. The document was the law of the land until the Constitution went into effect.

On this date:

In 1492, Christopher Columbus noted in his journal the use of tobacco among the Indians. It was the first recorded reference to tobacco.

In 1805, the Lewis and Clark expedition reached the mouth of the Columbia River after a long trek across the West.

In 1806, Pike's Peak in Colorado was discovered by the explorer, Zebulon Montgomery Pike.

In 1889, the Republic of Brazil was founded.

In 1969, 250,000 protesters against the Vietnam War staged a peaceful demonstration in Washington.

Ten years ago: An American commercial cargo plane with seven tons of mail crashed inside Communist East Germany, killing all three crewmen.

Five years ago: Communist China, making its first statement in the United Nations General Assembly, demanded that the U.N. reduce the influence of the superpowers.

One year ago: President Ford arrived in Paris for a six-nation summit meeting on Western economic policy.

Today's birthdays: Diplomat Averell Harriman is 85. Singer Petula Clark is 42.

Thought for today: "Gray hair is a sign of age, not of wisdom," ancient Greek proverb.

Bicentennial footnote: British forces in New York were preparing to cross the Harlem River and demanded that the Americans surrender Fort Washington. U.S. Colonel Robert Magaw replied that he was fighting for the most glorious cause that mankind had ever fought for and was determined to defend the post.

Rock Star Piqued At Critics' Praise

By PETER J. BOYER

Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Warren Zevon has been hailed as a kind of rock Socrates with a standup comedy act, a lyrical Chevy Chase with a piano.

He is loved by critics, who insist he descended onto the rock scene to "puncture the balloons of pretension" crowding the rock-star-cum-desperado milieu of Jackson Browne, the Eagles, Linda Ronstadt and other purveyors of the rock musician-as-outlaw cliché.

So, after years of obscurity that found him writing jingles for the wine industry, cutting an album that zoomed non-stop into oblivion and serving as the honorary coroner for Pitkin County, Colo., Zevon is relishing the national praise, right?

He quivers with joy when Newsweek lauds his driving "the self-destructive hedonism of L.A. rockers literally into the ground," right?

And when Rolling Stone magazine had the savvy to recognize that the "French Inhaler" track off his "Warren Zevon" album was really a jab at Norman Mailer's exploitation of Marilyn Monroe, Zevon just knew he had made it, right?

Wrong. "Puncturing the balloons of pretension?" laughs Zevon, quoting one assessment of his work. "Now that would be too much. God knows, it's hard enough to write without adding considerations like those."

"I'm pleased to see the amount of response I've gotten, it's thrilling, that goes without saying," says the articulate, soft-spoken singer-songwriter. "But there are a few instances in which critics have taken an irresponsible leap of false intuition and made assumptions about the subject matter of songs that is not correct. "It has piqued me a little, you know?"

The "Desperados Under the Eaves" cut on his highly successful "Warren Zevon" album is the song critics most often point to when trying to illustrate Zevon's satirical acumen.

The scenario is the Hollywood Hawaiian Hotel; the rock desperado — in fashion typical to songs of this genre — spits out his toughness: "All the salty margaritas in Los Angeles, I'm gonna drink 'em up." He is then lulled into a stupor by the air conditioner.

"They (critics) are sure that 'Desperados Under the Eaves' is a satire on the Eagles," Zevon says. That group's "Desperado" has become their hallmark.

While critics were praising Zevon for knocking some of the haughty idealism out of rock's desperados, Zevon was in fact pursuing the same themes himself.

As for "French Inhaler" being an attack on Mailer's "Marilyn," Zevon says:

"That is the most autobiographical song on the album, the one most literally drawn from my life. When they say it is a personal attack on Norman Mailer, it bothers me. For one thing, Mailer is a bar fighter. I don't want to run into that guy some night and have to say, 'Norman, that song isn't about that at all.'"

While Zevon may not be the musical Mort Sahl he is made out to be, he isn't just another L.A. hedonist. For one thing, there is indeed a refreshing streak of humor in his work. "But it is never directed at anybody but myself," he says, adding after a moment's reflection, "I think."

Bridge Down; Town Cut Off

VULCAN, W.Va. (AP) — Squeezed between a steep hill and the swift Tug River, Vulcan has always been an isolated town. But since the bridge over the river collapsed a year and a half ago, residents say their situation has become critical.

They have learned to live with inconveniences such as out-of-town stores refusing to deliver, but many blame their predicament for large numbers of school dropouts, layoffs from work and one woman's death.

The 70-year-old cable bridge, the main link between this southern West Virginia community and Kentucky and the world, collapsed in the summer of 1975. "Neither West Virginia or Kentucky would claim that old bridge," said Carl Blackburn, a longtime resident.

Said Albert Norman, a neighbor, "The piers slowly rotted away and nobody ever repaired them." Since the collapse, the 500 residents have had to resort to a narrow, bumpy, unpaved two-mile stretch of right-of-way along the Norfolk & Western railroad track, which eventually leads to Edgarton, W.Va., and a state highway.

The path is dangerous and narrow — just wide enough for one car in many places — and the railroad prohibits school buses and commercial vehicles. In addition, the path often is blocked by trains on intersecting tracks. The ban on buses has prompted several teenagers to drop out of school for lack of transportation. Miners who live in Vulcan repeatedly miss work shifts because the tracks are blocked.

Mindy Jones said the situation has cost some men their jobs. She also said it contributed to the death of her daughter last winter. "She had had a baby and had been back home a week when she started hemorrhaging," recalled Mrs. Jones. "The ambulance came and got her but there was a train on the track when the driver pulled out."

Highway officials in both states have rejected plans from Vulcan for a new bridge.

Bridge Down; Town Cut Off

VULCAN, W.Va. (AP) — Squeezed between a steep hill and the swift Tug River, Vulcan has always been an isolated town. But since the bridge over the river collapsed a year and a half ago, residents say their situation has become critical.

They have learned to live with inconveniences such as out-of-town stores refusing to deliver, but many blame their predicament for large numbers of school dropouts, layoffs from work and one woman's death.

The 70-year-old cable bridge, the main link between this southern West Virginia community and Kentucky and the world, collapsed in the summer of 1975. "Neither West Virginia or Kentucky would claim that old bridge," said Carl Blackburn, a longtime resident.

Said Albert Norman, a neighbor, "The piers slowly rotted away and nobody ever repaired them." Since the collapse, the 500 residents have had to resort to a narrow, bumpy, unpaved two-mile stretch of right-of-way along the Norfolk & Western railroad track, which eventually leads to Edgarton, W.Va., and a state highway.

The path is dangerous and narrow — just wide enough for one car in many places — and the railroad prohibits school buses and commercial vehicles. In addition, the path often is blocked by trains on intersecting tracks. The ban on buses has prompted several teen-agers to drop out of school for lack of transportation. Miners who live in Vulcan repeatedly miss work shifts because the tracks are blocked.

Mindy Jones said the situation has cost some men their jobs. She also said it contributed to the death of her daughter last winter. "She had had a baby and had been back home a week when she started hemorrhaging," recalled Mrs. Jones. "The ambulance came and got her but there was a train on the track when the driver pulled out."

Highway officials in both states have rejected pleas from Vulcan for a new bridge.

Bandits Rob Supermarket In Dowagiac

By ALAN AREND

Staff Writer

DOWAGIAC — Three men, one armed with a double-barreled shotgun, robbed Harding's Supermarket here of some $3,000 in cash last night, Dowagiac police reported.

Police Chief Michael Schott said the three men entered the store on Railroad street about 9:15 p.m. and ordered the cashier to fill two paper bags with cash from the cash drawer.

One of the three guarded the door while one watched customers and the third stayed with the cashier, Jill Szymonski, Edwardsburg, police reported. The officers said eight people were in the store when the holdup occurred. According to police, the three men were described as black and in their early 20's.

Police said the trio left the store and crossed the parking lot before disappearing around a nearby corner.

Schott said no one had been arrested yet.

On Oct. 12, three black men, brandishing knives, robbed Bakeman's Carry-Out store, 508 South Front street, Schott said, that descriptions of that trio do not match those from last night's robbery.

Du-Well's President Honored

DAVID J. WALTON

Receives award

BANGOR — David J. Walton, president of Du-Well Metal Products, Inc., here, recently received a top award from the American Die Casting Institute (ADCI), according to the 200-member company trade association.

Walton was one of two men to receive the ADCI's Austin T. Lillegren award for loyal and extraordinary service to the industry. Walton was presented his award at the ADCI's 48th annual meeting held last month in Chicago.

Also receiving the same award was Joseph J. Cornazzi, senior vice president of Advance Pressure Castings Corp., Denville, N.J.

The ADCI especially cited Walton for promoting and organizing a new ADCI regional group in Michigan. Walton lives in Bangor with his wife and three children.

The ADCI consists of die casting firms and suppliers to the industry located in North and South America, Europe and Japan.

ADCI has conferred the Lillegren award upon industry leaders for the past 16 years. It is named for a former president of the organization who played a key role in strengthening its programs and industry acceptance, according to the organization.

At the same annual meeting, William T. Andresen, vice president of Du-Well Metal Products, Inc., was re-elected chairman of the Die Casting Research Foundation (DCRF), technical arm of the ADCI.

In addition to being vice president of Du-Well, Andresen is general manager of its plants in South Haven and Hartford. He and his wife, Barbara, and their two children live in South Haven.

DOWAGIAC — Andrew J. Biek, 20, route 1, Dowagiac, received a broken leg, cuts and bruises, when the pickup truck he was driving went off M-62 to avoid hitting an oncoming vehicle, according to Cass county sheriff's deputies.

Biek was listed in good condition this morning at Pawtucket hospital, Niles, after being transferred there from Lee Memorial hospital, Dowagiac.

Police said Biek was heading northwest on M-62 in LaGrange township, around 1 a.m. this morning when he said an oncoming vehicle forced him off the road. The pickup truck then rolled over several times before coming to rest against a tree, deputies said. The pickup truck was totaled, deputies said.

Six Indiana Men Facing Armed Robbery Charges

THREE OAKS — An off-duty state trooper and Three Oaks police arrested six Indiana men near here about a half-hour after two hitchhikers reported they were robbed at knife-point early Sunday in New Buffalo township.

Trooper DeWayne Hellinga of the New Buffalo state police post said he had heard a description of a car allegedly used in the robbery and spotted a similar vehicle in Three Oaks while on his way home, according to a report filed by Berrien Sheriff's Deputy Gordon Drake.

Two New Buffalo men, both 18, Brian R. Daley, 102 South Barker, and Anthony R. Altman, route 1, Box 251, told deputies they were picked up in a car in which six men were riding on Red Arrow highway near the Galien river about 12:15 a.m. They said they were threatened with a knife and robbed of $3, a watch and a pair of work gloves. They said they were let out of the car on Lakeside road near Union Pier and reported the robbery about 12:35 a.m. unhurt. Hellinga told deputies he called Three Oaks police and a car with six men in it was stopped on Three Oaks road shortly after 1 a.m. Booked at the Berrien county jail on charges of armed robbery were William Walter, 20, Westville; Larry and Robert Doll, 19 and 21, Wamatah; Allen Satkoski, 18, William Colley, Jr., 18, and Robert Eaton, 20, all of Union Mills.

four. They said they were told one of the four was moving into house, however, and was being helped by the other three. Troopers said an ambulance was dispatched to the house, at 7241 Harbert road, about 1:30 p.m. after neighbors said they found at least one of the four unconscious on the lawn at the house. A faulty furnace leaking natural gas was blamed, police said.

McLaughlin Asked To Stay

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — State Republican Chairman William McLaughlin has been asked to stay on the job by Gov. William Milliken and U.S. Sen. Robert Griffin. McLaughlin is up for reelection to another two-year term in February at the state GOP convention. He said he won't make up his mind to accept his fifth term for a few weeks, although he is leaning toward accepting. McLaughlin, 44, said his decision will rest in part on whether Milliken runs for another term as governor. "I don't think I would stay on if the governor took himself out of the race," he said.

MIDLAND A-PLANT RISES: Construction of Consumers Power Co., Midland nuclear generating plant is reported 17 per cent completed, despite delays through design changes and inflation since project was announced in 1968. Cost originally was estimated at $260 million, but increased to $1.67 billion by last August, company reported. When completed, plant will produce 1.3 kilowatts of electricity for Consumers customers, and 4 million pounds of process steam for Dow Chemical Co., directly across Tittabawassee river from plant in southwest Midland. Company said first unit (800,000 kilowatt) is expected to begin commercial operations by 1981. The other (500,000 kilowatt, plus the steam) should be in operation by 1982, company said. Indiana & Michigan Electric's Cook nuclear plant at Bridgman announced in 1967 it has one generating unit in operation. Total cost for the plant with a 2.2-million kilowatt capacity is now projected at $980 million. I&M said it has made many changes along the construction route, but the basic design has remained the same. (Aerial photo by Adolph Hann)

Berrien Springs Bank Gets State Nod

By STEVE MCQUOWN

Staff Writer

BERRIEN SPRINGS — The Michigan Department of Commerce has approved the organization of the Heritage bank, a move that apparently will give this community two new banking institutions in the near future.

The proposed Heritage bank, backed by mostly Berrien Springs area incorporators, would be located on University plaza, on the east side of US-31-33, near the Garland drive intersection.

A second proposed bank, Michigan National bank of Michiana, Cassopolis, has been issued a building permit for construction of a branch bank at the intersection of Third street and US-31-33.

The First National bank of Southwestern Michigan already has an established branch in the community.

L. Eugene Merkel, one of the Berrien Springs incorporators of the proposed Heritage bank, said he and other incorporators have only to sell bank stock before final state approval clearing the way for bank building construction.

The state's department of commerce said proposed capitalization of the new bank is $800,000.

Heritage bank incorporators besides Merkel include John D. Freeman, Owen F. Moore, William R. Nelson, Loyal C.

Oliver, Leon R. Slikkers, Leonard R. Smith, and Wilson L. Trickett, all of Berrien Springs.

The Cassopolis bank is owned by Michigan National corporation of Lansing, one of the largest banking institutions in the state.

First National bank of Southwestern Michigan, with headquarters in Niles, has 11 branches in Berrien and Cass counties.

Fatal Fire Cause Still Unknown

PAW PAW — A spokesman for the state fire marshal's office here said the cause has still not been determined for a mobile home fire near Bangor Friday which claimed the lives of a 19-year-old woman and three children.

"I doubt very much if we'll be able to come up with a definite cause," Sgt. Phillip Nielsen, of the fire marshal's office, said.

Nielsen said, however, that three matches, one of which had been lit, were discovered under the body of one of the victims, 18-month-old Vern Bennett III. Relatives said they had not known any of the children to have played with matches before, he said.

Nielsen said that although it appears the blaze started near an oil furnace, most of the burning appeared to be underneath the floor area, rather than above the furnace. He said it is possible a gas stove in the mobile home may have contributed to the fire, but that it was difficult to tell because the dials on the stove were badly burned.

The victims were identified as Marcia Slayton, 19, route 2, Bangor; her daughter, Jennifer, 2½; Vern Bennett III, 18 months, and his brother, Michael, six months. Vern and Michael were the children of Mr. and Mrs. Vern Bennett Jr., CR-487, Hartford.

Investigators said Mrs. Slayton was a regular babysitter for the children. Combined funeral services for the four victims were scheduled to be held this afternoon at the Keeler General Baptist church, Burial is to be in Maple Hills cemetery, Hartford.

Nadia Is Filmed For TV Special

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — On Nov. 23, Nadia Comaneci, the 14-year-old Romanian gymnast who won the hearts of millions and a few gold medals at the summer Olympics, is returning to American TV for an hour.

She's sharing the bill with comic Flip Wilson in a CBS special, filmed earlier this season in her country and the settings in which she was raised, educated and trained for the Olympics.

It's a unique co-star deal in more than one way. Wilson's company, on this venture, had a production partner with the impressive name of Radio-televiziunea Romaniaa.

It is the country's state-run broadcast works. It assigned one of its producers, Dumitru Udrescu, to work with Wilson's gang in the show, both in Romania and back in the States. Udrescu, a genial, rotund man of middle years, was in town last week finishing his work on the show. He took time out to chat — via an interpreter — about the program.

Two crass fiscal questions were put to him: How much CBS-Wilson lent was paid for rights to film and broadcast the show, and how much of that, if any, will go to Nadia or her family?

"First of all, Nada Comaneci and family will not get any of the money sent to Romania based on this contract," he said with an understanding grin at the Yankee concern for such

Marriage Rumored

LONDON (AP) — The marital plans of Prince Charles — if, indeed, there are any — are once again causing speculation here.

According to the London Sunday Mirror, European royalty has begun gossiping about whether the prince, who was 28 on Sunday, will marry the 22-year-old daughter of the Grand Duke Jean of Luxembourg, Princess Marie-Astrid.

times. To avoid jeopardizing Nadia's amateur-athlete status in the eyes of Olympics officials, he said, most of the money "will go to the Romanian gymnastics and sports federation for the development of the sports movement in the country."

He said he didn't know how much money was paid, as another section of Romanian officials handled that matter. CBS declined to reveal the amount, and so did Wilson's manager, Monte Kay.

Under the contract, did Romania — through Udrescu — have the right to say what could or couldn't be put in the show?

Well, the producer said, the contract says both sides should express their views on the show's content as production progresses.

He added, "Of course, we would have the right to intervene and to say, 'Take that out or put this in.'"

(A Federal Communications Commission spokesman says American networks and stations aren't required by law to announce such agreements when airing shows filmed overseas. It's entirely up to them.) Udrescu said this "right to intervene" was exercised in the making of the Wilson show, as would happen with any program co-produced by companies from different countries.

Did any of his intervening involve major differences over the content of the Wilson show? Udrescu's eyes twinkled as his reply was translated for the reporter.

"He says he's sorry," the producer's interpreter said, "but he would have to admit —

WINTER, 1951

American and United Nations troops pursue the North Koreans in the see-saw of the Korean War. Associated Press photographer Max Desfor is with advance elements of the U.S. Third Division trying to catch up with the North Koreans at Yangju, north of Seoul. In the wake of the retreat he death and destruction.

Jan. 27, 1951. Desfor is with troops probing the outskirts of the village. It is a bitter winter, and the snow is deep. Suddenly he sees a pair of hands, together, "rigid and blue, pointing skyward through the deep snow as if in prayer. Near the hands is another opening in the snow."

His camera records this quiet symbol whose story he does not know. Then, soldiers brush away the snow and find the body of an old man. His hands were bound before him, and he apparently had been shot and left alive by the retreating North Koreans. The snow came and covered him thickly. His last warm breath carved the second opening in the crusty blanket. And then he died.

The soldiers went on across the field and found many more bodies, old men, women and children, all bound, some behind their backs, shot and left. Intelligence determined that the North Koreans had taken the civilians with them in retreat, killed them when they could not keep up.

For Max Desfor, the image of those two hands produced an incredible sadness. "The starkness of the scene gripped me. I could only think of the futility of deliberately killing innocent people."

Mexican Indian Societies Doing Fine Without Police

By JUDITH KINNARD

Associated Press Writer

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Imagine your city without funds for police, courts or prisons. What would happen? Crime? Total Chaos? Everyone at the mercy of the criminal? Perhaps.

But some Indians in southern Mexico are demonstrating to a Vanderbilt University professor that communities can maintain a near absence of homicide without formal police, judicial or imprisonment systems.

Through a combination of shared community responsibility for even the most minor decisions and gentle, consistent disciplinary practices toward their children, they have existed almost crime-free for generations, perhaps centuries, says Dr. John Paddock of Vanderbilt University.

"Not only do anti-violent communities succeed where others fail, but they do so in the notable absence of the procedures we use so ineffectually," says Dr. Paddock, who is also director of the Institute of Oaxaca in Mexico.

Dr. Paddock and his colleagues report the anti-violent communities, like their more violent neighboring communities, are made up of Zapotec Indians in the Valley of Oaxaca (pronounced wah ha ka), a flat plain set in the mountains of southern Mexico half way between the Yucatan Peninsula in the east and Mexico City.

Both kinds of communities share the same culture, language, climate, ecology, and poverty as well as the perennial problems of boundary disputes and abundant use of alcohol, says Dr. Paddock.

Yet he has found that in the anti-violent communities, the Indians have managed to hold onto their lands without fighting. Through their child-rearing practices and community codes, they have produced men who show almost no machismo and women who take a strong social role.

Outside of marriage, adult relationships center in community life rather than in close bonds between adults of the same sex. The communities produce almost no professional people and show marked resistance to education beyond 14, the age when their children finish an average of six elementary grades and are eligible for marriage.

In San Francisco, one of the anti-violent Mexican communities, children aged 1 to 3 are firmly, gently and consistently disciplined. Good behavior is expected and rewarded while misbehavior is ignored, Dr. Paddock said his studies show.

Children aged 3 to 7 are kept close to home, disciplined verbally and taught to run away from quarrels or appeal to adults to arbitrate, he said.

In the neighboring, more normally violent communities, discipline for toddlers is arbitrary and subject to the whims of the adults who often take pleasure in showing off children's skills, says Dr. Paddock.

Children aged 3 to 7 are spanked more often, seem more independent and often play away from home. Adults begin to emphasize accomplishment in school, while in anti-violent towns more pride is taken in household skills.

Dr. Paddock tells of one North American woman who offered to meet the costs of secondary and higher education for some of the brightest children in one anti-violent town. The parents politely declined, saying their children would return from city schooling different from the townspeople.

Country's No. 1 Problem

Italy Tackles Tax Evasion Again

By HILMI TOROS
Associated Press Writer
ROME (AP) — Once again an Italian government is trying to tighten the ground rules of one of the nation's most popular sports — tax evasion.

And once again the fear is that the new rules may be "Italianized" before all Italians can be taxed effectively.

A lot rides on the success or failure of the intensified war on tax evaders.

If the minority government of Christian Democrat Premier Giulio Andreotti succeeds in a task that has proved trying to strongmen from the Caesars to Mussolini, Italy may emerge from its current fiscal malaise a healthy nation. It may break even or put some funds aside rather than add to its $16 billion foreign debt.

Tax evasion last year — mostly by the big and small industrialists, the commercial establishment and the self-employed — is estimated by labor sources and financial experts at the equivalent of about $12 billion, equaling the state's deficit for the year. The government discloses no figures on tax evasion although acknowledging it as Italy's No. 1 problem.

Andreotti, surviving in office through the abstentions of the big Communist party in Parliament, has put collection at the top of his "obligatory priorities" if Italy is to avoid financial collapse. He vowed: "The state will collect from everyone what is its due."

Last year the government's tax revenue was $24 billion, but over a half of it, $14 billion, came from the 1.5 million salaried workers, while about $5.5 billion came from industrialists and $3.5 billion from the professional class of doctors, lawyers, engineers and architects.

As part of its crackdown, the government plans to make doctors' fees tax deductible so that as patients claim them, they will also disclose to finance inspectors the names of their physicians and how much they were paid.

There still is no real estate tax on the house occupied by the owner, but other houses owned by him will be taxed as another measure to corner the rich, who are now under fire for not bearing the tax burden.

Lately, an array of personnel has been deployed to check on those who bypass sales taxes. And along the Tyrrhenian and the Adriatic coasts, port officials have already impounded scores of yachts owned by Italians but which fly foreign flags to escape taxes.

Hundreds of vessels of the yacht set tacked away from the taxmen and are now moored on the French side of the Riviera.

Previous governments have been resigned to Italians' anti-tax feelings. The state-run television system, for instance, offers prizes to those who pay their $20 annual license fee through a lottery from paid returns.

"I try to cheat and I succeed," confesses one Roman. "My reasoning is simple: I am not sure if the state will put my money to good use."

Some Milan businessmen say they pay so much in bribes that there seems little reason to pay the right amount of taxes.

&"You have tax consultants," author Franco Valobra told an American. "We have tax evasion consultants. The function of both is to help their clients, in your case to make sure that you pay next to nothing and have it smuggled abroad. Estimates of the flight of capital abroad in the past 10 years have been put at $30 billion.

And rapidly changing tax systems, 12 in the last 40 years, have left even the tax-abiding populace confused.

Only five years ago a citizen had to pay 38 different taxes. Last year joint returns were decreed compulsory but this year were ruled unconstitutional, partly because they infringed on the financial independence of women and partly because accumulated returns pushed a couple's earnings to a higher tax bracket.

It was not until 1974 that Italy instituted the full payroll deduction system. Until then only a minimal sum was withheld, the rest subject to bargaining between the head of the household, who complained how little his income was, and the taxman, who believed how much it should have been. Usually a compromise was reached in lengthy negotiations.

Since 1974, however, the salaried worker should have been sidelined in the tax evasion game since payroll deductions roughly equal the amount of tax due, for example 15 per cent from a monthly paycheck of $600. But a growing, although

BICENTENNIAL FACTS
DURING THE 150 years between Benedict Arnold's treason and the availability of the complete Arnold-Andre correspondence in the 1920s, biographers went from the extremes of describing "a monster who found delight during his boyhood in robbing birds' nests and mangling fledglings" to "awarding him a martyr's crown as the bravest and best American soldier of the war forced into treason because he was neglected and misunderstood." There is still disagreement as to Arnold's true worth as a field commander. The World Almanac notes.

-American Institute of Consumer Opinion

The bottom line was conclusive:

In a series of taste tests conducted for MERIT by the American Institute of Consumer Opinion,* smokers from across the country judged MERIT to have more flavor than five leading low tar cigarette brands.

What's really startling — and of major importance to all smokers — is that MERIT has less tar than these five brands.

Trick Play Helps Benton Harbor Topple Lakeshore

By JACK WALKDEN
Staff Sports Writer

Benton Harbor coach Paul Bergen has always been known for the unexpected.

And Lakeshore mentor Dave Topping painfully got a firsthand look at why Saturday.

The Tigers used a little second-half trickery to stun the Lancers 20-16 at Filstrup Field. And it was one unusual play which eventually spelled the difference.

Leading just 6-0 at halftime, Benton Harbor took over at its own 30 yard line following the second-half kickoff. With the ball marked at the middle of the field, Bergen sent Tiger center Richard Clifton over by the ball in the usual fashion. The remainder of the team faked a huddle at the line of scrimmage on the left sideline.

On a special count, Clifton snapped the ball across the field to Tiger quarterback Andrew Hurst, who raced 70 yards down the sideline with nine blockers in front of him for a touchdown.

"The last game of the year we always practice a few tricks," Bergen beamed. "It's fun and it breaks the monotony. We told the officials before the ballgame that we might try that play. The key is not to let the opponent spot the fact that the huddle is on the line of scrimmage."

"You have to have seven men on the line so you make sure you have six men on the line and the center. After that it doesn't matter."

Topping felt that touchdown was the difference.

"They caught us sleeping at halftime and that was the deciding touchdown," he said. "We weren't ready for that type of play and we gave up an easy one. And we knew that against Benton Harbor we couldn't give up the easy one and expect to win."

Hurst, just a sophomore, had a brilliant day at quarterback for the Tigers. The 5-10, 160-pounder rushed 20 times for 186 yards, his best day of the season.

"Andrew did an outstanding job of reading the option play," Bergen said. "But all of our backs did a good job. If Lakeshore hadn't been forced to honor (Harold) House and (Maverick) Burton, Andrew might not have gotten all that yardage."

"The defense always gives us something with the way we run our offense. Lakeshore decided to give us Andrew's run."

Though yielding 329 yards in total offense, Benton Harbor's defense was tough when it counted. The Tigers stopped the Lancers at the Benton Harbor 12 as the half ended. And a brilliant play by Hurst saved the hosts on the game's final play.

With the ball at the Tiger 46,

Lakeshore quarterback Kevin Campbell fired a desperation pass toward end Tom Jager on the last play. Jager had everyone beaten in the secondary, but Hurst deflected the pass at the last second.

"The biggest thing about our defense was that we hit," Bergen said. "Our kids really hit. We didn't hit late and we kept our poise and cool. It was the finest hitting game we've had all year."

"We could've given anybody a great game today because the kids hit. We stopped their big play and that was another big thing. We felt they couldn't drive on us consistently without the big play."

Jager had a brilliant day for the Lancers, catching four passes for 92 yards. Campbell at quarterback completed six of 13 for 147 yards.

Odell Brister paced the Lancer ground game with 102 yards in 19 carries. Bob Harvey added 73 yards in 21 totes, but it wasn't enough.

"We made some errors that cost us," Topping said. "Penalties played an important part. We beat ourselves. And Benton Harbor played a nice football game. They kept the pressure on us."

Lakeshore was penalized nine times for 101 yards and the Lancers also lost three fumbles, one of which stopped a Lakeshore drive at the Benton Harbor 29.

The Tigers got on the board first, scoring with just 2:42 left in the first half on a 31-yard scoring jaunt by Hurst.

After the unusual play to start the second half,

Lakeshore came back to score on a 24-yard scoring strike from Campbell to Paul Freer. Campbell hit Jager for the conversion to trim the Tiger lead to 14-8 with 5:34 left in the third quarter.

Less than three minutes later, House upped the lead to 20-8 with a seven-yard TD run. Campbell got Lakeshore within striking distance on a quarterback keeper on fourth and goal at the Tiger one with 3:10 to play.

Lakeshore, which tied for the Blossomland conference title, finished 6-3 with the loss. Benton Harbor, on the other hand, wound up with a surprisingly strong 4-5 season.

"Whoever expected us to be 4-5," Bergen said. "And with a few breaks we could've been 5-4. It's a great feeling. The school and everybody has something to be proud of because we played as a team."

"There was steady improvement from this team," added the first-year mentor. "Even when we were losing the kids stayed with it. It's the most satisfying season I've had as a coach. We've come further with this team than I have with any other. It was a great group to work with. They accepted the discipline as a part of themselves."

The 4-5 season is the best for the Tigers since 1970 and 14 of Saturday's 22 starters return next year.

But Still Could Miss Playoffs

Steelers Continue Streak

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

The defending National Football League champion Pittsburgh Steelers are the owners of some pretty impressive statistics.

—They haven't allowed a touchdown in five games.

—After allowing 110 points in the first five games of the season, they have allowed only nine points in the past five.

—They have outscored their opponents 132-9 in the past five games.

—They hadn't given up a point in 15 quarters, including three consecutive shutouts, until Miami's Garo Yepremian kicked a field goal in the third quarter of Sunday's 14-3 Steeler victory.

But the Steelers also must face some pretty depressing realities.

Playing perhaps the best football in the NFL now, they still could miss the playoffs and a chance for a third straight Super Bowl, trailing Cincinnati by two games in the American Conference Central Division with a 6-4 record.

And, for the second time this season, quarterback Terry Bradshaw is injured.

In the first quarter against Miami, Bradshaw sprained his right wrist. Although X rays were negative, Bradshaw said he didn't know how long he would be out.

"I'm coming off a real serious injury, and then something silly like this happens," said Bradshaw, who sustained a serious concussion in the fifth game of the season, an 18-16 loss to Cleveland.

In other NFL games Sunday, New England upset Baltimore 21-14, St. Louis beat Los Angeles 30-28, the New York Giants upset Washington 12-9, Atlanta beat San Francisco 21-16, Oakland defeated Kansas City 21-10, Cleveland downed Philadelphia 24-3, Cincinnati edged Houston 31-27, Chicago defeated Green Bay 24-13, Minnesota downed Seattle 27-21, New Orleans nipped Detroit 17-16, Denver whitewashed San Diego 17-0 and the New York Jets shutout Tampa Bay 34-0. Buffalo is at Dallas tonight.

The Steelers scored on a 21-yard run by Franco Harris, set up by rookie quarterback Mark Krucek's 20-yard pass to Lynn Swann, and Reggie Harrison's one-yard plunge.

Quarterback Steve Grogan ran for two touchdowns, and New England, 7-3, moved to within a game of Baltimore in the AFC East title chase.

Grogan's three-yard scoring run as the first half completed the scoring as the teams battled scorelessly through the second half.

Jim Bakken's field goal with four seconds left provided the winning margin for St. Louis, 82, as Los Angeles, now 6-3-1, failed to pick up any ground on San Francisco in the National Conference West.

Joe Danelo kicked four field goals, and the Giants—still unable to score via the touchdown route—picked up their first victory of the season. All of Washington's scoring came on field goals by Mike Moseley.

Scott Hunter threw two fourth-quarter touchdown passes to Alfred Jenkins as the Falcons, 3-7, dealt San Francisco, 6-4, its third straight loss.

Ken Stabler threw two touchdowns, upping his league-leading total to 20, and Oakland picked up 211 yards rushing, the most this season. Mark van Eeghan led the ground attack with 95 yards.

Cleveland, 6-4 and tied with Pittsburgh in the AFC Central, won its fifth game in the past six on Brian Sipe's two TD strikes. Browns' cornerback Ron Bolton intercepted a Mike Boryla pass in the fourth quarter and ran it back 37 yards for a touchdown.

Ken Anderson's 47-yard touchdown pass to Isaac Curtis with 42 seconds left gave Cincinnati, 8-2, its victory in a game which saw back and forth all afternoon.

Fran Tarkenton set a club record for completion percentage, 26 of 31 for 84 per cent, and threw for two touchdowns as Minnesota came back to beat upstart Seattle, which led 21-20 at one point in the fourth quarter. Tarkenton now has 301 career TD passes.

Denver shutout San Diego for the second time this season as quarterback Steve Ramsey threw for 224 yards, including a 59-yard scoring pass to Rick Upchurch.

The Jets posted their first shutout in 13 years, and Joe Namath came off the bench to ignite a first-half scoring burst, passing two yards to Rich Caster for one touchdown.

Payton's Running Keys Bear Victory

CHICAGO (AP) — "We don't hide our joy," said Chicago Bears' Coach Jack Pardee. But his super runner, unassuming Walter Payton, sure tries.

Pardee talked of the emotion that surrounded Payton when he was mobbed by teammates Sunday after breaking loose for a 42-yard dash late in the Bears' 24-13 victory over the Green Bay Packers. That made him the first National Football League runner to gain 1,000 yards this season.

"It's a big team achievement. Everybody's glad for him," said Pardee. And the customarily quiet Payton felt the same about the other Bears.

"Now that I've gotten there I get more enjoyment looking at those guys," he said, nodding toward his teammates. "They're the ones who did it. I just followed them for 1,000 yards."

Payton reached his milestone by picking up 109 yards and one touchdown in 18 carries. His

1,008 yards made him the first Bear to pass the 1,000 mark since Gale Sayers ran for 1,032 in 1969. Now he's headed for Sayers' team record of 1,231 yards in one season.

One man who doesn't get to see many of Payton's sprints is that put Chicago on top 21-13.

"It's a responsibility and if Walter's hurt and I know they're going to give it to me more, I just work a little harder. We all take up the slack for each other," said the second-year pro from Louisiana Tech.

"I couldn't be denied. I took a few notes from Walter."

The touchdown drive gave Chicago the control they had lost after scoring two first quarter touchdowns following a Packer fumble and a muffed lateral to lead 14-0. Green Bay trailed 14-0 at the half.

"I was awfully worried at halftime because we'd gone flat," said Pardee. "We were having a heck of a time getting a pass rush on (quarterback Lynn) Dickey."

Chester Marcol booted his second field goal of the game, a 27-yarder with 5:42 gone in the third quarter, to close the gap to 14-13.

Green Bay Coach Bart Starr, whose team fell to 4-6, said the turning point was the Harper-led march.

"It was that third quarter drive that did us in. That shifted the momentum back to the Bears," he said.

Pardee wasn't satisfied with the performance that ended the Bears' record at 5-5. He was relieved when the game was over.

"Boy, what a day. We started off and got some lucky breaks, then lost the momentum, then got it back," he said. "It seems like we went through about three seasons."

Mistakes Costly For Detroit

New Orleans Nips Lions

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — It was a long time coming, but New Orleans Saints wide receiver Larry Burton finally showed Sunday why he was the team's top draft choice a year ago.

Burton was hampered by a hamstring pull his rookie season and never got a chance to show his speed. This year, the former Purdue star has sometimes outraced the defense only to drop passes thrown his way.

But Sunday, he posted the only touchdown scored by the Saints offense in a 17-16 Na-

As it was, Johnson felt he committed himself too soon and allowed Burton to score on what could have been just a long gain. "If I had waited a step or two before trying to stop him, I would have caught him," he said.

Aside from a 37-yard field goal by Rich Szaro, the rest of the show belonged to the Saints' defense.

Bob Pollard recovered a Dexter Bussey fumble in the end zone to kill what appeared to be a certain Lions score. And reserve linebacker Warren Capone turned another Detroit fumble into a touchdown.

Trailing 10-9 in the fourth quarter, Detroit drove from its own 29 yard line to the Saints' four. On first down from there, Bussey boomed down to the one, fumbled, and Pollard pounced on the loose ball as it rolled into the end zone.

"The ball just rolled up to me," Pollard said. "I looked down and there it was."

The other fumble came when Lions' punter Herman Weaver got a bad snap from center as he stood in his own end zone. He tried to run the ball out, got caught at the one, and lost the football.

Capone found it, stepped across the goal and registered his first NFL touchdown. He got two last season while playing with Birmingham in the defunct World Football League.

Detroit scores came one a five-yard pass from quarterback Greg Landry to wide receiver Charlie Sanders, a 43-yard field goal by Benny Ricardo and a 16-yard pass from Landry to wide receiver Larry Walton.

Ricardo's attempt for the point after Sanders' touchdown hit the right goal post and bounced wide.

Central Michigan was the runner-up in the large schools competition, losing two games to MSU in the finals.

Notre Dame Holds Off Tide Rally

Late Interception Keys Win

By MARC ROSENWASSER
Associated Press Writer
SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Bear Bryant said Notre Dame made Alabama look "like we were children" in the first half. But the kids grew up in a hurry and almost won the game.

As it was, the 18th-rated Irish escaped with a 21-18 college football victory Saturday, handing the 10th-ranked visitors from the southland their third loss in 10 games this season. Notre Dame is now 7-2.

"Anything we put up they, they were knocking us out like we were children in the first half," Bryant said as he sat among a subdued group of players on the team bus outside Notre Dame Stadium. "It looked like a dummy scrimmage."

It didn't look that way in the second half, however.

The Crimson Tide charged back from a 21-7 halftime deficit, narrowing the gap to 21-18 on the first play of the final period when Jeff Rutledge hit Ozzie Newsome on a 30-yard scoring pass and Newsome ran for the two-point conversion.

From there, it was simply a matter of the hard-pressed Irish holding off the surging Tide. And Alabama, riding a crest of momentum, swept down the field late in the game.

Rutledge passed to Thad Flanagan for 14 yards. Tony Nathan ran for 18 yards and Rutledge hooked up with Newsome on another bomb, this time for 37 yards. Suddenly it was Alabama ball, first and 10 on the Irish nine-yard line.

The clock showed a little more than four minutes remaining and outcome hung in the balance.

It was then that Rutledge made a mistake, he says, he'll remember for a long time. The sophomore quarterback went back to pass and was intercepted when he threw into a crowd in the middle of the field.

Halfback Pete Cavan, who had circled out of the backfield, was all alone in the right corner of the end zone, waving frantically toward the quarterback. But Rutledge never saw him.

"I tried to force it. I didn't see Pete (Cavan). Everyone told me he was wide open," Rutledge lamented after the game. "I should have thrown to Ozzie (Newsome) and no one could have gotten it. I tried to get it to Thad (Flanagan). It was my fault. What hurts is that we came back so hard to let it get away like that."

"All we can do now is look to Auburn. But I'm going to think about this one for a long time."

Broncos Slow Down Cards Title Drive

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A not-so-funny thing happened to Ball State on the way to an apparent Mid-American Conference football championship: The Cardinals lost to Western Michigan 24-10.

So now the MAC title scramble goes down to the last Saturday with four teams in the picture to replace Miami. Besides Ball State, Ohio University, Central Michigan and Kent State can all win it.

Ball State can still decide its own destiny, winning a sole title if it succeeds at Eastern Michigan for a 4-1 league record.

But, if the Cardinals stumble for the second straight week, Ohio can become the champion with a 6-2 league record. That depends on the Bobcats beating Northern Illinois.

Central Michigan and Kent State could be champions if

Ball State and Ohio lose. The Chippewas and the Flashes would share the crown with 5-2 marks if Central wins at Western Michigan and Kent masters visiting Toledo.

Kent and Central Michigan kept alive their slim hopes by winning Saturday, the Flashes beating Miami 24-17 in the last two minutes and the Chippewas thumping Northern Illinois 31-9.

Nonconference action saw Curtis Williams score three times in Cincinnati's 35-0 romp over Ohio, freshman tailback Doug Wiener do the same in Bowling Green's 35-7 victory over Southern Illinois, Eastern Michigan fall to Illinois State 14-6 and Toledo whack Marshall 39-8 as quarterback Jeff Hepinstall tied a school record by figuring in five touchdowns.

Dave McClain, Ball State coach, had no trouble pinpointing the reason for the Cardinals' loss. "Five fumbles and one interception. That's exactly why we lost," he snapped.

Western Michigan halted Ball State drives three of five times inside the 10-yard line. "We worked harder this week on goal-line offense because we were a little shaky last week and look what happens," said McClain.

Elliot Uzelac, Western Michigan's coach, termed it a great victory and said, "We bent but we never busted under Ball State's drives. Offensively, we came into this game to play power football and I think we succeeded."

Supplying the offensive punch were St. Joseph's Doug Lincoln, with two touchdowns, and Jerome Persell, with 197 yards rushing. Still, Western is out of the chase with a 5-3 league record.

from the free throw line. "That was the game right there," LMC coach Lou Harvey said. "All of the team members were freshmen and they were nervous. I don't think they were concentrating."

Foul trouble plagued LMC as starters Leon Lewis, Virgil Savage and Duane Wright each played less than half the game.

"After we lost the three starters, Davenport controlled the backboard," Harvey said.

"They also contained our speed with a 2-3 zone."

LMC hosts Kennedy King College from Chicago at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

WOLVERINES ROUT ILLINOIS

U-M, OSU Play For Title Again

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Did anyone really expect the Big Ten football race to end differently?

What a blow has been suffered by those who have insisted the conference is moving away from the "Big Two-Little Eight" syndrome.

But next Saturday at Columbus it'll be Michigan vs. Ohio State again for the conference championship and Rose Bowl trip — the way it's been every year since 1968.

Michigan rolled to a 38-7 triumph Saturday over Illinois to rebound strongly from the upset by Purdue a week earlier. The victory gives the Wolverines a chance to win a share of the Big Ten title if they can beat Ohio State.

The Buckeyes enter the showdown with a 7-0 conference record (8-1-1 overall) and can do no worse than tie for the title if they lose. Michigan is 6-1 (9-1 overall).

"Today's game was to get us back on the winning track, to bring the team's emotions back to high gear and show people we're still No. 1," said Michigan quarterback Rick Leach. He ran for a touchdown and passed for two more, giving him 13 TD passes for the season to tie him with Bob Chappius for the team record set in 1947.

"Against Ohio State we'll have to play faultless ball and open up early," Leach said.

Fullback-tailback Rob Lytle scored three Michigan touchdowns and rushed for 89 yards to give him 3,085 career yards and make him the team's all-time leading ground gainer by 13 yards over Billy Taylor (1969-71).

"After three years, the rivalry between Ohio State and Michigan has become infectious and I'm looking forward to the game," Lytle said.

Michigan was ranked first until the loss to Purdue, then fell to fourth. Ohio State is eight.

It took the Wolverines 11 plays to drive 61 yards on their first possession to score on an 11-yard Leach sweep. Illinois came back with its own 61-yard march. Chubby Phillips going the last two yards for the score.

Dan Deaver's extra point kicked tied him with fabled Red Grange for the Illini scoring record of 186 points.

The game turned around when Phillips, two plays after U-M punter Greg Willner fumbled a snap, lost his own fumble at the Michigan 23. Soon afterward, Lytle scored on a five-yard pass from Leach. A little later, Leach threw a 7-yard TD pass to Mark Schmerger, just before halftime.

Lytle scored on runs of 13 and

3 yards in the third quarter and Bob Wood kicked a 37-yard field goal in the fourth.

Leach completed nine of 15 passes for 151 yards, wingback Jim Smith grabbing six for 127 yards.

The crowd of 104,107 gave Michigan an average of 103,159 for its seven home games to eclipse the record of 98,449 it set last year.

Michigan State suffered a serious blow in the first quarter when Smith completed a 14-yard pass to Mike Cobb. Cobb injured his right knee and was unable to play the rest of the way.

"The loss of Cobb hurt our offense tremendously," said Rogers.

"When they lost Cobb, they lost a super player," said Pont.

It was the last home game of the season for the Wildcats who drew only 15,204 or 21 more than they attracted the previous week against Minnesota.

Toronto Hit At Box Office

TORONTO (AP) — The Toronto Blue Jays may strike out often on the baseball field in their first American League season next year, but the team promises to be a hit at the box office.

A club spokesman said Monday that the club has sold 5,000 season tickets in the one month they have been available. The team seems likely to set a record for season ticket sales by an expansion franchise.

Iowa State Makes Big 8 Big Mess

Committee Must Pick Bowl Rep

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Who is Iowa State and why are the Cyclones doing such bad things to the Orange Bowl?

The Cyclones have gone along for years serenely minding their own business as one of the doormats of the Big Eight Conference, with a brief flurry of excitement when Johnny Majors took them to the 1971 Sun Bowl and the 1972 Liberty Bowl and then took off for Pittsburgh. Even so, this is only their third winning season since 1960.

So it comes as quite a surprise to see Iowa State — unheralded, unranked and, as yet, uninvited — tied for the lead in the rugged Big Eight Conference with Nebraska, Oklahoma, Colorado and Oklahoma State.

And you can bet it came as a shock to the Orange Bowl people when the Cyclones upended ninth-ranked Nebraska 37-28 Saturday and put the onus of selecting a host team for the New Year's Night game squarely on the shoulders of the selection committee.

And as of late Sunday night, the committee still was scratching its collective head trying to solve the dilemma because the odds are that the race will end in a three-way tie among Colorado — which has only lowly Kansas State left — and the winners of the Nebraska-Oklahoma and Iowa

State-Oklahoma State games.

Matters reached this confusing state when Iowa State toppled Nebraska while 14th-ranked Oklahoma downed No. 11 Missouri 27-20. No. 17 Oklahoma State trounced Kansas State 45-21 and No. 19 Colorado whipped Kansas 40-17.

Seventh-ranked Georgia, 9-1 with one game left, won its way into the Sugar as the Southeastern Conference representative by drubbing Auburn 28-0. Meanwhile, fifth-ranked Texas Tech, 8-0 with three games to go, remained atop the Southwest Conference with a 34-7 rout of Southern Methodist. The Red Raiders have a first-place showdown with runner-up Houston next weekend — the 12th-ranked Cougars were idle last weekend — and tough games with Arkansas and Baylor after that.

Invitations cannot be officially tendered until next Saturday and the Orange and Cotton Bowls insist that Pitt has not turned them down, yet.

The only other bowl berth decided over the weekend was in the Fiesta Bowl, Cinderella Wyoming, which has not been in the Top Twenty all season following last year's 2-9 record, won the right to represent the Western Athletic Conference by shading Texas-El Paso 14-10.

Next weekend, second-ranked UCLA and third-ranked

Southern Cal square off for the Pacific-8 crown and the host spot in the Rose Bowl, while fourth-ranked Michigan and No. 8 Ohio State wage their annual war for Big Ten-Rose Bowl honors.

Meanwhile, sixth-ranked Maryland blanked Clemson 20-0, clinching at least a tie for its third consecutive Atlantic Coast Conference title.

Pitt's Dorsett fell short of the 200-yard mark when he was ejected with 29 seconds remaining after exchanging punches with several West Virginia tacklers. With one regular-season game left — against archrival Penn State on Nov. 26 — Dorsett has 1,724 yards for the season — the major college mark is 1,881 — and 5,858 in his record-shattering career.

Sub tailback James Owens, an Olympic hurdler, scored two of UCLA's three second-period touchdowns as the Bruins whipped Oregon State 45-14. Meanwhile, Southern Cal kept the Pac-8 pace by downing Washington 20-3 as Vince Evans passed for one score and set up another while ailing Ricky Bell was held to 21 yards on 12 carries.

Rob Lytle scored three times and became Michigan's all-time rushing leader with 3,085 yards as the Wolverines rebounded from last week's upset loss to Purdue and belted Illinois 38-7.

Ohio State, however, remained one game ahead of Michigan with a tough 9-3 triumph over Minnesota on Jim Paacenta's tie-breaking fourth-yard run in the second period. Michigan must beat the Buckeyes to reach the Rose Bowl; Ohio needs only a tie.

After Maryland stretched its record ACC winning streak to 19 games in a row, Coach Jerry Claiborne broke a season-long silence on his unbeaten team's status in the national rankings.

"They deserve to be No. 1 or No. 2," he said.

Iowa State's Earle Bruce was not making any such claims but he was quite excited after Dexter Green ran for two scores and Luther Blue returned a kickoff 95 yards for another touchdown against Nebraska.

Terry Miller may be the greatest thing that ever has happened to Oklahoma State. He rushed for 221 yards and tied the Big Eight record of five touchdowns against Kansas State.

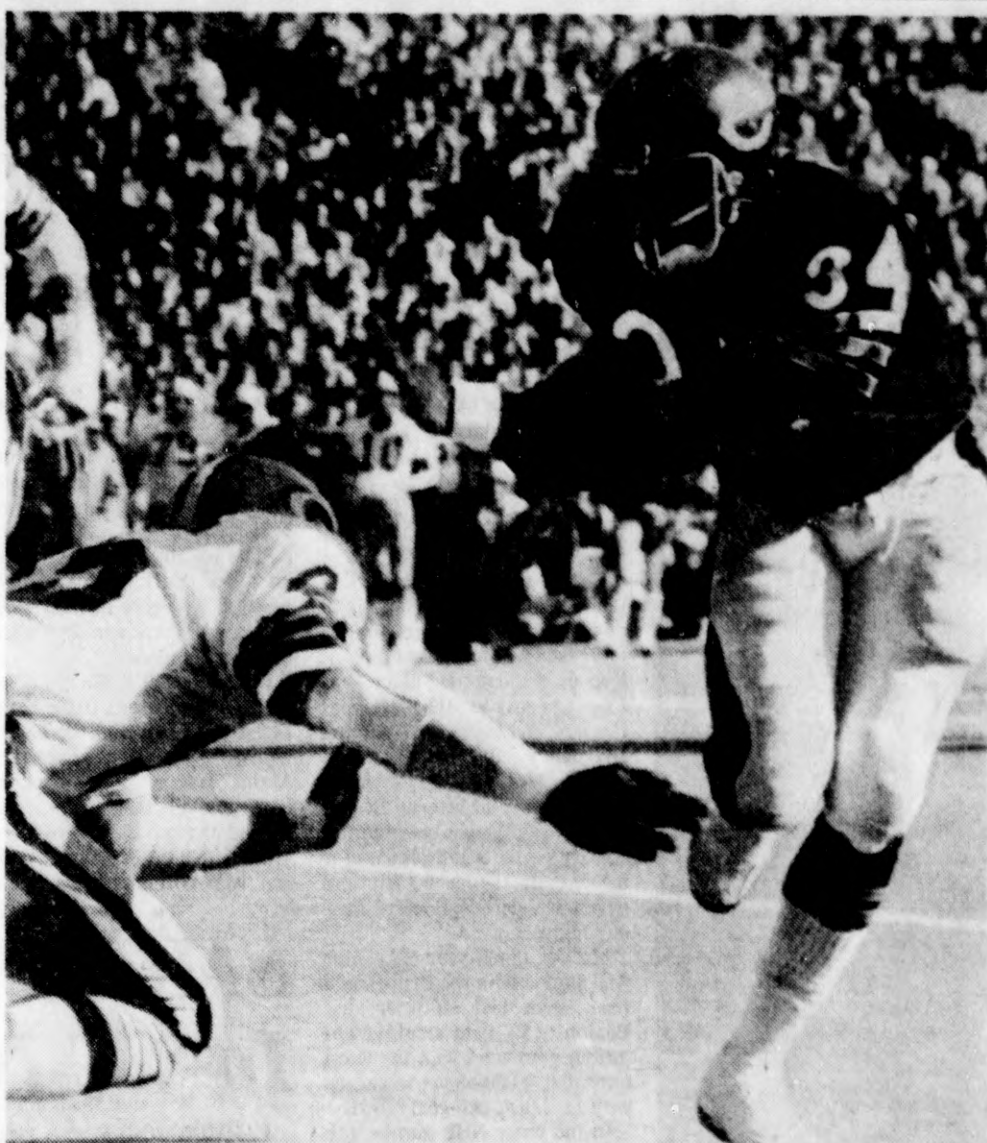

Tenth-ranked Alabama and No. 18 Notre Dame are not in contention for the national championship this year, but they played a thriller, with the Irish winning 21-18 behind Rick Slagter's 208-yard first-half passing, including a 56-yard touchdown bomb to Dan Kelleher.

Rounding out the Top Twenty, No. 16 Texas A&M bounced No. 13 Arkansas out of the SWC chase 31-10. Kentucky upset 15th-ranked Florida 28-9 and Wake Forest kayaked No. 20 South Carolina 10-7.

East Carolina lost to Furman 17-10 and must win or tie against Appalachian State to take Southern Conference honors. Ball State blew a chance to win in the Mid-American Conference, losing to Western Michigan 24-10, but the Cardinals have another shot next week against Eastern Michigan.

The Ivy League wound up in a tie between Brown, a 21-7 winner over Columbia, and Yale, which downed Harvard 21-7.

Rutgers defeated Tulane 29-20 and extended the nation's longest winning streak to 17 games, while Northwestern ended the longest losing skein at 16, whipping Michigan State 42-21. Army reduced the number of teams with perfect records to four — Pitt, Texas Tech, Maryland and Rutgers — by disposing of Colgate 29-13.

PAYTON TOPS: Chicago Bears' Water Payton (34) tries to break the tackle by Green Bay Packers' Perry Smith (45) as he picks up five yards during the first quarter of Sunday's game in Chicago. Payton finished the game with 109 yards in 18 carries to give him 1,008 yards for the season. He is the first back to gain 1,000 yards in the NFL this season. (Chicago won 24-13. (AP Wirephoto))

Grand Valley Ends Northern Streak

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

It wasn't quite the end of the world, but it was the end of a wonderful and magical winning streak and Northern Michigan creaked very deeply when it all came crashing down.

"It's hard to go on forever," Northern Coach Gil Krueger said. "How many did we win? I don't even know for sure, 18?"

The Wildcats' string of football triumphs was 18, and it came to an end Saturday when Grand Valley State's Lakers pulled off a 31-14 non-conference upset. The "Cats" reign as the No. 1 small college power probably also ended with the bitter defeat at Allendale.

But Northern Michigan has one comfort — in two weeks, it has the opportunity to take its second straight National Collegiate Athletic Association Division II crown.

In Great Lakes Conference play Saturday, Northwest edged Saginaw, 14-7. In nonleague games, Ferris State demolished St. Norbert, Wis., 42-0, and Wayne State nipped Ashland, Ohio, 31-28. Minnesota-Duluth defeated Michigan Tech, 21-14 in a Northern Intercollegiate Conference finale.

Grand Valley recovered five Northern fumbles and intercepted three passes en route to its victory. Two of the fumble recoveries came in the second quarter and enabled the Lakers to build a 14-0 advantage.

Northern was unable to rally until it faced a 24-0 deficit, but more mistakes enabled Grand Valley to hang on in the fourth

Church League Holds Meeting

The Twin City Church basketball league will hold its final meeting Wednesday, Nov. 17, at 7:30 p.m. at the St. Joseph Methodist Church.

The divisions in the league include high school, grade school and elementary. For more information call Sam Rizzo at 925-0235.

"I didn't tell the players much special before the game," Grand Valley Coach Jim Harkema said after a victory ride to the shower. "I just read off the names of the seniors and told them I thought they were winners."

The Lakers finished their season with an 8-2 record, while the Wildcats completed regular season play at 10-1. Northern enters the eight-team Division II playoff series in two weeks.

Northwood successfully avoided a four-way tie for first place in the GLIAC by stopping Saginaw. The Northwestern wound up with a 4-1 conference mark, while Wayne, Ferris and Grand Valley all finished at 3-2 in the league.

Saginaw failed on two scoring chances late in the fourth quarter, and finished the year at 4-7. The Cardinals lost all five GLIAC games this season. St. Norbert had a terrible Saturday, but junior halfback Chuck Evans of Ferris had his best ever. Evans carried 18 times for 232 yards and scored four touchdowns — one on a school record-tying 95-yard sprint.

The Bulldogs posted their first shutout since 1973, and closed the season at 3-5.

Ashland twice jumped into 14-point leads, but Wayne State rallied, scoring 17 points in the final six minutes to take the victory. Bill Kelley's 22-yard field goal with 11 seconds remaining in the game allowed the Tartars to finish with an 8-2 mark, tying the school record for victories in a season.

Michigan Tech's Jim VanWagner lost his NCAA Division II rushing championship on the last play in the last game of his college career Saturday. His bid for a third straight title was lost when Duluth's Ted McKnight, who was tied with VanWagner going into the last play, ran 28 yards. McKnight finished with a 148.8-yard per game average, while VanWagner wound up at 145.5 for the year.

Both teams closed the season at 5-2 in the NIC and 7-3 overall.

Class D Finals May Be Repeat

Flint Holy Rosary Next For Marcellus

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Upper Peninsula prep football power Crystal Falls Forest Park, the 1975 Class D state champion, and Flint Holy Rosary, the team it beat for the title, may meet again.

Forest Park topped Harbor Springs by 48 points in the final Region 4 standings, and will play Manistee Catholic Central in a Class D semifinal game at Thirby Field in Traverse City. That game, and all the semifinals, will be this coming Saturday at 1:30 p.m.

Holy Rosary suffered a 50-0 thrashing by Forest Park in the state finals last year. If the Flint school wins its semifinal game with Marcellus at DeWitt High, and if Forest Park stops Manistee, last year's finalists will have a return bout.

Class A's 1975 champ, Livonia Franklin, was not as fortunate this year. Farmington Hills Harrison won a tight battle for that Region 2 berth, and will face Region 1 champion Madison Heights Lamphere in a semifinal game at Pontiac's Wisner Stadium.

The other Class A semifinal contest pits Midland Dow and Lincoln Park at Lansing's Sexton Memorial Field.

Dearborn Divine Child, 1975 Class B champs, will sit out this year's playoffs. Region 1 sends East Grand Rapids against Mt. Pleasant of Region 2, in a semifinal bout at Houseman Field in Grand Rapids. Okemos will represent Region 3 against Novi at Rochester Community Field.

Ishpeming defeated Hudson for the 1975 Class C crown, but neither will appear in this year's finals. Hudson had a 9-0 season, but placed a distant third behind Flat Rock in Region 2. Ishpeming failed to show.

Flat Rock meets Galesbur-gAugusta in Class C semifinals at C.W. Post Field in Battle Creek, while Onaway and Bay City All Saints battle for another Class C finals berth at Mt. Pleasant High School.

The 1976 finals will be played at the Pontiac Silverdome on Saturday, Nov. 27. The Class D finale is scheduled for 10 a.m., with Class A at 1 p.m., Class C at 5 p.m. and Class B at 8 p.m.

Notre Dame Holds Off Tide Rally

Late Interception Keys Win

By MARC ROSENWASSER
Associated Press Writer
SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Bear Bryant said Notre Dame made Alabama look "like we were children" in the first half. But the kids grew up in a hurry and almost won the game.

As it was, the 18th-rated Irish escaped with a 21-16 college football victory Saturday, handing the 10th-ranked visi-looked like a dummy scrimmage. It didn't look that way in the second half, however. The Crimson Tide charged back from a 21-7 halftime deficit, narrowing the gap to 21-13 on the first play of the final period when Jeff Rutledge hit Ozzie Newsome on a 30-yard scoring pass and Newsome ran for the two-point conversion.

From there, it was simply a matter of the hard-pressed Irish holding off the surging Tide. And Alabama, riding a crest of momentum, swept down the field late in the game. Rutledge passed to Thad Flanagan for 14 yards, Tony Nathan ran for 18 yards and Rutledge hooked up with Newsome on another bomb, this time for 37 yards. Suddenly it was Alabama ball, first and 10 on the Irish nine-yard line.

The clock showed a little more than four minutes remaining and outcome hung in the balance. It was then that Rutledge made a mistake, he says, he'll remember for a long time. The sophomore quarterback went back to pass and was intercepted when he threw into a crowd in the middle of the field. Halfback Pete Cavan, who had circled out of the backfield, was all alone in the right corner of the end zone, waving frantically toward the quarterback. But Rutledge never saw him.

"I tried to force it. I didn't see Pete (Cavan). Everyone told me he was wide open," Rutledge lamented after the game. "I should have thrown to Ozzie (Newsome) and no one could have gotten it. I tried to get it to Thad (Flanagan). It was my fault. What hurts is that we came back so hard to let it get away like that."

"All we can do now is look to Auburn. But I'm going to think about this one for a long time."

Broncos Slow Down Cards Title Drive

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A not-so-funny thing happened to Ball State on the way to an apparent Mid-American Conference football championship: The Cardinals lost to Western Michigan 24-10.

So now the MAC title scramble goes down to the last Saturday with four teams in the picture to replace Miami. Besides Ball State, Ohio University, Central Michigan and Kent State can still win it.

Ball State can still decide its own destiny, winning a sole title if it succeeds at Eastern Michigan for a 4-1 league record.

But, if the Cardinals stumble for the second straight week, Ohio can become the champion with a 6-2 league record. That depends on the Bobcats beating Northern Illinois.

Central Michigan and Kent State could be champions if

Ball State and Ohio lose. The Chippewas and the Flashes would share the crown with 5-2 marks if Central wins at Western Michigan and Kent masters visiting Toledo.

Kent and Central Michigan kept alive their slim hopes by winning Saturday, the Flashes beating Miami 24-17 in the last two minutes and the Chippewas thumping Northern Illinois 31-9.

Nonconference action saw Curtis Williams score three times in Cincinnati's 35-0 romp over Ohio, freshman tailback Doug Wiener do the same in Bowling Green's 35-7 victory over Southern Illinois. Eastern Michigan fell to Illinois State 14-6 and Toledo whacked Marshall 39-8 as quarterback Jeff Heppinstall tied a school record by figuring in five touchdowns.

Dave McClain, Ball State coach, had no trouble pin-

pointing the reason for the Cardinals' loss. "Five fumbles and one interception. That's exactly why we lost," he snarled.

Western Michigan halted Ball State drives three of five times inside the 10-yard line. "We worked harder this week on goal-line offense because we were a little shaky last week and look what happens," said McClain.

Ediot Uzelac, Western Michigan's coach, termed it a great victory and said, "We bent but we never busted under Ball State's drives. Offensively, we came into this game to play power football and I think we succeeded."

Supplying the offensive punch were St. Joseph's Doug Lincoln, with two touchdowns, and Jerome Persell, with 197 yards rushing. Still, Western is out of the chase with a 3-3 league record.

"They also contained our speed with a 2-3 zone."

'BULLPEN'

The term "Bulpen" in baseball is believed to have originated in 1888 because some pitchers warmed up under a sign advertising Bull Durham tobacco.

Davenport College Drops LMC In Season Opener

GRAND RAPIDS — Wayne Moreland tossed in 20 points as Davenport College toppled Lake Michigan College 91-80 here Saturday night in the season opener for the Indians.

Davenport held a 38-27 halftime lead and LMC could get no closer than eight in the second half.

Fred Walker and Warren Harrison each scored 20 for the Indians.

Foul trouble plagued LMC as starters Leon Lewis, Virgil Savage and Duane Wright each played less than half the game.

"After we lost the three starters, Davenport controlled the backboard," Harvey said.

WOLVERINES ROUT ILLINOIS

U-M, OSU Play For Title Again

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Did anyone really expect the Big Ten football race to end differently?

What a blow has been suffered by those who have insisted the conference is moving away from the "Big Two-Little Eight" syndrome.

But next Saturday at Columbus it'll be Michigan vs. Ohio State again for the conference championship and Rose Bowl trip — the way it's been every year since 1968.

Michigan rolled to a 38-7 triumph Saturday over Illinois to rebound strongly from the upset by Purdue a week earlier. The victory gives the Wolverines a chance to win a share of the Big Ten title if they can beat Ohio State.

The Buckeyes enter the showdown with a 7-0 conference record (8-1 overall) and can do no worse than tie for the title if they lose. Michigan is 6-1 (9-1 overall).

back on the winning track, to bring the team's emotions back to high gear and show people we're still No. 1," said Michigan quarterback Rick Leach. He ran for a touchdown and passed for two more, giving him 13 TD passes for the season to tie with Bob Chappuis for the team record set in 1947.

"Against Ohio State we'll have to play faultless ball and open up early," Leach said.

Fullback-tailback Rob Lytle scored three Michigan touchdowns and rushed for 89 yards to give him 3,085 career yards and make him the team's all-time leading ground gainer by 13 yards over Billy Taylor (1968-71).

After three years, the rivalry between Ohio State and Michigan has become infectious and I'm looking forward to the game," Lytle said.

Michigan was ranked first until the loss to Purdue, then fell to fourth. Ohio State is eighth.

It took the Wolverines 11 plays to drive 61 yards on their first possession to score on an 11-yard Leach sweep. Illinois came back with its own 61-yard march. Clabby Phillips going the last two yards for the score.

Dan Deaver's extra point kick tied him with fabled Red Grange for the Illini scoring record of 184 points.

The game turned around when Phillips, two plays after U-M punter Greg Willner fumbled a snap, lost his own fumble at the Michigan 23. Soon afterward, Lytle scored on a five-yard pass from Leach. A little later, Leach threw a 7-yard TD pass to Mark Schmege, just before halftime. Lytle scored on runs of 13 and

3 yards in the third quarter and Bob Wood kicked a 37-yard field goal in the fourth.

Leach completed nine of 15 passes for 151 yards, wingback Jim Smith grabbing six for 127 yards.

Illinois closes out its season at home Saturday against intrastate rival Northwestern.

Former South Haven runner Dave Bartels earned All-American honors Saturday by finishing 17th in the Division III National Cross Country championships at Case Western University in Cleveland, Ohio. Bartels, now a senior at Aquinas, finished the five-mile race in 25:40. The top 25 runners out of the 341 participants earned All-American honors.

Three southwestern Michigan athletes are listed on Kalamazoo College winter sports rosters. Dzwagiac's Bob Waukes is a freshman basketball player, while Benton Harbor Junior Barb Kurth and Three Oaks freshman Melinda Russell are on the women's swimming team. Kurth played field hockey this past fall and was one of five Huron players selected for special honors by the Michigan Collegiate Field Hockey Association.

Toronto Hit At Box Office

TORONTO (AP) — The Toronto Blue Jays may strike out often on the baseball field in their first American League season next year, but the team promises to be a hit at the box office.

A club spokesman said Monday that the club has sold 5,000 season tickets in the one month they have been available. The team seems likely to set a record for season ticket sales by an expansion franchise.

MSU Upset By Wildcats

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Northwestern's Wildcats finally received the breaks and took advantage of them and as a result "We no longer possess the nation's longest losing streak," said Coach John Pont.

Northwestern recovered four fumbles, two by Malcolm Hunter, and intercepted one pass — also by Hunter — to snap a 15-game, two-season losing streak Saturday with a rousing 42-21 Big Ten football triumph over Michigan State.

"At no time during the season did we talk about the losing streak," said Pont. "The players were aware of it. But the team was never down despite the streak."

"Many things happened to us this year — mistakes, injuries — but we won't use them as excuses now that we no longer own a losing streak," said Pont.

Northwestern pounced on two fumbles in the early minutes and led 10-0 with Michigan State having had only two plays from scrimmage and the Wildcats walked off the field at intermission with a precarious 13-7 advantage.

Michigan State quickly erased it as the Spartans took the second half kickoff and marched 87 yards for a touchdown on a two-yard run by Rich Baes to go ahead 14-13.

Northwestern countered with a three-yard touchdown run by Pat Geegan but Michigan State came right back for a 21-20 lead on a 65-yard scoring jaunt by Baes.

It was time for Northwestern to go into its folding act but the Wildcats didn't quit.

Scott Yelvington outwrestled

Guy Drut Banned

LONDON (AP) — The International Amateur Athletic Federation has suspended for life the Olympic hurdler champion Guy Drut of France following his recent admission he received illegal payments to run. British newspapers reported Monday.

They said Paulen added that Drut will be allowed to keep the gold medal he won in the 110 meters at the Montreal Olympics because he is back no money before winning.

Drut, 35, admitted in interviews that he received appearance money in a number of track and field competitions.

IAAF officials said the decision to ban Drut was "very sad," but necessary in order to let the world see that something is being done about amateurs on the take.

However, in France, Drut said in a radio interview that he was "untroubled" by the move.

Dave Duda for a 47-yard pass to set up a 30-yard touchdown pass from Randy Dean to Mark Bailey and Northwestern went ahead to stay. Hunter's interception of an Ed Smith pass set up the clinching score.

"They can talk about speed and blazers all they want," said Pont. "But there is not a better receiver in the Big Ten than Scott Yelvington. The catches he made were tremendous."

Michigan State Coach Darryl Rogers was equally impressed with Dean's passing.

"I said last week Randy Dean was the best quarterback we've faced and he proved it," said Rogers.

Dean completed 12 of 23 passes for 272 yards while Smith, who went into the game as the Big Ten's leading passer, connected on 13 of 29 for 183 yards.

Michigan State suffered a serious blow in the first quarter when Smith completed a 14-yard pass to Mike Cobb. Cobb injured his right knee and was unable to play the rest of the way.

"The loss of Cobb hurt our offense tremendously," said Rogers.

"When they lost Cobb, they lost a super player," said Pont.

It was the last home game of the season for the Wildcats who drew only 15,204 or 21 more than they attracted the previous week against Minnesota.

Streaking McNab Paces Bruins' Win Black Hawks Stop Kings

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
With 63 games remaining in the Boston Bruins' regular season, center Pete McNab is just seven goals away from tying his career high of 24 for one season.

That's right, 17 goals in 17 games, including five two-goal performances, as the Bruins have soared to a seven-point lead over the second-place Buffalo Sabres in the National Hockey League's Adams Division.

"He definitely knows where the net is," said veteran Boston right wing Bobby Schumatz, who converted a McNab pass for a goal in the Bruins' 5-3 triumph over the Colorado Rockies Sunday night.

McNab, the 24-year-old center who signed with the Bruins as a free agent last summer, led Boston to its fifth straight unbeaten game and kept the team unbeaten in eight home games with his latest two-goal effort.

In the other NHL games, the Pittsburgh Penguins downed the New York Rangers 5-1, the Chicago Black Hawks trimmed the Los Angeles Kings 5-4, the Minnesota North Stars and the Buffalo Sabres tied 4-4, and the Cleveland Barons nipped the Washington Capitals 3-2.

McNab's second goal of the game broke a 3-3 tie in the third period and gave Boston the victory.

Pierre Larouche scored a goal

and set up two others, and goalie Dunc Wilson stopped a penalty shot, helping the Penguins hand the Rangers a team record seventh straight home loss.

The penalty shot was awarded New York's Bill Goldsworthy, who was hooked from behind by Ron Stackhouse while breaking in alone.

Phil Russell's third-period goal, a 50-footer, helped the Black Hawks extend the Kings' winless streak to five games. Alain Daigle had brought Chicago even at 4-4 late in the second period after scores by Mike Murphy, Marcel Dionne and Tom Williams had put Los Angeles in front.

Bill Hogaboam scored twice, helping Minnesota tie Buffalo. Pierre Jarry and Glen Sharpley also scored for the North Stars, while Craig Ramsay's goal with 7:54 remaining tied the game for the fourth time. Andre Savard, Gil Perreault and Rick Martin were the other Sabres scorers.

Mike Christie's first goal of the season, 15 seconds into the third period, lifted Cleveland over Washington. Doug Patey and Bob Sirois gave the Capitals a 2-1 lead after Cleveland's Wayne Merrick opened the scoring. Then Al MacAdam tied it for the Barons, who went on to their third straight road victory.

SMC Is Third In CC Nationals

FARMINGTON, N.Y. — Mike Myers won All-American honors Saturday in leading Southwest Michigan College to a third place finish in the National Junior College Cross Country championships here.

Myers, the team's only sophomore, worked his way from the reserve squad to the number one man during the season. He finished 16th overall in a field of nearly 400. Crossing the finish line in 24:06, the fastest time of his career, Meyer showed what coach Ron Gunn meant when he said, "there is only one race that counts in cross country and that's what a runner spends his time getting ready for."

Allegheny Community College of Pittsburgh ran away with the number one spot, posting a near-perfect 18 points. Allegheny's Robin Holland led the pack, finishing in 23:26.2. Pinna College of Tucson, Arizona, was second with 118 points, while SMC had 133.

After Myers, Calvin McQueen was 30th, Jerry Freyberg 32nd, Dave Finest 35th, and Gary Gottardi 37th.

Gunn spoke highly of his young team. "A lot of teams choked here today, but we weren't one of em. We could have been tougher. There's no doubt about that. Except for Myers, I know each of the guys could have run a lot better race. Most of that was just inexperience. We're about one year away from running tough on the national level."

"Now we have to build for next year. We've got the stuff. We just have to put it together."

Pistons Capture Sixth Straight

Bucks Now NBA's Worst

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
How are you holding up, Larry Costello?

"I think I've been through enough hard times the last several months that I think I can stand it," says the Milwaukee Bucks' coach. "I'm not going to give up."

Weaker men might have thrown in the towel by now. In the short span of a little over a season, the Bucks have gone from good to bad and now have the dubious distinction of the worst record in the National Basketball Association.

The Bucks didn't enhance their status, either, with a 104-83

loss to the Detroit Pistons Sunday night.

Costello kept the locker room closed for nearly a half-hour and later emerged with his eyes moist and red-rimmed and his voice on the verge of breaking. He admitted he had read the riot act to his squad.

"I like to think they're playing hard," Costello said after the Bucks lost their 11th game in 14 starts. "But if they are, they've got to be playing harder because the league is so darn tough and we're not winning."

Defensive specialist Chris Ford, hospitalized with a severe virus earlier Sunday, poured in 20 points to spark Detroit past the Bucks. Kevin Porter added 18 points and Bob Lanier 16 for the Pistons, who won their sixth successive game and handed the Bucks their sixth defeat in the last seven starts.

In other NBA action, Cleveland nipped Los Angeles 97-95 and Seattle turned back Indiana 121-118.

drove up the lane to break a 95-93 tie.

Slick Watts scored 25 points and Bruce Seals added 21 to lead Seattle over Indiana. The victory was Seattle's 23rd consecutive regular season triumph at the Seattle Coliseum, in a string dating back to Feb. 8.

NFL Begins Its Legal Action Against Lottery

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — The National Football League was scheduled to begin its legal offensive against the nation's first state operated sports betting games today in a U.S. District Court suit against Delaware.

The NFL has filed for a permanent injunction against the state's Scoreboard Lottery, which consists of two betting games tied to the outcome of pro football contests.

It also has asked for a cash award judgment of all money taken in by the sports betting games to be placed in a fund for NFL charities.

Central to the dispute are questions of whether the Scoreboard Lottery is a lottery at all within the definitions of state and federal laws and whether the football league and its members can claim that sports betting tied to pro games violates its property and trademark rights.

In its pretrial brief, the NFL argued that Delaware was seeking "a free ride" from league and member team property and trademark rights by basing its betting games on the outcome of NFL events.

It also charged that the lottery violated state and federal laws partly because it involved more than pure chance to win.

The state, in its pretrial response, denied any violation of state or federal law and argued that the NFL has no protectable property rights because football games and scores fall in the public domain.

Delaware's lottery is the first state operated sports betting system and it raised the ire of the NFL last summer when state officials first announced plans for two games. Touchdown and Football Bonus, known jointly as the Scoreboard Lottery.

Touchdown requires players to consider point spreads but bet on only three, four or five games. Football Bonus requires picks on all seven games listed in a pool but involves no point spreads. Both allow bets of $1 to $10 on a card.

Scoreboard weekly sales have averaged less than an eighth of what was initially expected, a showing which state officials blamed only partly on the dispute with the NFL.

Three of a kind might be okay in poker, but it was nothing but losers in International Hockey League play Sunday night.

Of the four games played, three clubs scored three goals each and all three lost. Port Huron trounced Dayton, 7-3; Kalamazoo blasted Flint, 10-3, and Saginaw downed Toledo, 7-3. Columbus and Fort Wayne skated to a 5-5 tie in the other game.

Mike McDougal and Len Fontaine each scored twice as the Port Huron Flags trounced the Dayton Gems. Bud Stefanski, Larry Gould, and Dave Wilson also scored for the Flags. Les Auge scored twice and Paul Nicholson had one goal for the Gems.

Genovy contributed one goal and three assists, as the Wings upped their record to 7-6-1 and moved into a first-place tie with idle Muskegon in the North Division of the IHL.

Jim Koffey, Mike Clarke and Bob Hoffmeyer scored for Flint, now 5-8-3.

Saginaw took advantage of 33 minutes of penalties assessed the Toledo during the second period to drub the Goaldiggers.

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Who is Iowa State and why are the Cyclones doing such bad things to the Orange Bowl?

The Cyclones have gone along for years serenely minding their own business as one of the doormats of the Big Eight Conference, with a brief flurry of excitement when Johnny Majors took them to the 1971 Sun Bowl and the 1972 Liberty Bowl and then took off for Pittsburgh. Even so, this is only their third winning season since 1960.

So it comes as quite a surprise to see Iowa State — unheralded, unranked and, as yet, uninvited — tied for the lead in the rugged Big Eight Conference with Nebraska, Oklahoma, Colorado and Oklahoma State.

And you can bet it came as a shock to the Orange Bowl people when the Cyclones upended ninth-ranked Nebraska 37-28 Saturday and put the onus of selecting a host team for the New Year's Night game squarely on the shoulders of the selection committee.

And as of late Sunday night, the committee still was scratching its collective head trying to solve the dilemma because the odds are that the race will end in a three-way tie among Colorado — which has only Iowa State left — and the winners of the Nebraska-Oklahoma and Iowa

Southern Cal square off for the Pacific-8 crown and the host spot in the Rose Bowl, while fourth-ranked Michigan and No. 8 Ohio State wage their annual war for Big Ten-Rose Bowl honors.

Meanwhile, sixth-ranked Maryland blanked Clemson 20-0, clinching at least a tie for its third consecutive Atlantic Coast Conference title.

Pitt's Dorsett fell short of the 200-yard mark when he was ejected with 29 seconds remaining after exchanging punches with several West Virginia tacklers. With one regular-season game left — against archrival Penn State on Nov. 28 — Dorsett has 1,724 yards for the season — the major college mark is 1,881 — and 5,538 in his record-shattering career.

Sub tailback James Owens, an Olympic hurdler, scored two of UCLA's three second-period touchdowns as the Bruins whipped Oregon State 43-14. Meanwhile, Southern Cal kept up the Pac-8 pace by downing Washington 20-3 as Vince Evans passed for one score and set up another while ailing Ricky Bell was held to 21 yards on 12 carries.

Rob Lytle scored three times and became Michigan's all-time rushing leader with 3,085 yards as the Wolverines rebounded from last week's upset loss to Purdue and belted Illinois 38-7.

Ohio State, however, remained one game ahead of Michigan with a tough 9-3 triumph over Minnesota on Jim Paenata's tie-breaking fourth-yard run in the second period. Michigan must beat the Buckeyes to reach the Rose Bowl; Ohio needs only a tie.

After Maryland stretched its record ACC winning streak to 19 games in a row, Coach Jerry Chiles broke a season-long silence on his unbeaten team's status in the national rankings.

"They deserve to be No. 1 or No. 2," he said.

Iowa State's Earle Bruce was not making any such claims but he was quite excited after Dexter Green ran for two scores and Luther Blue returned a kickoff 95 yards for another touchdown against Nebraska.

Terry Miller may be the greatest thing that ever has happened to Oklahoma State. He rushed for 221 yards and tied the Big Eight record of five touchdowns against Kansas State.

Tenth-ranked Alabama and No. 18 Notre Dame are not in contention for the national championship this year, but they played a thriller, with the Irish winning 21-18 behind Rick Slag's 208-yard first-half passing, including a 56-yard touchdown bomb to Dan Kellner.

Rounding out the Top Twenty, No. 16 Texas A&M bounced No. 13 Arkansas out of the SWC chase 31-10, Kentucky upset 15th-ranked Florida 28-9 and Wake Forest kayaked No. 20 South Carolina 10-7.

East Carolina lost in Furman 17-10 and must win or tie against Appalachian State to take Southern Conference honors. Ball State blew a chance to win in the Mid-American Conference, losing to Western Michigan 24-10, but the Cardinals have another shot next week against Eastern Michigan.

The Ivy League wound up in a tie between Brown, a 21-7 winner over Columbia, and Yale, which downed Harvard 21-7.

Rutgers defeated Tulane 29-20 and extended the nation's longest winning streak to 17 games, while Northwestern ended the longest losing streak at 16, whipping Michigan State 42-21. Army reduced the number of teams with perfect records to four — Pitt, Texas Tech, Maryland and Rutgers — by disposing of Colgate 29-13.

Bambrick captured the 100-yard individual medley (1:05.9) and the 100-yard breaststroke (2:45.5) and was a member of the medley relay champs in the boys 11-12 division. Charlie Grandy, Pete Song and Chris Huas joined Bambrick on the relay team which won in 2:13.3.

Among other St. Joe winners, June Russell won the 50-yard breaststroke (2:41.3) and Maureen Kinney took the 50-yard breaststroke (2:38.5) in the girls 11-12 class.

Amy Porritt was the 100-yard breaststroke winner in 1:21.2 in the girls 13-14 class, while Mike Kolenda took the 50-yard freestyle (2:51.9) in the boys 13-14 division.

Chinery took the 200-yard freestyle (2:33.3) and 50-yard butterfly (2:40.0), while also competing on the winning medley relay team in girls 8-10 class. Lori Worthington, Shawn Kolenda and Robyn Conard also

Grand Valley Ends Northern Streak

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

It wasn't quite the end of the world, but it was the end of a wonderful and magical winning streak and Northern Michigan cared very deeply when it all came crashing down.

"It's hard to go on forever," Northern Coach Gil Krueger said. "How many did we win? I don't even know for sure, 18?"

The Wildcats' string of football triumphs was 18, and it came to an end Saturday when Grand Valley State's Lakers pulled off a 31-14 non-conference upset. The "Cats" reign as the No. 1 small college power probably also ended with the bitter defeat at Allendale.

But Northern Michigan has one comfort — in two weeks, it has the opportunity to take its second straight National Collegiate Athletic Association Division II crown.

In Great Lakes Conference play Saturday, Northwood edged Saginaw, 14-7. In nonleague games, Ferris State demolished St. Norbert, Wis., 42-0, and Wayne State nipped Ashland, Ohio, 31-28. Minnesota-Duluth defeated Michigan Tech, 21-14 in a Northern Intercollegiate Conference finale.

Grand Valley recovered five Northern fumbles and intercepted three passes en route to its victory. Two of the fumble recoveries came in the second quarter and enabled the Lakers to build a 14-0 advantage.

Northern was unable to rally until it faced a 24-0 deficit, but more mistakes enabled Grand Valley to hang on in the fourth quarter. "I didn't tell the players much special before the game," Grand Valley Coach Jim Harkema said after a victory ride to the shower. "I just read off the names of the seniors and told them I thought they were winners."

The Lakers finished their season with an 8-2 record, while the Wildcats completed regular season play at 10-1. Northern enters the eight-team Division II playoff series in two weeks.

Northwood successfully avoided a four-way tie for first place in the GLIAC by stopping Saginaw. The Northern wound up with a 4-1 conference mark, while Wayne, Ferris and Grand Valley all finished at 3-2 in the league.

Saginaw failed on two scoring chances late in the fourth quarter, and finished the year at 4-7. The Cardinals lost all five GLIAC games this season.

St. Norbert had a terrible Saturday, but junior halfback Chuck Evans of Ferris had his best ever. Evans carried 18 times for 232 yards and scored four touchdowns — one on a school record-tying 95-yard sprint.

The Bulldogs posted their first shutout since 1973, and closed the season at 5-5.

Ashland twice jumped into 14-point leads, but Wayne State rallied, scoring 17 points in the final six minutes to take the victory. Bill Kelley's 22-yard field goal with 11 seconds remaining in the game allowed the Tartars to finish with an 8-2 mark, tying the school record for victories in a season.

Michigan Tech's Jim VanWagner lost his NCAA Division II rushing championship on the last play in the last game of his college career Saturday. His bid for a third straight title was lost when Duluth's Ted McKnight, who was tied with VanWagner going into the last quarter, ran 26 yards. McKnight finished with a 148.8-yard per game average, while VanWagner wound up at 145.5 for the year.

Both teams closed the season at 5-2 in the NIC and 7-3 overall.

Class D Finals May Be Repeat

Flint Holy Rosary Next For Marcellus

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Upper Peninsula prep football power Crystal Falls Forest Park, the 1975 Class D state champion, and Flint Holy Rosary, the team it beat for the title, may meet again.

Forest Park topped Harbor Springs by 48 points in the final Region 4 standings, and will play Manistee Catholic Central in a Class D semifinal game at Thirty Field in Traverse City.

That game, and all the semifinals, will be this coming Saturday at 1:30 p.m.

Holy Rosary suffered a 50-0 thrashing by Forest Park in the state finals last year. If the Flint school wins its semifinal game with Marcellus at DeWitt High, and if Forest Park stops Manistee, last year's finalists will have a return bout.

Class A's 1975 champ, Livonia Franklin, was not as fortunate this year. Farmington Hills Harrison won a tight battle for that Region 2 berth, and will face Region 1 champion Madison Heights Lamphere in a semifinal game at Pontiac's Wisner Stadium.

The other Class A semifinal contest pits Midland Dow and Lincoln Park at Lansing's Sexton Memorial Field.

Dearborn Divine Child, 1975 Class B champs, will set out this year's playoffs. Region 1 sends East Grand Rapids against Mt. Pleasant of Region 2, in a semifinal bout at Houseman Field in Grand Rapids. Okemos will represent Region 3 against Novi at Rochester Community Field.

Ishpeming defeated Hudson for the 1975 Class C crown, and neither will appear in this year's finals. Hudson had a 9-0 season, but placed a distant third behind Flat Rock in Region 2. Ishpeming failed to show.

Cox Beats Orantes For Tennis Title

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Mark Cox, the British veteran nobody had reckoned with, fought off three match points and came from behind to upset third-seed Manuel Orantes of Spain 4-6, 7-5, 7-6 Sunday in the singles final of the $150,000 Stockholm Open tennis tournament.

In a remarkable comeback, Cox rallied from 3-5 in the last two sets before winning the title on his third tiebreaker in two days after a jubilant sellout crowd of 4,500 fans at the Royal Tennis Hall.

It was the biggest tournament victory ever for the 33-year-old lefthander, who upset three other seeded players — including top-seeded American Jimmy Connors in the semifinals — to reach the final.

"But I had more luck beating Manolo (Orantes) than in winning over Connors. I had three match points against me and I won several points on mis-hits and got a few lucky net-cords in my favor. It looks like somebody upstairs was looking after me today," Cox said.

Cox, who now lives in Epsom outside London, became the first unseeded player to capture this indoor tournament since the inaugural event in 1969 when Nikki Pilić of Yugoslavia defeated Ilie Nastase of Romania.

It looked like Orantes would race away to a comfortable victory after taking the first set with ease and then going ahead 5-3 in the second.

Capitalizing on two unforced errors by the Spaniard at the net, Cox broke through in the 10th game to level at 5-all and then held to love for 6-5. Another service break, after Orantes' only double-fault in the match, gave Cox the second set.

Behind 30-40 in the ninth game, Cox saved his first match point with a serve which Orantes returned into the net. Cox survived two more match points with forehand volleys before holding his service. The Briton then evened to 5-all on his third break point with a lucky net cord and both men held service, producing the tiebreaker at 6-6.

Cox took a 6-2 lead — his fourth point coming on another lucky net cord — for four match points.

Cox, who made tennis history in 1968 when he became the first amateur to beat a professional in an open tournament, won $23,000 for his victory. Enroute to the championship, Cox eliminated sixth-seeded Eddie Dibbs of the United States and ninth-seeded Wojtek Fibak of Poland in earlier matches.

WHA Jets Top Cowboys

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Winnipeg Jets abandoned their free-wheeling style Sunday night and gave the Calgary Cowboys a lesson in defensive play in registering a 2-0 victory in a World Hockey Association game.

The triumph gave Winnipeg sole possession of first place in the Western Division and made Coach Bobby Kromm happy.

The Cowboys remained three points ahead of the cellar-dwelling Edmonton Oilers in the Western Division and three points behind the fourth-place San Diego Mariners. San Diego dropped a 6-3 decision Sunday night to the Phoenix Roadrunners.

In Sunday's other WHA game,

the Indianapolis Racers beat the Quebec Nordiques 3-1.

Bill Lesuk scored during a first-period power play and Mats Lindh connected in the third period with his team shorthanded for Winnipeg against Calgary, which had seven victories and a tie in their previous eight games after a dismal start.

Jets goalie Joe Daley was a standout with 31 saves. He made a remarkable stop on Danny Lawson in the first period and held off Warren Miller moments before Lindh notched the clincher in the third.

Rene Leclerc, Hugh Harris and Al Karlander scored for Indianapolis and Marc Tardif connected for the Nordiques.

Quebec remained tied with Cincinnati for first place in the Eastern Division.

John Gray scored a goal in each period, pacing Phoenix over San Diego and into third place, one point ahead of the Mariners. Juhani Tamminen, Michel Cormier and Rob Forek also scored for Phoenix, while Kevin Devine tallied twice and Norm Ferguson once for San Diego.

WCHA Trio Tied For League Lead

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wisconsin and North Dakota swept both games of their weekend series to move into a three-place tie with Michigan at the top of the Western Collegiate Hockey Association.

Wisconsin edged Colorado College 5-4 Saturday night and North Dakota beat Minnesota-Duluth 9-6. Michigan, meanwhile, dropped a 6-5 decision to Notre Dame.

In other WCHA games, defending national champion Minnesota smashed Michigan State 6-2 and Denver defeated Michigan Tech 8-6.

North Dakota, accustomed to sitting in the WCHA cellar, got two goals each from Joe Delure, Erwin Martens and Brad Becker to defeat Duluth, which has not won a WCHA game this season. Five players scored for Duluth while goalie Bill Moen turned back 36 North Dakota shots.

Wisconsin, which has been struggling since it won the national title in 1972, nipped Colorado College with less than two minutes to play. Steve Alley converted a slick pass from Norm McIntosh to give the Badgers the victory at 18:52 of the final period.

Colorado College, which started the weekend tied for second place in the WCHA, fell into a three-way tie for fifth.

Michigan had beaten Notre Dame Friday night but the Wolverines were edged 6-5 by the visiting Irish.

Freshman goalie Paul Joswiak came off the bench with 2:37 left in the first period and freshman forward Eric Strobel scored on a power play to put the Gophers ahead for good against Michigan State.

The Spartans were on the power play with the score tied when starting Minnesota goalie Steve Janaszak was injured. Joswiak blunted the Michigan State attack, Strobel scored his goal and then the Gophers fired in five unanswered goals.

Denver's Terry Schnarr, Craig Rowhl and Chad Campbell each scored two goals in leading the Pioneers to come-from-behind victory over Michigan Tech, the defending WCHA champion.

Tech led 4-3 through most of the third period but Denver winger Tom Dajac scored the tying goal at 7:47 of the final period and Campbell fired in the go-ahead goal at 10:31.

Evert Paces U.S.

LONDON (AP) — The big names are back in the Wightman Cup and the famed women's tennis trophy is back in America.

Chris Evert, by winning her two singles matches, led the United States team to its 5-2 victory at London's Crystal Palace Sports Center. Rosie Casals, who had not played in the Wightman Cup for nine years, teamed with Miss Evert for a victory in the doubles.

Julie Heldman, who captained the U.S. team in 1974, said she thought the Cup matches had become an event for trying out young players.

But after two straight victories by the British, the United States starting taking the Cup seriously again. Even Billie Jean King, who has retired from tournament singles play, was named for the U.S. squad this time, but had to withdraw because of an injury.

This was a turn-around from two years ago when an American team lacking the top stars lost 1-6 to the British. The event appeared to be slipping into second-class category.

Streaking McNab Paces Bruins' Win Black Hawks Stop Kings

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
With 61 games remaining in the Boston Bruins' regular season, center Pete McNab is just seven goals away from tying his career high of 24 for one season.

That's right, 17 goals in 17 games, including five two-goal performances, as the Bruins have soared to a seven-point lead over the second-place Buffalo Sabres in the National Hockey League's Adams Division.

"He definitely knows where the net is," said veteran Boston right wing Bobby Schmautz, who converted a McNab pass for a goal in the Bruins' 5-3 triumph over the Colorado Rockies Sunday night.

McNab, the 24-year-old center who signed with the Bruins as a free agent last summer, led Boston to its fifth straight unbeaten game and kept the team unbeaten in eight home games with his latest two-goal effort.

In the other NHL games, the Pittsburgh Penguins downed the New York Rangers 5-1, the Chicago Black Hawks trimmed the Los Angeles Kings 4-1, the Minnesota North Stars and the Buffalo Sabres tied 4-4, and the Cleveland Barons ripped the Washington Capitals 3-2.

McNab's second goal of the game broke a 3-3 tie in the third period and gave Boston the victory.

Pierre Larouche scored a goal

and set up two others, and goalie Dunc Wilson stopped a penalty shot, helping the Penguins hand the Rangers a team record seventh straight home loss.

The penalty shot was awarded New York's Bill Goldsworthy, who was hooked from behind by Ron Stuckhouse while breaking in alone.

Phil Russell's third-period goal, a 50-footer, helped the Black Hawks extend the Kings' winless streak to five games. Alain Dangle had brought Chicago even at 4-4 late in the second period after scores by Mike Murphy, Marcel Dionne and Tom Williams had put Los Angeles in front.

Bill Hogaboom scored twice, helping Minnesota tie Buffalo. Pierre Jarry and Glen Sharpley also scored for the North Stars, while Craig Ramsay's goal with 7:34 remaining tied the game for the fourth time. Andre Savard, Gil Perreault and Rick Martin were the other Sabres scorers.

Mike Christie's first goal of the season, 15 seconds into the third period, lifted Cleveland over Washington. Doug Patay and Bob Sirois gave the Capitals a 2-1 lead after Cleveland's Wayne Merrick opened the scoring. Then Al MacAdam tied it for the Barons, who went on to their third straight road victory.

SMC Is Third In CC Nationals

FARMINGTON, N.Y. — Mike Myers won All-American honors Saturday in leading Southwestern Michigan College to a third place finish in the National Junior College Cross Country championships here.

Myers, the team's only sophomore, worked his way from the reserve squad to the number one man during the season. He finished 16th overall in a field of nearly 400. Crossing the finish line in 24:06, the fastest time of his career, Meyer showed what coach Ron Gunn meant when he said, "there is only one race that counts in cross country and that's what a runner spends his time getting ready for."

Allegany Community College of Pittsburgh ran away with the number one spot, posting a near-perfect 18 points. The team's only sophomore, worked his way from the reserve squad to the number one man during the season. He finished 16th overall in a field of nearly 400. Crossing the finish line in 24:06, the fastest time of his career, Meyer showed what coach Ron Gunn meant when he said, "there is only one race that counts in cross country and that's what a runner spends his time getting ready for."

Allegany's Robin Holland led the pack, finishing in 23:26.2. Pima College of Tucson, Arizona, was second with 118 points, while SMC had 133.

After Myers, Calvin McQueen was 30th, Jerry Freyberg 32nd, Dave Finnstad 35th, and Gary Gotardi 37th.

Gunn spoke highly of his young team. "A lot of teams choked here today, but we weren't one of em. We could have been tougher. There's no doubt about that. Except for Myers, I know each of the guys could have run a lot better race. Most of that was just inexperience. We're about one year away from running tough on the national level."

"Now we have to build for next year. We've got the stuff. We just have to put it together."

Former major league infielder Tony Cuccinello has retired to the golf courses in Tampa, Fla. His brother Al of Elmort, N.Y., scouts for the Yankees.

Pistons Capture Sixth Straight Bucks Now NBA's Worst

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
How are you holding up, Larry Costello?

"I think I've been through enough hard times the past several months that I think I can stand it," says the Milwaukee Bucks' coach. "I'm not going to give up."

Weaker men might have thrown in the towel by now. In the short span of a little over a season, the Bucks have gone from good to bad and now have the dubious distinction of the worst record in the National Basketball Association.

The Bucks didn't enhance their status, either, with a 104-83

loss to the Detroit Pistons Sunday night.

Costello kept the locker room closed for nearly a half-hour and later emerged with his eyes red and rimmed and his voice on the verge of breaking. He admitted he had read the riot act to his squad.

"I like to think they're playing hard," Costello said after the Bucks lost their 11th game in 14 starts. "But if they are, they've got to be playing harder because the league is so darn tough and we're not winning."

Defensive specialist Chris Ford, hospitalized with a severe virus earlier Sunday, poured in 20 points to spark Detroit past the Bucks. Kevin Porter added 18 points and Bob Lanier 18 for the Pistons, who won their sixth successive game and handed the Bucks their sixth defeat in the last seven starts.

In other NBA action, Cleveland nipped Los Angeles 97-95 and Seattle turned back Indiana 121-118.

A layup by guard Fouts Walker with three seconds remaining gave Cleveland its victory over Los Angeles. Walker, who had not attempted a field goal throughout the game, took the ball near mid-court with 14 seconds left and drove up the lane to break a 95-95 tie.

Slick Watts scored 23 points and Bruce Seals added 21 to lead Seattle over Indiana. The victory was Seattle's 23rd consecutive regular season triumph at the Seattle Coliseum, in a string dating back to Feb. 8.

NFL Begins Its Legal Action Against Lottery

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — The National Football League was scheduled to begin its legal offensive against the nation's first state operated sports betting games today in a U.S. District Court suit against Delaware.

The NFL has filed for a permanent injunction against the state's Scoreboard Lottery, which consists of two betting games tied to the outcome of pro football contests.

It also has asked for a cash

award judgment of all money taken in by the sports betting games to be placed in a fund for NFL charities.

Central to the dispute are questions of whether the Scoreboard Lottery is a lottery at all within the definitions of state and federal laws and whether the football league and its members can claim that sports betting tied to pro games violates its property and trademark rights.

In its pretrial brief, the NFL argued that Delaware was seeking "a free ride" from league and member team property and trademark rights by basing its betting games on the outcome of NFL events.

It also charged that the lottery violated state and federal laws partly because it involved more than pure chance to win.

The state, in its pretrial response, denied any violation of state or federal law and argued that the NFL has no protectable property rights because football games and scores fall in the public domain.

Delaware's lottery is the first state operated sports betting system and it raised the ire of the NFL last summer when state officials first announced plans for two games. Touchdown and Football Bonus, known jointly as the Scoreboard Lottery.

Touchdown requires players to consider point spreads but bet on only three, four or five games. Football Bonus requires picks on all seven games listed in a pool but involves no point spreads. Both allow bets of $1 to $10 on a card.

Scoreboard weekly sales have averaged less than an eighth of what was initially expected, a showing which state officials blamed only partly on the dispute with the NFL.

Out Of World Beauty Pageant

LONDON (AP) - Zanella Tshabalala, 19-year-old Miss Swaziland, and Anne-Lise Lesur, 18-year-old Miss Mauritius, came to London to compete in the Miss World beauty contest. But they are going to wind up on the sidelines.

Their countries on Sunday withdrew their entries from the contest to protest the presence of two entrants from South Africa, one black and one white.

Breakaway Lutherans Pick Name

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, Ill. (AP) - Representatives of breakaway parishes of the Lutheran Church Missouri Synod met Friday to form a new synod to be called the English Synod.

A spokesman for the group said the new synod will consist of 75 parishes, 68 of which broke away from the Missouri Synod in June in a doctrinal dispute.

Eighteen of the parishes are located in Chicago. The others are in Minnesota, Michigan, Wisconsin, Indiana and Downstate Illinois, the spokesman said.

Dr. Harold Hecht of Detroit, acting president, was formally given the post of president by a unanimous vote.

The English Synod and five others being formed across the country as a result of a conservative-moderate split over literal interpretation of the Bible plan to meet in Chicago in December to create the Association of Evangelical Lutheran Churches.

Cox Beats Orantes For Tennis Title

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Mark Cox, the British veteran nobody had reckoned with, fought off three match points and came from behind to upset third-seed Manuel Orantes of Spain 4-6, 7-5, 7-6 Sunday in the singles final of the $150,000 Stockholm Open tennis tournament.

In a remarkable comeback, Cox rallied from 3-5 in the last two sets before winning the title on his third tiebreaker in two days before a jubilant sellout crowd of 4,500 fans at the Royal Tennis Hall.

It was the biggest tournament victory ever for the 33-year-old left-hander, who upset three other seeded players — including top-seeded American Jimmy Connors in the semifinals — to reach the final.

"But I had more luck beating Manolo (Orantes) than in winning over Connors. I had three match points against me and I won several points on mis-hits and got a few lucky net-cords in my favor. It looks like somebody upstairs was looking after me today," Cox said.

Cox, who now lives in Epsom outside London, became the first unseeded player to capture this indoor tournament since the inaugural event in 1969 when Nikki Pilić of Yugoslavia defeated Ilie Nastase of Romania.

It looked like Orantes would race away to a comfortable victory after taking the first set with ease and then going ahead 5-3 in the second.

Capitalizing on two unforced errors by the Spaniard at the net, Cox broke through in the 10th game to level at 3-all and then held to love for 6-5. Another service break, after Orantes' only double-fault in the match, gave Cox the second set.

Behind 30-40 in the ninth game, Cox saved his first match point with a serve which Orantes returned into the net. Cox survived two more match points with forehand volleys before holding his service. The Briton then evened to 3-all on his third break point with a lucky net cord and both men held service, producing the tiebreaker at 6-6.

Cox took a 6-2 lead — his fourth point coming on another lucky net cord — for four match points.

Cox, who made tennis history in 1968 when he became the first amateur to beat a professional in an open tournament, won $23,000 for his victory. Enroute to the championship, Cox eliminated sixth-seeded Eddie Dibbs of the United States and ninth-seeded Wojtek Fibak of Poland in earlier matches.

WHA Jets Top Cowboys

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Winnipeg Jets abandoned their free-wheeling style Sunday night and gave the Calgary Cowboys a lesson in defensive play in registering a 2-0 victory in a World Hockey Association game.

The triumph gave Winnipeg sole possession of first place in the Western Division and made Coach Bobby Kromm happy.

The Cowboys remained three points ahead of the cellar-dwelling Edmonton Oilers in the Western Division and three points behind the fourth-place San Diego Mariners. San Diego dropped a 6-3 decision Sunday night to the Phoenix Roadrunners.

In Sunday's other WHA game,

the Indianapolis Racers beat the Quebec Nordiques 3-1.

Bill Lesuk scored during a first-period power play and Mats Lindh connected in the third period with his team short-handed for Winnipeg against Calgary, which had seven victories and a tie in their previous eight games after a dismal start.

Jets goalie Joe Daley was a standout with 31 saves. He made a remarkable stop on Danny Lawson in the first period and held off Warren Miller moments before Lindh notched the clincher in the third.

Rene Leclerc, Hugh Harris and Al Karlander scored for Indianapolis Racers of the World Hockey Association.

Quebec remained tied with Cincinnati for first place in the Eastern Division.

John Gray scored a goal in each period, pacing Phoenix over San Diego and into third place, one point ahead of the Mariners. Juhani Tamminen, Michel Cormier and Rob Forek also scored for Phoenix, while Kevin Devine tallied twice and Norm Ferguson once for San Diego.

New Manager

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Brian Conacher, who provided ABC hockey commentary at the Winter Olympics, is to become business manager of the Indianapolis Racers of the World Hockey Association.

WCHA Trio Tied For League Lead

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wisconsin and North Dakota swept both games of their weekend series to move into a three-place tie with Michigan at the top of the Western Collegiate Hockey Association.

Wisconsin edged Colorado College 5-4 Saturday night and North Dakota beat Minnesota-Duluth 9-6. Michigan, meanwhile, dropped a 6-5 decision to Notre Dame.

In other WCHA games, defending national champion Minnesota smashed Michigan State 6-2 and Denver defeated Michigan Tech 8-4.

North Dakota, accustomed to sitting in the WCHA cellar, got two goals each from Joe Delure, Erwin Martens and Brad Becker to defeat Duluth, which has not won a WCHA game this season. Five players scored for Duluth while goalie Bill Moeen turned back 36 North Dakota shots.

Wisconsin, which has been struggling since it won the national title in 1972, nipped Colorado College with less than two minutes to play. Steve Alley converted a slick pass from Norm McIntosh to give the Badgers the victory at 18:52 of the final period. Colorado College, which started the weekend tied for second place in the WCHA, fell into a three-way tie for fifth.

Michigan had beaten Notre Dame Friday night but the Wolverines were edged 6-5 by the visiting Irish.

Freshman goalie Paul Joswiak came off the bench with 2:37 left in the first period and freshman forward Eric Strobel scored on a power play to put the Gophers ahead for good against Michigan State.

The Spartans were on the power play with the score tied when starting Minnesota goalie Steve Janaszak was injured. Joswiak blunted the Michigan State attack. Strobel scored his goal and then the Gophers fired in five unanswered goals.

Denver's Terry Schnarr, Craig Howl and Chad Campbell each scored two goals in leading the Pioneers to come-from-behind victory over Michigan Tech, the defending WCHA champion.

Tech led 4-3 through most of the third period but Denver winger Tom Dajac scored the tying goal at 7:47 of the final period and Campbell fired in the go-ahead goal at 10:31.

Evert Paces U.S.

LONDON (AP) — The big names are back in the Wightman Cup and the famed women's tennis trophy is back in America.

Chris Evert, by winning her two singles matches, led the United States team to its 5-2 victory at London's Crystal Palace Sports Center. Rosie Casals, who had not played in the Wightman Cup for nine years, teamed with Miss Evert for a victory in the doubles.

Julie Heldman, who captained the U.S. team in 1974, said she thought the Cup matches had become an event for trying out young players.

But after two straight victories by the British, the United States starting taking the Cup seriously again. Even Billie Jean King, who has retired from tournament singles play, was named for the U.S. squad this time, but had to withdraw because of an injury.

This was a turn-around from two years ago when an American team lacking the top stars lost 1-4 to the British. The event appeared to be slipping into second-class category.

ANOTHER WIN FOR NADIA: The 15-year-old Romanian gymnastic prodigy, Nadia Comaneci, smiles as she holds her trophy after winning the women's individual title in the Chunichi Cup international gymnastic competition in Nagoya, Japan, Sunday with a nearly perfect 39.75 points in four events. Comaneci, who won the all-around individual gold medal at the Montreal Summer Olympics, performed with grace and rhythm before 7,000 spectators at the Auchi Prefectural (state) Gymnasium. NEWS OF MARKETS

Stocks Continue To Sink

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market continued sinking today, unable to break out of its post-election slump.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks fell more than 3 points in the early going. Losers opened up a 4-3 lead over gainers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Trading was moderate. Brokers said the market seemed simply to lack any motivating force to reverse the downtrend of the past two weeks.

Analysts noted that Wall Street still faced the major question of what pricing decision members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries would make next month.

Today's early prices included Texaco, down 1/4 at 25 1/4; Beatrice Foods, up 1/4 at 27; and American Telephone & Telegraph, off 3/4 at 61 3/4.

On Friday the Dow Jones industrial average slipped 3.74 to 927.69, extending its loss for the week to 15.38 points.

Losers outnumbered gainers by a 7-6 spread among NYSE-listed issues, and the exchange's composite index dropped 19 to 53.10.

Big Board volume totalled 15.55 million shares.

INVESTORS' GUIDE Borrowing Scheme Doesn't Look Wise

By SAM SHULSKY
Q. We have $37,500 in savings, with about $20,000 of that reserved for house buying. I feel we should own more common stock and am thinking of taking up our bank's offer to lend us money at 5 1/2 per cent for 18 months for this purpose. We would invest part in high yield stocks and part in growth shares.

A. A loan rate of 5 1/2 per cent is certainly low enough, although I don't understand how this would be any different from using your own money. After all, the risk is all yours, whether you buy the stock with funds borrowed against your passbook, or with your own money. Assuming you are getting 5 to 5 1/2 per cent on your $37,500 now, how would you profit by borrowing, say, $15,000 at 5 1/2? True, you get an interest rate deduction for interest paid. But the interest received on the money remaining in the bank, plus dividends from the stock would all be taxable income (after your $200, total, dividend exclusion).

Furthermore, what happens if the market is low at the end of 18 months, when you must repay the loan? Will you take the loss and liquidate, or will you repay from your savings account — which is the money you could have just as well used in the first place?

I think your plan would do things the hard way — like scratching your left ear with your right elbow.

Q. My goal is as high a level of current income as is consistent with safety of capital. I have stocks, $18,500 in a regular savings account, $12,000 in a checking account.

A. Check right there. If you want income, how come you're making a gift of about $1,000 interest a year to some commercial bank for a checking account?

Q. I'd like to study some corporations with a view to possible investment in their shares. But how do I start?

A. You'll find the addresses of these companies in the standard financial manuals at one of your large libraries. Write to the secretary and ask for a copy of the last annual report and any interim reports since then. These will serve as a starter.

Q. I've been widowed and have $20,000 to invest to supplement Social Security and pension. I know nothing about securities except that we once lost money in stocks. Would I be making a mistake to put the money into six-year savings certificates for 7 1/2 per cent? A. Not at all. If you are comfortable with insured bank deposits there is no reason to avoid them for the sake of 8 1/4 per cent from bonds.

Q. I was left a large block of Minnesota Mining stock from my husband's estate. How do I find a broker to sell it so that I can reinvest for more income?

A. You live in one of the country's financial centers. There are literally scores of reputable brokers who can handle the sale for you.

Your problem is not the selling, but the reinvestment of this large amount of money. Be careful. At your age you don't want to try to emulate Hettie Green. Insist on high quality corporation bonds, on Treasuries, and some insured savings accounts.

State Potato Export Starts

By DONALD WOUTAT
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — When a vessel shipped out of Port Huron for Algeria last week, she began what Michigan potato growers hope will be a new era.

Laden with 4,000 tons of homegrown spuds, she is steaming toward European nations that suffered a severe drought this year and produced less than half their normal crop of potatoes.

It was the first time Michigan potatoes have been exported in five or six years, and it has already resulted in a "bullish" attitude that has boosted local potato prices to growers, state officials say.

"We're hoping to ship one or two more boatloads before the harbors freeze," said Roy Kaschky, executive director of the Michigan Potato Industry Commission. "And we're hoping that potato exports will become a regular thing."

The drought in Europe came at a good time for Michigan potato growers, who had a bumper crop this year, according to Kaschky. The production of nearly a billion pounds was about 20 per cent above last year's low harvest.

That depressed prices until the potato commission hooked up with brokers eager to satisfy the sudden need for spuds in Europe.

"They're great potato eaters over there, you know," Kaschky remarked.

Even while the boat was being loaded at Port Huron, prices to Michigan growers went up 3/4 cents a pound, according to Kaschky.

"It was a psychological reaction," he said. "As soon as you hear of exports, growers start feeling bullish."

In the past, Michigan, which ranks 10th in U.S. potato production, didn't yield enough potatoes to feed its own population, much less other nations. This year, there are enough to send overseas.

"We can fill a number of boatloads," Kaschky said. "It's just a question of whether we can load them fast enough before freezeup."

He said that for competitive reasons, the brokers wouldn't tell him where the potatoes are bound. Algeria is the official explanation, but somewhere in Europe is the real destination, he said.

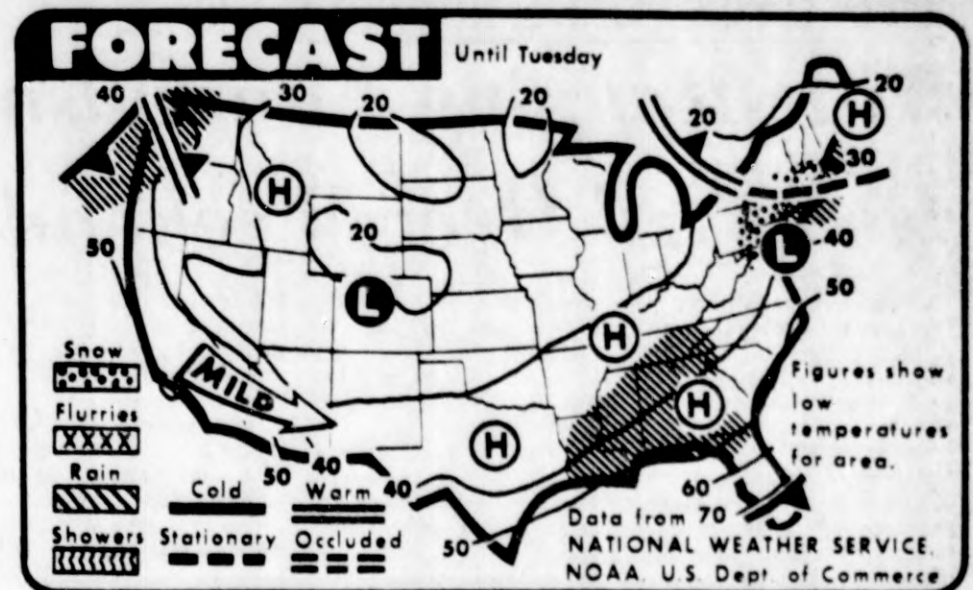

One obstacle to potato exports in the past has been inspection requirements of the importing countries, says John Dreves, assistant chief of the plant industry division of the state Agriculture Department.

But this year, France was so hungry for potatoes that it waived until February its demands for field inspections and agreed to inspections at storage sites or loading docks, Dreves said.

The result of all this could mean a change in the tastes of Europeans — or a change in growing procedures of American producers.

Kaschky says the French like "yellow flesh" potatoes, which aren't grown much in this country. He said some growers here are already talking about raising the cream-colored spuds.

Unless the white rounds on their way from Michigan — most of them from the Montcalm County area — prove popular in France.

BEFUDDLEMENT IN BANKING
More than 44 per cent of the millions of you who are customers of savings institutions are unaware of the exact interest rate you are receiving on your savings account. A startling 52.2 per cent of you are not sure whether or not there's a difference between the way commercial banks and thrift institutions determine the base total on which interest paid to you is calculated.

Fewer than 45 per cent of you understand that, when interest is "compounded," you earn interest on your interest as well as on your primary deposit.

This confusion is underlined in a recent survey by the Unifund Corp. of Bloomington, Ind. Yet it's not surprising, considering the crazy-quilt of institutions and services you face when trying to figure out how to earn the most on your savings, where to borrow at the best rate, what type of checking account services are the least costly to you, even where to complain if you feel you have been mistreated.

If you write lots of checks, for instance, you can pay from zero to more than $80 a year for checking services at different institutions; major banks throughout the U.S. compute interest on savings accounts in more than 50 ways.

Or if you have a gripe about an institution, you can't even direct your complaint to the proper source until you determine whether the institution is state or federally chartered.

What's more, both banks and thrift institutions either have been unable or reluctant to provide you with accurate and complete information to help you compare costs and services.

During one month a while ago, as an illustration, a small Vermont savings bank offered 36-month new car loans to its customers at an interest rate of 5 1/2 per cent. Simultaneously, a subsidiary of a Florida regional bank holding company was charging customers 14 1/2 per cent for the same type loans.

Disclosure of the major disparities came only after data on consumer loan rates had been leaked to a national magazine (Consumer Reports). The Federal Reserve Board fought a 19-month battle against the data's release, and even launched an FBI probe to find the leaker.

Adding to the complexities is the fact that the financial industry itself is on the brink of changes which will blur the once clear-cut lines between commercial banks and other institutions. If financial reform advocates succeed, you soon will be able to go to a savings and loan for a car loan, to a mutual savings bank for a credit card, to a credit union for a trust account — all services so-called thrift institutions cannot now legally provide.

Basically, there are four major types of financial institutions: commercial banks, which offer the widest range of services; savings and loan associations, which traditionally provide much of the money to finance home building and buying; mutual savings banks, which operate mostly in the Northeast and provide some of the services of both banks and S&Ls; and credit unions, which are cooperative organizations specializing in providing their members with small low-cost, short-term loans as well as savings services.

These last three are known as thrift organizations and are allowed to pay higher rates of interest on savings than commercial banks. It was in the 1930s that legal ceilings were placed on the interest that commercial banks could pay small savers and payment of interest on checking accounts was prohibited. Similar lids were

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, Ill. (AP) — Representatives of breakaway parishes of the Lutheran Church - Missouri Synod met Friday to form a new synod to be called the English Synod.

A spokesman for the group said the new synod will consist of 75 parishes, 68 of which broke away from the Missouri Synod in June in a doctrinal dispute.

Eighteen of the parishes are located in Chicago. The others are in Minnesota, Michigan, Wisconsin, Indiana and Downstate Illinois, the spokesman said.

Dr. Harold Hecht of Detroit, acting president, was formally given the post of president by a unanimous vote.

The English Synod and five others being formed across the country as a result of a conservative-moderate split over liberal interpretation of the Bible plan to meet in Chicago in December to create the Association of Evangelical Lutheran Churches.

Out Of World Beauty Pageant

LONDON (AP) — Zanetta Tshababala, 18-year-old Miss Swaziland, and Anne-Lise Lesur, 18-year-old Miss Mauritius, came to London to compete in the Miss World beauty contest. But they are going to wind up on the sidelines.

Their countries on Sunday withdrew their entries from the contest to protest the presence of two entrants from South Africa, one black and one white.

TWIN CITIES POLICE ROUNDUP

Wide-Ranging Vandalism Reported Over Weekend

Vandals struck the Twin City area over the weekend leaving damage ranging from broken windows to torn up sod at a park, according to reports filed with five police agencies.

Berrien sheriff's deputies Saturday investigated damage at a vacant factory building where 40 interior light and two exterior lights were broken. The building, owned by Industrial Belting and Supply, Indianapolis, Ind., is located at Roosevelt road south of Glenford road, Lincoln township, and is for sale.

Sheriff's officers reported that a windshield broken by shotgun pellets may have been the work of a vandal or careless use of firearms. Leo L. Niezgodski, South Bend, said the windshield of his car was struck by shotgun pellets on Red Bud trail near Snow road, Oronoko township. Niezgodski was not injured.

Sheriff's officers also said three mailboxes were broken off on Bundy road, Hagar township, and apparently run over by a vehicle.

Benton township police reported a light pole at Lake Michigan College was snapped off, allegedly by two men using their hands. They then drove away in a Cadillac, according to a report filed by a security guard.

St. Joseph township police said cars tore up sod and knocked over trash barrels at Carronde park, Fairplain, and Riverview park, Niles road. Also reported to township police was a slashed tire on the car of Ward Groves, 233 Bradford drive, Fairplain.

Six windows were reported broken at the home of Estella White, 592 Green avenue, early Sunday, Benton Harbor police reported.

In St. Joseph, police said a pellet gun was used to break the headlight of a car driven by William Oehler, 2088 East Empire avenue, Benton township, in the 1000 block of Church street. A pumpkin was reported thrown through a porch window at the home of Larry Wismer, 1619 Lakeview drive.

St. Joseph police said Elroy Dekine, 44, Benton Harbor was arrested early today on a charge of attempted assault with a deadly weapon.

Police said they were called to the apartment of Glodine Catchings, 2704 Lake Shore drive, about 1:25 a.m. where a man reportedly forced his way inside brandishing a handgun. Police said two men at the apartment, identified as Jerry Jones and Eric Tarrance, Benton Harbor, told police they disarmed the man and held him for police. Police said Glodine Catchings reported she became frightened and jumped from the second floor window of her apartment, but was not seriously hurt and sought no medical treatment. Police said a .32 caliber handgun was seized.

Dekine, 833 Edgumbe court, was booked at the Berrien county jail.

One man was hospitalized and another was arrested, after a stabbing incident investigated by Benton Harbor police about 2:20 p.m. Saturday.

Listed in "fair" condition at Mercy hospital this morning was George Barnes, 30, of 1063 Pavone street, Benton Harbor.

Arrested on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon was Jerry Partee, 40, of 1064 Pavone. Seized by police was a paring knife. Police said Barnes reported he was stabbed at his home during a quarrel with another man over a woman.

City police at 9:58 p.m. Saturday, investigated another stabbing and reported they did not obtain any information from the injured man. He was identified as David Byndom, 28, of 534 East Britain avenue, Benton Harbor. Police said Byndom was treated for three small cuts about the chest and released from Mercy hospital. Police said Byndom was found in an alley off the 400 block of Territorial road.

State police at the Benton Harbor post said two men and a woman were booked on charges of carrying a concealed weapon after two separate traffic stops Saturday on I-94 in Benton township. Reported seized were two handguns.

Arrested at 12:25 a.m. Saturday on I-94 at I-196 were Georgia A. Rankin, 58, and James S. Tate, 67, both of Chicago. Arrested at 5:40 a.m. Saturday on I-94 near East Empire avenue was Robert L. Ramsey, 37, Milwaukee, Wis.

St. Joseph police said a 16-year-old South Bend boy was booked on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon (a knife with a 6-inch blade) and lodged in the Berrien county juvenile detention center, Berrien Center, early Sunday.

Police said they received a report at 1:35 a.m. of a person knocking on apartment doors in the 800 block of Ship street. The youth was arrested soon afterwards while hitchhiking in the 2000 block of Niles avenue, police said.

St. Joseph police Saturday afternoon investigated a report of indecent exposure by a man standing inside the entrance foyer of the Elks lodge, 518 Broad street. No arrest has been made.

Police said the incident was reported at 2:13 p.m. by a woman who told police a man exposed himself as she walked past. He was described as being white, in his 30's and wearing a mustache. The investigation is continuing, police said.

Larry D. Hamilton, 20, of 483 Paw Paw avenue, Benton Harbor, was booked on a charge of violating the controlled substance act (possession of marijuana) after state troopers stopped an auto for speeding on I-94, Lincoln township, about 8:05 p.m. Saturday, according to the Benton Harbor state police post.

Troopers said they seized a small bag of suspected marijuana after the driver of the stopped auto allegedly threw something to the ground.

State police of the Benton Harbor post said a small safe was found Saturday by two hunters in Sodus township.

Trooper Douglas Murphy said the black safe was 18 by 10 by 13-inches and had been pried open. A check with area police didn't turn up any recent safe burglary reports. "There was nothing inside the safe except cobwebs," Murphy said.

The safe was discovered in a snowbank off River road, just north of Naomi road by Glenn Parritt of 2595 Naomi road who said he was hunting with his grandson, Kevin Parritt, 13.

A goat, auto, tools, CB radios and $1,300 in household goods were among thefts reported to Twin Cities area police over the weekend.

Diane Genda, route 1, box 30, US-12, Galien, told Berrien sheriff's deputies Sunday her three-year-old female goat, valued at $125, was stolen. She said the fawn-colored animal with white spots does not usually wander off by itself.

Also reported stolen, deputies said, was a tool box and tools, valued at $575, from a storage building at 6904 US-33, Hagar township, owned by George Vogel, 5200 US-33, Hagar township.

Benton Harbor police said stereo equipment, 100 record albums, camera, two suits and a .38 caliber revolver, all valued at $1,300, were reported stolen from the apartment of Leroy Hunt, 685 Pavone street. A $129 CB was also reported stolen to Benton Harbor police from the car of Anna Mae Jones, 1724 Plympton avenue, Benton township, parked in a lot in the 300 block of Territorial road.

Thefts reported to Benton township police were: —A 1970 Chrysler from the driveway of Sammy Williams, 1721 Council drive.

—A CB, two CB antennas, tool box and precision tools, all valued at $425, from the car of Thomas Cagle, Pleasant View Estates, South Haven, parked at the Joker's club, M-139 and Riverside road.

State police of the Benton Harbor post said Timothy Holly, Jr., 808 West Front street, Buchanan, reported his CB radio of unreported value was stolen from his car parked at Fairplain Plaza.

St. Joseph police said a wallet containing $46, a bowling ball and bag were reported stolen from a car owned by Mimi K. Beutler, 2512 Dover lane, St. Joseph township. The car was parked in the 500 block of Broad street.

NEW BUFFALO — Damage to an auto vandalized here yesterday morning has been estimated at $500 by New Buffalo police.

Paul Heppler, a resident of the Woodgreen apartments, Buffalo street, told police he discovered that four windows to his auto had been broken and three tires had been slashed. The auto was damaged sometime between 3 and 4:30 a.m. while parked in the apartment parking lot, police said.

TWIN CITIES POLICE ROUNDUP

Wide-Ranging Vandalism Reported Over Weekend

Vandals struck the Twin City area over the weekend leaving damage ranging from broken windows to torn up sod at a park, according to reports filed with five police agencies.

Berrien sheriff's deputies Saturday investigated damage at a vacant factory building where 40 interior light and two exterior lights were broken. The building, owned by Industrial Belting and Supply, Indianapolis, Ind., is located at Roosevelt road south of Glenford road, Lincoln township, and is for sale.

Sheriff's officers reported that a windshield broken by shotgun pellets may have been the work of a vandal or careless use of firearms. Leo L. Niezgodski, South Bend, said the windshield of his car was struck by shotgun pellets on Red Bull trail near Snow road, Oronoko township. Niezgodski was not injured.

Sheriff's officers also said three mailboxes were broken off on Bundy road, Hagar township, and apparently run over by a vehicle.

Benton township police reported a light pole at Lake Michigan College was snapped off, allegedly by two men using their hands. They then drove away in a Cadillac, according to a report filed by a security guard.

St. Joseph township police said cars tore up sod and knocked over trash barrels at Carronde park, Fairplain, and Riverview park. Niles road. Also reported to township police was a slashed tire on the car of Ward Groves, 233 Bradford drive, Fairplain.

Six windows were reported broken at the home of Estella White, 362 Green avenue, early Sunday, Benton Harbor police reported.

In St. Joseph, police said a pellet gun was used to break the headlight of a car driven by William Oehler, 2085 East Empire avenue, Benton township, in the 1000 block of Church street. A pumpkin was reported thrown through a porch window at the home of Larry Wisner, 1619 Lakeview drive.

St. Joseph police said Elroy Dekine, 41, Benton Harbor was arrested early today on a charge of attempted assault with a deadly weapon.

Police said they were called to the apartment of Gladine Catchings, 2704 Lake Shore drive, about 1:25 a.m. where a man reportedly forced his way inside brandishing a handgun.

Police said two men at the apartment, identified as Jerry Jones and Eric Tarrance, Benton Harbor, told police they disarmed the man and held him for police. Police said Gladine Catchings reported she became frightened and jumped from the second floor window of her apartment, but was not seriously hurt and sought no medical treatment. Police said a .32 caliber handgun was seized.

Dekine, 41, Edgecumbe court, was booked at the Berrien county jail.

One man was hospitalized and another was arrested, after a stabbing incident investigated by Benton Harbor police about 2:20 p.m. Saturday.

Listed in "fair" condition at Mercy hospital this morning was George Barnes, 30, of 1063 Pavone street, Benton Harbor. Arrested on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon was Jerry Partee, 40, of 1064 Pavone. Seized by police was a paring knife. Police said Barnes reported he was stabbed at his home during a quarrel with another man over a woman.

City police at 9:58 p.m. Saturday, investigated another stabbing and reported they could not obtain any information from the injured man. He was identified as David Byndom, 28, of 534 East Bristol avenue, Benton Harbor. Police said Byndom was treated for three small cuts about the chest and released from Mercy hospital. Police said Byndom was found in an alley off the 400 block of Territorial road.

State police at the Benton Harbor post said two men and a woman were booked on charges of carrying a concealed weapon after two separate traffic stops Saturday on I-94 in Benton township. Reported seized were two handguns.

Arrested at 12:25 a.m. Saturday on I-94 at I-196 were Georgia A. Rankin, 58, and James S. Tate, 67, both of Chicago. Arrested at 3:40 a.m. Saturday on I-94 near East Empire avenue was Robert L. Ramsey, 37, Milwaukee, Wis.

St. Joseph police said a 16-year-old South Bend boy was booked on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon (a knife with a 6-inch blade) and lodged in the Berrien county juvenile detention center, Berrien Center, early Sunday.

Police said they received a report at 1:35 a.m. of a person knocking on apartment doors in the 800 block of Ship street. The youth was arrested soon afterwards while hitchhiking in the 2000 block of Niles avenue, police said.

St. Joseph police Saturday afternoon investigated a report of indecent exposure by a man standing inside the entrance foyer of the Elks lodge, 518 Broad street. No arrest has been made.

Police said the incident was reported at 2:13 p.m. by a woman who told police a man exposed himself as she walked past. He was described as being white, in his 30's and wearing a mustache. The investigation is continuing, police said.

Larry D. Hamilton, 20, of 481 Paw Paw avenue, Benton Harbor, was booked on a charge of violating the controlled substance act (possession of marijuana) after state troopers stopped an auto for speeding on I-94, Lincoln township, about 8:05 p.m. Saturday, according to the Benton Harbor state police post.

Troopers said they seized a small bag of suspected marijuana after the driver of the stopped auto allegedly threw something to the ground.

State police of the Benton Harbor post said a small safe was found Saturday by two hunters in South township.

Trooper Douglas Murphy said the black safe was 18 by 10 by 13 inches and had been pried open. A check with area police didn't turn up any recent safe burglary reports. "There was nothing inside the safe except cobwebs," Murphy said.

The safe was discovered in a snowbank off River road, just north of Naomi road by Glenn Parritt of 2595 Naomi road who said he was hunting with his grandson, Kevin Parritt, 13.

A goal, auto, tools, CB radios and $1,300 in household goods were among thefts reported to Twin Cities area police over the weekend.

Diane Genda, route 1, box 30, US-12, Galien, told Berrien sheriff's deputies Sunday her three-year-old female goat, valued at $125, was stolen. She said the fawn-colored animal with white spots does not usually wander off by itself.

Also reported stolen, deputies said, was a tool box and tools, valued at $575, from a storage building at 6904 US-33, Hagar township, owned by George Vogel, 5200 US-33, Hagar township.

Benton Harbor police said stereo equipment, 100 record albums, camera, two suits and a .38 caliber revolver, all valued at $1,300, were reported stolen from the apartment of Leroy Hunt, 685 Pavone street. A $129 CB was also reported stolen to Benton Harbor police from the car of Anna Mae Jones, 1724 Plympton avenue, Benton township, parked in a lot in the 300 block of Territorial road.

Thefts reported to Benton township police were: —A 1970 Chrysler from the driveway of Sammy Williams, 1721 Council drive. —A CB, two CB antennas, tool box and precision tools, all valued at $425, from the car of Thomas Cagle, Pleasant View Estates, South Haven, parked at the Joker's club, M-139 and Riverside road.

State police of the Benton Harbor post said Timothy Holly, Jr., 808 West Front street, Buchanan, reported his CB radio of unreported value was stolen from his car parked at Fairplain Plaza.

St. Joseph police said a wallet containing $46, a bowling ball and bag were reported stolen from a car owned by Mimi K. Butcher, 2512 Dover lane, St. Joseph township. The car was parked in the 500 block of Broad street.

NEW BUFFALO — Damage to an auto vandalized here yesterday morning has been estimated at $500 by New Buffalo police.

Paul Hepler, a resident of the Woodgreen apartments, Buffalo street, told police he discovered that four windows to his auto had been broken and three tires had been slashed. The auto was damaged sometime between 3 and 4:30 a.m. while parked in the apartment parking lot, police said.

EDWARDSBURG — Cass county sheriff's deputies reported they arrested three Elkhart, Ind., men on charges of possession of stolen property last night.

The three were identified as Kim Mackowicz, 20; Roger Lucas, 28; and Cecil Lay, 30.

Police said the three were arrested after a shotgun was confiscated from their car which had been stopped for an alleged traffic violation near here.

According to police, a shotgun valued at $700 had been reported stolen earlier from a turkey shoot being held near Edwardsburg.

Hoosier Held On Gun Charge

NEW BUFFALO — A Michigan City man was arrested yesterday afternoon here on charges of carrying a concealed weapon and driving under the influence of intoxicants. New Buffalo city police said.

Arrested on the charge was the driver of an auto stopped on US-12, Richard Everly, 41. A passenger in the auto, Lawrence Leslie, 27, also Michigan City, was arrested on a charge of drunk and disorderly, police said.

Police said the auto was stopped for alleged erratic driving at 4:20 p.m. A .22 caliber revolver was confiscated, police said.

Troopers said they seized a

CHAMP'S MOVIE BIOGRAPHY

Takes Three To Play Ali

Q: Is Muhammad Ali really playing himself in his own movie biography? — B.B., San Francisco

A: That's right — with two young actors playing him as a child and then as the youthful Cassius Clay. Lonette McKee plays Ali's "second" wife which will be a composite character since his first and second wives wouldn't allow their names to be used without a six-figure pay-off to each, which both Ali and the film's producer nixed.

Q: What about that actress Stockard Channing? Everyone said she was going to be a big can be seen shortly in a passionate love scene with David Carradine in "Welcome to LA" and also has a brief musical number in "New York, New York," the musical De Niro has just finished with Liza Minnelli.

Q: Is Ali MacGraw ever going to make another movie? — A.L., Houston.

A: Ali indeed wants to go back to work, say all her Hollywood friends. And although not as temperamental as husband Steve McQueen, she does hold strong views about her own image as an actress. She sees herself as a romantic young thing and roles for romantic young things are just not being written these days. Besides, Ali is over 35. Also, she has never been praised much as an actress, so character roles might prove difficult and too much of a challenge.

Q: Any truth that "Fonzie" Winkler and Roz "Pinky Tuscadero" Kelly are fighting on the set of "Happy Days"? — P.G., St. Paul, Minn.

A: No fights, per se, but as they say in Hollywood, don't invite them to the same party.

Q: Just how old is Marlene Dietrich and what's she up to these days? — B.W., Fort Smith, Ark.

A: Recently widowed after being married to Rudolf Sieber for over 50 years, Marlene will be 75 on Dec. 27. She swears she'll never retire either, although she has been slowed down by some bad stage accidents in the last couple of years as she travels around the world with her one-woman show. Reportedly, Marlene is about to write her memoirs and set the clouded record straight since she has often distorted the facts relating to her pre-

Hollywood career in Berlin and her exotic personal life. Her daughter, by the way, the former TV and stage actress Maria Riva, is herself 51 now and quite a plump middle-aged grandmother. Marlene is a constant commuter between apartments in Manhattan and Paris.

Q: Isn't there any limit to the fantastic and soaring salaries the top film stars are getting? Seems to me the whole system's cockeyed. — H.J., Evansville, Ind.

A: Seems that way to some of the people who finance the films, too, and they're weighing what to do about it. A straw in the wind may be what's happening in Italy — a group of leading money men there have announced they're "tired of backing films just to enrich actors" and have issued an ultimatum. No more backing from them, they say, for films featuring stars "whose salaries have been speculatively or artificially increased by their agents." Do you think they mean it?

Q: Ever since little Linda Blair's explosive debut as star in "The Exorcist" I've wondered what kind of men she'd be attracted to. Can you see any trend yet? — E.M., Lexington, Ky.

A: We certainly can. For Linda, it's strictly pop stars. Now 18, she's going steady with British rock idol Glenn Hughes, 27.
